Bill Hikes Wages

Union Agrees To Obey Law

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation on its way to the Commons to prevent a strike of air traffic controllers will also provide for a salary increase.

The legislation is scheduled to be introduced Friday, but the government will ask the House today to change its rules to allow immediate introduction of such emergency bills.

The union has set a strike deadline for 8 a.m. local times Tuesday, Dec. 20.

Revenue Minister Benson gave notice of the strike-preventing bill with the following resolution:

"That it is expedient to introduce a measure to provide for the continuation of air traffic control services; to provide also for an increase in the remuneration of air traffic controllers."

TALKS RESUME TODAY

Negotiations between the government and representatives of the key airport workers resumed at 3 p.m. today, half an hour after the Commons began its daily sitting.

James Conway of Winnipeg, vice-president of the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers' Association, said there will be no attempt by controllers to defy strike-banning legislation.

"We will call off our strike deadline when — and if — Parliament passes this legislation," he said in an interview.

But the association would await the legislation rather than back down from its wage stand.

A strike of the nearly 800 control tower and radar operators who are members of the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers Association would halt all air traffic except for small aircraft able to take off and land without assistance.

Negotiating teams from the CATCA and the treasury board spent 2½ hours in talks Wednesday night before adjourning until today. Mr. Benson stood by in his office, ready to take part in the talks if called.

Last week, Gilles Gregoire (Ind. — Lapointe) denied the government unanimous consent to bring in emergency legislation dealing with the West Coast longshoremen's strike.

A motion to change the rules is also expected to be introduced today. It would make it necessary for at least 10 members to oppose the introduction of emergency legislation to prevent the 48-hour notice being waived.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux agreed to an Opposition demand for an emergency debate of the air traffic controllers situation Wednesday.

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker accused the government of holding a club over the controllers' heads by threatening to bring in legislation outlawing a strike while negotiations were still going on.

NDP Leader Douglas said the government had no choice but

LBJ READY TO TALK EXTENDED CEASEFIRE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson made known through his press secretary Wednesday night that he is ready to discuss an extended ceasefire in Vietnam, includng a freeze on troop reinforcements "if the other side is responsive".

When press secretary Bill D. Moyers was asked whether that meant the United States is ready to talk over with the other side in the war the specific issues of an extended ceasefire and a "stand-fast" by both sides he replied, "Yes".

This latest White House comment reflects guarded speculation among top United States officials that the Christmas truce might possibly open up possibilties for peace talks of much broader significance.

BOMB RAIDS

Red Protest 'Mild Rebuke'

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Kremlin today protested at American bombing raids on Hanoi and demanded that the United States call a halt to its "aggression" in Vietnam.

In a government statement read over Moscow radio, the Soviet Union said the latest raids seriously aggravated international tension.

It warned the U.S. government not to forget the Warsaw pact nations' July declaration, in which they pledged to send volunteers to Vietnam if Hanoi asked for them.

It said U.S. air raids on residential districts of Hanoi Tuesday and Wednesday had killed and injured people in the North Vietnamese capital.

The Soviet statement, first of its kind on Vietnam for many months, struck observers here by the relative mildness of its tone, which was less threatening than past Kremlin statements on this subject.

WILL GIVE AID

The statement said Russia "has provided and will continue to provide all-around assistance to the Vietnamese people in its heroic struggle against the criminal aggression of American imperialism."

The U.S. government, "which is working for a further extension of the war in Vietnam, should not forget the warning made by the socialist states at the meeting in Bucharest early in July," it cautioned.

U.S. Admits Residential Area Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department acknowledged today the "possibility" that residential areas may have been hit during the Tuesday and Wednesday bombing by U.S. aircraft of military targets five miles from the centre of Hanoi.

Officials said, however, that any civilian casualties were either the result of an accident or unavoidable "incidents" in connection with the primary objective of hitting key transportation facilities.

The targets for the two days were the Vendien railway marshalling yards and depot five miles south of the centre.

NEW VANCOUVER MAYOR

Major Upset By Campbell

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tom Campbell, a flamboyant millionaire lawyer and real estate developer, became the youngest mayor in the history of Vancouver, Wednesday night, defeating incumbent William Rathie by fewer than 2,000 votes.

CAMPBELL
. . . youngest in history

Mr. Campbell polled 41,073 votes to Mr. Rathie's 39,843 in one of the closest election races in the city's history.

Jean Rands, the only other mayoralty candidate, who described herself as a Marxist-Socialist, polled 6,534 votes. Miss Rands, 21, is editor of a Socialist magazine published in Toronto.

The 39-year-old mayor-elect, an alderman for five years, said during the campaign: "I have the ability — I made my first million before I was 28."

RAN AS INDEPENDENT

He said he had no political affiliations and ran as an independent.

Mr. Rathie, backed by the powerful Non-Partisan Association which has controlled Vancouver civic politics since the Second World War, was the major casualty in the NPA's slate of city council hopefuls.

The NPA, described by its opponents as a coalition of Liberal and Conservative politicians, seated eight aldermen in the 10 council seats up for grabs. Two independents, one a far left labor candidate, also won council seats.

The mayoralty contest was a close count all the way — from the time polls closed at 8 p.m. until final returns were in early today.

As in most Vancouver elections, the west side of the city favored one candidate and the east side favored the opposition.

"Normally speaking, if you can get the vote in the west end of the city you can win without the east end," said Mr. Rathie. "But I was beaten all over — I didn't get the support in western

Cabinet Split Over Endorsation

Not all of the provincial cabinet, much less the voters, were behind Premier Bennett's endorsation of Vancouver Mayor William Rathie's campaign for a third term.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson today revealed the cabinet split over the premier's first open intrusion into civic politics which turned into a disaster.

Significantly, Mr. Peterson is the cabinet's chief spokesman in Vancouver, the mantle he inherited when Attorney-General Robert Bonner was beaten in Vancouver-Point Grey and had to get back into the legislature as a Cariboo MLA.

Finance Firm Losses Soar To $19 Million

Creditors Demand Action

TORONTO (CP)—John Biddell, of Clarkson Co., Ltd., said today the total losses of the bankrupt Prudential Finance Corp., Ltd., will amount to between $19,000,000 and $20,000,000.

He told an obviously angry and frequently shouting meeting of creditors that so far investigations have determined losses of about $17,000,000, and Clarkson as trustee for the bankrupt company is still working on others.

His statement brought gasps of dismay from the 500 creditors who gathered in the Royal Alexandra Theatre in downtown Toronto for the meeting.

The meeting was interrupted by shouts from the floor by creditors asking why the federal or provincial governments had not acted to protect them, demanding criminal and civil actions and criticizing the way the matter has been handled since Prudential Finance's difficulties became apparent early in November.

LAWYER MENTIONED

Frequently mentioned by the creditors was London, Ont. lawyer C. C. Carrothers, a director of Prudential Finance.

Several creditors asked why Mr. Carrothers, who has said he lost $60,000 in the collapse, did not know the company's financial situation.

Others also called out angrily when they learned that Joseph Benoit Brien, Prudential Finance president, was not at the meeting.

Mr. Biddell said Brien, facing six charges including theft and forgery in connection with the investigation of the collapse, is ill according to his lawyers.

At first it had been estimated Prudential Finance's losses would run about $3,500,000. Later this was revised to being "substantially higher" and today's announcement by Mr. Biddell followed a warning that unsecured creditors might get no more than 15 cents on the dollar.

King of Showmen Walt Disney Dies at Age 65

(Times News Services)

HOLLYWOOD — Walt Disney, the master showman, who created the rollicking cartoon characters of Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck and went on to fashion a fabulous entertainment empire, died today at the age of 65.

Disney succumbed at 9:35 a.m. in St. Joseph Hospital — across the street from his movie studio in Burbank—where his left lung was removed last Nov. 21 after doctors found a tumor which had caused an abcess. At the time, doctors and Disney spokesmen declined to say whether the tumor was malignant. The hospital gave circulatory collapse as the cause of death today.

The founder of Disneyland and producer of more than 600 films ranging from the animated cartoon Snow White to the lavish color musical Mary Poppins is survived by his widow, Lillian, and two married daughters.

Disney was entertainment's most successful practitioner. He made a meagre start as an artist with an idea for a comedy cartoon featuring Mickey Mouse—and saw the lively rodent become a world-wide institution.

He pioneered feature - length color cartoons, popularized nature films, expanded into adventure, comedy and musical films. He became a mainstay of television. The fabulous success of his huge amusement park, Disneyland, set the pattern for others elsewhere.

Success and honors piled up in profusion for the creator-tycoon.

Kennedys 'Stunned' By Johnson Actions

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Bennett Cerf, publisher and television personality, was quoted as saying he read an unedited manuscript of a controversial book on the death of President John F. Kennedy and that it described some "unbelievable things that happened after the assassination."

The Yale Daily News, the student newspaper, says Cerf told a banquet audience at Yale's Pierson College Wednesday night that the unedited manuscript of William Manchester's Death of a President described an incident involving the presidential plane at Love Airfield in Texas after the assassination.

The student newspaper quotes Cerf, chairman of the board of Random House, as saying the manuscript depicted the Kennedy people as stunned, remaining at the hospital, while Lyndon Johnson and a small entourage went to Love Airfield, where both the presidential and vice-presidential planes were parked.

IDENTICAL PLANES

The student newspaper's account of Cerf's remarks continues:

"The airplanes were identical in construction and furnishing, he (Cerf) said, except that the presidential plane carried a 'football,' a bag containing all the crucial information about what was to be done in case of nuclear attack.

"According to Mr. Cerf's narration of Manchester's book, the Johnson party reached the airfield first, and, knowing that President Kennedy was dead, boarded the presidential jet. When the Kennedys returned to the airport with the coffin and discovered that the presidential plane was already occupied, they were shocked and infuriated, said Mr. Cerf."

The student newspaper says Cerf described another incident in the unedited manuscript of the book — that President Johnson claims he telephoned Attorney-General Robert Kennedy from Texas shortly after the assassination, asking for advice on whether or not he should be sworn in as president in Dallas or in Washington.

Cerf was quoted as saying that Kennedy now denies he received such a call.

Cerf, reached in New York, confirmed that he had made the remarks, but said, "I was under the impression I was talking off the record." He said he considered it a "wonderful book" and believes that it will influence history.

DONATED GRAIN BECOMES WAGES

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Spring is hunger time in Korea.

The season that should bring joy and new hope to Koreans brings only misery to thousands.

In the cities of Seoul and Mokpo, tenement dwellers now shivering in the nippy Korean wind face a bleak and hungry spring.

A searing drought last summer was followed by severe floods.

And for Koreans, who live in a predominantly agricultural country, droughts and floods are a catastrophe.

Seventy per cent of the population is engaged in farming, yet only a little more than a fifth of the country is suited to agriculture.

Poor soil and outdated farming methods contribute to the unhappy situation and each year Korea is short of its annual grain quota by hundreds of thousands of tons.

Korea is not expected to feed its own population until 1971 and foreign aid is badly needed.

Last year the Unitarian Service Committee, which is supported by funds like The Times' Share with Asian Children Fund, shipped 400,000 pounds of barley to Korea.

Much of it went to the hungriest Koreans whose names appear on USC relief lists.

But practical Koreans have found another use for Canadian grain: It becomes "wages" paid to otherwise unemployed laborers in massive reconstruction and reclamation projects at the rate of eight pounds (50 cents worth) for each working day.

One USC investment of 55,000 pounds of Canadian barley has accomplished this: 55,000 sq. feet of land has been reclaimed from Mokpo harbor, and the Korean work-

PRIVATE EYE DESCRIBES BIZARRE DEVICES

One of 'Better Collections' of Bugs

VANCOUVER (CP)—Private detective Angus Macdonald, a former Vancouver city police drug squad officer, told the royal commission on bugging Wednesday about some of the bizarre devices used to eavesdrop on people electronically.

The inquiry, under former county court judge R. A. Sargent, was called after bugging devices were found at a labor union convention last month.

Evidence has been given that Pat O'Neal, organizer for the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, paid another private detective to bug hotel rooms occupied by delegates to the convention of the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

Mr. Macdonald told the inquiry he was hired by the Canadian union to de-bug hotel rooms, and hired later to de-bug the union's headquarters in suburban Burnaby.

He explained he had one of the "better collections" of bugging and anti-bugging devices, and that many are sold on the open market to detective agencies and police forces.

While he was on the force, he said, he used to make his own equipment. "The sergeant didn't take any notice—just so's I got convictions," he said.

One of his gadgets, he testified, is briefcase size, and by concealing it and hooking it to a telephone line with a fine wire he could tape and record both sides of conversations. He said it was activated by picking up the receiver and would record for eight days.

Among his other equipment was a combination microphone-transmitter the size of a sugar cube, with an effective range of about two blocks.

He said he has "about two" of these, and a special AM-FM receiver for them made up "by a man in Richmond." Richmond is a Vancouver suburb.

With the drug squad, he used hearing aids to bug at a distance of 150 feet and a "spike" microphone that could be pushed into a wall and record. There was also a transmitter that could be carried to scramble voices in a crowd.

"This is to prevent people from bugging you," he said. "California call girls use it."

The pride of the collection, he said, was a $1,000 bug that

Pause to grieve for the two printers we know who were taking an apprentice to Grey Cup weekend in Vancouver to "round out his learning."

First thing they taught him was to sit in the back seat of the car to prepare their libations from a carefully packed suitcase. And they complained all the way because their glasses tasted light and sparkly but lacked a certain essence.

It wasn't until the apprentice told them that the "essence" was all gone that they discovered he had been mixing the sparkle with water they had brought in case anyone wanted to wash his teeth. The apprentice may never be a journeyman.

to accept the recommendations set out by Judge John B. Robinson, who was appointed by the government to inquire into the dispute.

Mr. Benson said flatly the cabinet would not agree to the controllers' wage demands. He said the wage proposals set out by Judge Robinson would mean a 40-per-cent pay increase for the 800 air traffic controllers. He said it was never intended that the judge would recommend specific pay scales. It would upset the entire civil service salary schedule if the Robinson report was implemented.

A trainee under the present scale starts at $4,800 and can move up to a maximum of $9,528. Under the Robinson formula the minimum and maximum would be increased to $5,288 and $11,820.

Spokesmen for the CATCA said the wage rates recommended in the report would mean an average pay increase of between 14 and 17 per cent.

Mr. Benson said the controllers received a 12-per-cent raise on July 1, 1965 and another three per cent on July 1, 1966.

Judge Robinson was proposing an additional 23 per cent which would mean almost 40 per cent in two years, Mr. Benson said.

Judge Robinson said he was surprised at the government's stand that specific wage rates could not be proposed. He said his study of the terms of reference indicated the reverse.

Mr. Benson said the key point in the report that the government finds unacceptable relates to pay comparability with Air Canada despatchers.

could be connected to a phone thousands of miles away.

The bug could be hooked to a phone in Florida, and would be activated by a long-distance call from Vancouver, during which a certain note on a harmonica would be struck. The note would activate the bug, which would then record all incoming and outgoing calls.

Representatives of the British Columbia Telephone Co. also testified at Wednesday's sitting of the commission.

Gordon F. Macfarlane, the company's chief engineer, said the company may seek a tariff amendment that would enable it to tighten up on bugging devices.

He said that under no circumstances did the company condone or assist in wiretapping and that this applied to the city police and the RCMP.

Earlier, Commissioner Sargent ruled the tape recordings made at the labor convention will be made public.

He said legal counsel at the inquiry and members of the press will be allowed to listen to the tapes.

The commissioner made his decision after a lengthy argument from John Laxton, counsel for the Canadian union, who submitted that the inquiry's terms of reference did not give the commissioner the power to hear the tapes.

NATO Review Proposed By Belgium

PARIS (AP)—Belgium, with the support of Britain and Canada, launched a move today for a widespread review and possible revision of the North Atlantic alliance into a more cohesive Atlantic community.

Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel of Belgium made his proposal at the annual meeting of the foreign, defence and finance ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Conference sources said Foreign Secretary George Brown of Britain and External Affairs Minister Paul Martin of Canada gave their enthusiastic endorsement.

Harmel urged the council to authorize Secretary - General Manlio Brosio of NATO to undertake a wide study of the NATO council. He proposed that Brosio submit an interim report in the spring and a final report next December.

Such a review could, in the Belgian view, lead to eventual amendment of the NATO treaty to encourage greater political, economic and military consultation among European members prior to talks with the United States within the NATO structure.

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 45 persons began an all-night vigil in front of the White House Wednesday night to protest what Charles Hook, national chairman of the Student Peace Union, called "the United States bombing of Hanoi as an inhumane and criminal act".

Hook's organization sponsored the protest and was joined by members of the University of Maryland Chapter of Students for a Democratic Society.

A United States serviceman who joined the group was picked up by military police.

DEFENCE

Big Hike In Red Spending

By SIDNEY WEILAND

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia boosted its defence budget by eight per cent today, and said the Kremlin was forced to act because of the Vietnam war and American "aggression."

Soviet spending on defence will total 14,500,000,000 rubles (about $15,950,000,000) in 1967 13.2 per cent of the national budget.

This means an increase of 1,100,000,000 rubles ((about $1,330,000,000) or 8.2 per cent more than the military budget estimates for 1966.

Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov, introducing a record budget in the Supreme Soviet parliament, said Russia was compelled to act because "aggressive actions of the U.S. imperialists" had aggravated the world situation and increased the danger of a new war.

He promised continuing "all-round assistance" to the Vietnam Communists, and said the budget rise would help "further strengthening" of Soviet defences.

The planned increase in military spending followed shortly after a Soiet government statement accusing the United States of raiding residential areas of Hanoi, and warning that the Vietnam war was an outrage "entailing the gravest international responsibility."

(Western experts believe the announced defence spending figure is only about half the total Soviet defence expenditure in any one year, and that the rest of the military funds are hidden in other parts of the budget).

Defence spending by the United States in the current fiscal year ending next June 30, originally budgeted at $58,500,000,000 now is expected to run around $67,000,000,000 to $68,000,000,000. There has been no indication whether defence outlays in the following fiscal year will be higher or lower than that.

The total budget for 1967 provides for revenues of 110,100,000,000 rubles (about $122,110,000,000) and expenditures of 10,900,000,000 rubles (about $120,890,000,000). Both figures set an all-time high. The Soviet Union puts an official value of $1.11 on the ruble.

The rise in military spending follows a pattern set in 1966, when the Vietnam war was blamed for a five-per-cent increase.

That increase reversed a two-year trend when Soviet military spending was cut as a gesture toward the Kremlin's declared policy of peaceful coexistence.

Garbuzov told the more than 1,500 deputues:

"The Soviet Union, devoted to its international duty, rendered and will render all-around support to the heroic Vietnamese people fighting for their freedom and independence."

IN WEST, EAST GERMANY

Martin Urges Cut in Forces

By HAROLD MORRISON

PARIS (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin of Canada today called for a reciprocal reduction in Western and Soviet forces in West and East Germany and urged that NATO launch a study on how this proposal can be undertaken.

He said also that the Soviet Union appears "more seriously interested than ever before" in reaching an East-West agreement to ban the spread of nuclear weapons.

Martin spoke as the foreign ministers began a two-day annual review of NATO political issues. France is participating as one of the 15 council members.

He also continued to hold a number of bilateral talks with Western foreign ministers including the third meeting during the session with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk.

An aide said Martin and Rusk dealt mainly with the Vietnam situation in their talks but declined to give details. An informant said they possibly are exploring new ideas but declined to elaborate.

MORE REASONABLE

In his NATO speech, Martin maintained that while Soviet forces now are stronger than they ever have been, the Russians "have become more reasonable in the political sphere."

One possible forward move, he suggested, should be "reciprocal, gradual and balanced reductions in Soviet and Western forces in Germany which might be achieved by parallel steps worked out through informal consultations."

But unilateral reduction of Western strength should be avoided, he said.

Most of the foreign ministers who spoke during the morning session emphasized that France no longer is part of NATO's integrated defence organization.

Some observed that the shake-up, while deplored, had its good points because it forced the alliance to undertake revisions and relocations that in fact trimmed some of NATO's fat.

Martin said Canada wants to maintain for France the most active role possible consistent with French commitments. He suggested that all NATO members should try to develop new "institutional" arrangements which will give continuing meaning to the French policy of remaining in the alliance.

REFERS TO UN MOVE

He also touched on Canada's move at the United Nations on the status of China and Formosa and explained that Canada was not trying to force the issue of Chinese presentation but merely trying to open new avenues for discussion.

The switch to political discussions, to be wrapped up in a communique Friday, followed an intense round of military talks by the 14 NATO members —all but France—that produced agreement Wednesday on a seven-country nuclear planning group to co-ordinate Western nuclear strategy and management.

Defence Minister Paul Hellyer told reporters that Canada's presence on the planning group will not increase her nuclear involvement but will serve as a "moderation" influence that can help facilitate negotiations on a non-proliferation pact.

The group is to be composed of four permanent members—Britain, the United States, West Germany and Italy—and three temporary members who will serve 18 months each and then be replaced by others on a rotation basis.

The first three temporaries, to be named formally by NATO ambassadors before Christmas, are reported to be Canada, The Netherlands and Turkey.

CONFUSION DEVELOPS

So intense was the rivalry among the smaller powers for a seat in the first round that some confusion developed on the temporaries to be named.

Hellyer said he definitely anticipated that Canada will be one of them while a British spokesman told British reporters he understood that Denmark and not Canada would be on the first list.

This led to a rather comical investigation by lower-echelon officials as to the true state of affairs and a Canadian official later made clear not only to Canadian but other reporters as well that Canada definitely will be on the first list.

The Canadian who will represent Canada is still to be picked but it is understood he will be a high official and might turn out to be the defence minister himself.

The seven-country group will meet about three times a year, perhaps at various places, such as Washington and Brussels, and will report to a newly established nuclear defence affairs committee open to all 14 NATO members except France.

Among Western diplomats the importance of the group is that it should reassure the Soviet Union that West Germany's permanent membership virtually eliminates any fear of a German finger on the Western nuclear trigger.

The planning group will have consultative powers but no actual operational role or any control over American - owned nuclear warheads.

Two Awaiting Sentences For Break-Ins

Pleading guilty to breaking and entering and stealing tires from Western OK Tire Store on Douglas Street, Barry Soura of Nanaimo, was remanded in police court Wednesday until December 22 for sentence.

He was arrested by Det. Richard Ward at 100 Mile House in the Cariboo and brought to Victoria to face the charge. The theft took place on Nov. 4.

Harry Cook, 20, of Colwood, was also remanded to the same date for sentence for breaking and entering the garage of Henry Elliott, 18 Eaton Ave.

$82 BILLION FOR NATO COUNTRIES

PARIS (Reuters)—A big rise in U.S. military spending helped push military expenditure by all NATO members up by an estimated $8,177,000,000 in 1966, figures issued here showed today.

Most of the boost came from the $7,415,000,000 rise in the U.S. military budget, which rose from $51,844,000,000 in 1965 to $59,259,000,000 this year.

Military spending by all 15 NATO members was estimated at $82,169,000,000 in 1966, compared with $73,992,000,000 last year.

What Priority for Schools?

EDUCATION MINISTER PETERson is ostensibly following the federal government's line in announcing that school construction in British Columbia will be drastically curbed. Many major public works have been deferred—the new provincial museum building among them—as a result of the national effort to slow the inflationary spiral. The increasing demand for materials and manpower has been a significant factor in the rising price level.

But, as has been argued in this column before, schools and hospitals should be among the last provincial construction projects to be postponed. They are essentials and in some areas are already far behind the required schedule.

The provincial government's announcement has an escape hatch: Mr. Peterson says school construction will be authorized "only on a priority basis and for classrooms only." This leaves a considerable degree of choice for the minister, and school boards throughout the province will understandably be anxious to learn at the earliest possible moment whether their particular need qualifies them for government assistance in building. The minister's comment that school districts "can proceed on their own with school construction without the government sharing any of the costs" carries little meaning. Provincial financial assistance is essential in such undertakings.

The remark does shed doubt on the government's anti-inflationary intentions, however. If a school district could proceed under its own financing, and with the minister's blessing, the inflationary factors would become effective.

The point directs attention to another of Mr. Peterson's statements —that applications for government participation in school construction will be viewed "in the light of the needs of the province as a whole." This implies that other construction projects could be given priority over schools. It is difficult to suggest many projects which should be so scheduled, and the conclusion to be drawn by many persons is that the vast hydro power programs on the Peace and Columbia Rivers are draining the province dry of capital for other purposes, even schools.

These great undertakings can hardly be halted at this stage; the province is on an increasingly steep slope from which it cannot escape until the end is reached—and it is becoming progressively more expensive to slide. Apparently we must still borrow money for these works, even if we cannot afford to pay current high interest rates for school loans.

Much therefore depends on Mr. Peterson's interpretation of the concept of "priority," as to how many school construction plans are carried forward in the next few months. Conceivably, some of those plans may be less than urgent, and therefore suitable for deferment. But if other school districts in the province are at all similar to those in the lower Vancouver Island region, Mr. Peterson should recognize high priority in a great many of them. In this final third of the twentieth century, education must be classed with the bare essentials of community survival.

Conserving Talent

THE WEST GERMAN GOVERNment for several years has banned the recruiting of scientists and technicians through direct advertising by foreign firms. Now a report from London indicates that Britain is considering a similar move.

Britain has been hard hit by the "brain drain" which has taken some of its best scientific minds to foreign parts, mainly the United States and Canada, at a time when the country is desperately in need of top talent. The latest blow came in the past six weeks when one top recruiter for a number of Canadian and American companies received 1,500 applications from Britons for positions in North America, with a high proportion of them expected to leave the country in short order. Sir Solly Zuckerman, scientific adviser to the Wilson government, followed up this news with a warning that the government would have to take action to slow down the recruiting.

Canada is in rather a strange position in this regard. This country has been greatly enriched by the contributions of British scientists and technicians who have emigrated here in recent years. At the same time, surveys have shown that for many of these people Canada was only a staging post on the way to the United States and higher-paying jobs. But with the United States already attracting large numbers of highly-trained and educated Canadians — another brain-drain problem — the British emigrants have helped to fill a gap and they will be missed if their recruitment is curtailed.

Ideally, of course, there should be no barrier to the movement of people with special talents from one country to another. But the reality is that even more, perhaps, than physical resources, they are an asset which no country can afford to lose. If Britain is successful in slowing down the movement of such people to this continent, then Canada is going to have to increase its efforts to bring in top-flight workers from elsewhere, and to keep its own best people from heading south to better-paying jobs. The efforts of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada to encourage the return of Canadian graduates from American universities represent an encouraging movement in the desirable direction.

One of the considerations will be cold cash and it is going to be pointless to argue that Canadian firms cannot compete with American firms when it comes to top talent, for the alternative could impose an economic handicap on this country. The fact that so much leverage, in industrial research and management, is exerted by American firms on Canadian subsidiaries does not make the problem any easier.

Legislation is a desperate measure to halt brain-drain, but it can be no more than a temporary expedient. A certain amount of interchange between countries can be beneficial and stimulating, and mobile workers will gravitate to where living conditions, income, working conditions and opportunity are the most attractive.

It Works Both Ways

GOVERNOR - ELECT RONALD Reagan of California seems to have overlooked an important consideration in his proposal that the threat of nuclear weapons be implanted in the mind of the enemy in Vietnam.

"No one, of course, wants to use these weapons," he says, "but the enemy should never be told we won't. He should go to bed every night fearful that we might."

The fallacy of this technique is obvious. The "enemy" has friends who also possess nuclear weapons. Does the governor-elect think that a dangling threat from the United States wouldn't bring a retaliatory threat from the other side? Mr. Reagan would return the world to the old "scorpions in a bottle" concept, a continual state of critical brinkmanship, from which in the last decade we have made encouraging progress.

FROM WASHINGTON — By WALTER LIPPMANN

Tenants Are Vacating the NATO House

THIS week the foreign ministers of the NATO countries have been holding their annual meeting, and the subject before them is what to do about the "o" in NATO, that is to say about the military organization which was constructed after the signature of the North Atlantic Treaty itself. The future, it may indeed be the very existence, of the organization, and not the existence of the treaty itself is the problem before the foreign ministers.

Lippmann

The military organization according to the most recent figures available, has assigned to it about 58 divisions. There are another 30 marked as a possible reserve. There are about 5,500 tactical aircraft based on 220 NATO airfields and dependent upon a joint system of fuel pipelines and signal communications. There are naval forces which would come under various allied commands in case of war and there are also several thousand tactical nuclear weapons which, though stockpiled in Europe, are held under an exclusively American chain of command. Beyond all this, but wholly outside of the NATO organization and indeed of the NATO treaty, there is the enormously powerful American Strategic Air Force.

Under Attack

The large and expensive military organization, which does not include the United States strategic nuclear forces, is now under wide attack as being obsolete and superfluous. General Eisenhower who was supreme commander in Europe when the NATO organization was assembled and constructed, has now come to the conclusion that the United States troop contingent, which consists of five divisions, can be reduced safely to one army corps of two divisions plus a reconnaissance regiment. This is a striking confirmation of the general belief that the threat of a Soviet invasion of Western Europe, which existed in the fifties, has diminshed greatly, and that the Soviets do not contemplate the invasion of Western Europe either because they don't want to or because the United States nuclear force deters them, or for both reasons.

The prospects of the NATO military organization have been affected by President Johnson's decision that Asia is the primary theater of danger and concern to the United States, implying that Europe is now a secondary theatre.

Finally, of course, there has been General de Gaulle. He has brought to a head and has made sharp and logical, clear and definitive, the basic considerations which account for General Eisenhower's and for President Johnson's change of course. The main consideration is that the cold war with the Soviet Union has thawed out to a point where coexistence is an accepted fact, where the beginning of detente and collaboration are in sight.

The practical problems with which the foreign ministers are now struggling are for the most part the result of France's retirement from the integrated commands of NATO. The expulsion of the NATO establishment and its facilities from French soil, and the rejection by France of any automatic military commitment as part of its obligations under the North Atlantic Treaty. These French actions have thrown into great confusion the strategy, the logistical system, the housekeeping, and the bureaucratic routines of the NATO organization.

Geographical Heart

For France is the geographical heart of Western Europe. Without France the military forces in West Germany are without an adequate hinterland from which to manoeuvre and into which to reatreat; without France the northern countries of NATO are physically cut off from the NATO countries of the Mediterranean. What is more, the main considerations which have prevailed with General Eisenhower and with General de Gaulle are quite well-known in other NATO countries.

The real question, the true necessity, is not how to preserve the organization as such but how to preserve the alliance. The organization, it must be said I think, is no longer a genuine military investment but an expensive and deteriorating ruin. It is like a mansion, once the pride of the neighborhood, from which the tenants have moved away, for which no new tenants can be found. There is no use cutting the grass and mending a few window panes if nobody will live in the mansion.

The Western Alliance itself can and should be preserved and strengthened. That cannot be done by statesmen who do not conceive of the alliance without the eleaborate and complicated bureaucracy which was built up in the organization. They will have to learn that the organization, which was an after thought and not part of the original treaty, which was very useful in its day, is not meant for perpetuity. They will need to learn this because the disputes arising from the ruins and the debris of the organization are a threat to the alliance itself. These disputes have to do with the remnants of an organization that its members are abandoning. They are disputes about money and about where to put up buildings and they are inherently insoluble because there no longer exists the esential premise of the whole organization which is that it is a vital necessity to the peace and security of its members.

PRESIDENTIAL DILEMMA — By CHARLES BARTLETT

So Many Bills, So Many Billions

PRESIDENT Johnson is standing between the man on the moon and the man in the ghetto as he comes down to his crucial decisions on the budget. The war in Vietnam is pre-empting less than three per cent of the GNP. The squeeze that is now causing the President to look hard at a tax increase is less a product of the war than of society's resourcefulness in conjuring up new needs for money. White House studies show that the government is spending some $22 billion a year upon the poor. This is more than the current year cost of the war in Vietnam ($20 billion) and substantially more than the $13 billion applied against poverty in the last Kennedy budget.

But Mr. Johnson confronts urgent demands from many quarters that he do more. He is implored to initiate a ten-year program of rebirth for the cities and warned that civil strife will be the price of postponing his offensive against poverty.

The cost of the trip to the moon (some $23 billion with an additional $13 billion for peripheral ventures) is a deep irritant to people alarmed by the dilemmas of the cities. It is too late to call off this expedition and even after the spacemen make their landing, presumably in mid-1968, the resources allotted to space cannot be diverted to the needs of the poor.

The same fear of the unknown which impelled John Kennedy to enter the moon race in 1961 will require Lyndon Johnson to keep spending big sums to enlarge his toehold on the moon. No scientist can point to any devastating military advantage that space may hold but no scientist can confidently assure the President that such an advantage does not exist.

Anger Assured

People whose priority concern is the poor will bridle angrily in coming days when President Johnson announces his plan to go ahead with development of a supersonic transport plane that will need some $5 billion in public investment.

Even the prospect that much of this investment can be recovered in taxes and royalties will not appease those who argue that the elimination of the ghettoes is far more urgent than reducing the flight time to London. This is a ticklish issue for the President, a zealous advocate of the SST.

As vice-president and chairman of the President's Space Committee, Mr. Johnson argued so vehemently for the SST that he seemed to regard its opponents with hostility. After one heated discussion, Kermit Gordon, then budget director, turned to Robert McNamara and said, "If that fellow ever becomes president, we won't be around here for 48 hours." McNamara corrected him, "We won't last for 24 hours."

SST Re-emerges

After the assassination, Gordon and McNamara became President Johnson's closest advisers and the SST became less urgent. In fact he consigned it to a study group which McNamara dominated.

The SST has nevertheless managed to re-emerge in a status which promises that it will be launched with presidential approval in the new year. With substantial arguments and impressive men on both sides of the question of whether it is a project that really deserves federal backing at this juncture, the SST is certain to become a symbol in the great debate over public priorities.

These priorities are now set by the judgment of one man, the President. The counsels of the experts and the pleadings of the pressure groups are fed into this single human being, who must computerize them with his own instincts as a politician to bring forth verdicts that will protect his own and the nation's interests.

Cruelly Difficult

These are cruelly difficult decisions and it is necessary to sympathize with the President as he sits in the Texas sun, weighing the unscientific imponderables that relate to the wisdom of raising taxes, doing more for the poor, erecting a defence against missile attacks, or building the SST.

It would be helpful if a committee of eminent citizens could establish a far-seeing scale of priorities that would guide the President in these choices. He needs this guidance in a prosperous period when every citizen feels that the government should meet the need which he regards as urgent.

But no substitute is available under executive government for the President's instincts. Only he can make the decisions and take the political heat that they inspire.

"BUT LOOK AT THE FLY! LOOK AT THE FLY! I SMACKED HIM, TOO!"

Looking Back

From The Times of Dec. 15, 1906:

Captain Sprott Balcolm, manager of the Pacific Steamship Whaling Company, returned yesterday from Ottawa, where he interviwed government officials in regard to the additional whaling stations projected by the company. Licenses for four additional stations were secured. Two will be situated on Vancouver Island, one at a point not yet determined and the other at Ezperanza Inlet. The other two stations will be located on the Gulf and near Rivers Inlet, respectively.

Letters will be considered for publication only if the writer is clearly identified to the editor, who may permit pen names at his discretion. Submissions will be edited and may be condensed. Short letters are favored. None will be returned.

Low Poll

The reasons seem obvious why the percentage turnout of voters is so small in recent civic elections. Saturday has been chosen as polling day when most voters are home enjoying their weekly rest and relaxation, so that Victoria citizens are expected to drop everything, and dress up to undertake a special journey to town in either car or bus, solely to register their vote.

It is about time that mayor and aldermen gave more consideration to the long suffering public they hope will elect them to office. — A Voter.

Puppet?

Many people believe that the U.S.A. is prepared to negotiate for peace, but that North Vietnam is not. The December 12 issue of "Newsweek" carries the report of an interview with U Thant in which he has let some important cats out of this bag of confusion.

The first of these is that, between September 1964 and January 1965 — i.e., before the bombing of North Vietnam began — U Thant and Adlai Stevenson were working closely together for peace. They were able to make private arrangements with Ho Chi Minh under which the latter was prepared to send an envoy from North Vietnam to Rangoon to meet a U.S. envoy to discuss negotiations for a peaceful settlement.

Until he met U Thant in October 1966, President Johnson had been "still largely unaware of the essential fact of Thant's peacemaking efforts."

This makes one realize that there may well be no unified executive command in the U.S.A. at all, and that Johnson may be more of a puppet than we know. If this is so, who is really pulling the strings? — J. Lloyd Brereton, 1337 Fairfield.

Time To Be Canadian

A Victoria election sign for 1966 read: Warning! NONE BUT BRITISH SUBJECTS MAY LAWFULLY VOTE AT THIS ELECTION.

Two Union Jack flags were mounted in the polling station. Missing were two Maple Leaf flags of Canada.

It is now time we had certified Canadians for office holders for all B.C. elections.

Let us make this a centennial project for 1967 so that Canadians can rise above being subjects of another country. — Len Skelton, 4068 Grange.

No Promises Please

A lot of people will agree with the gentleman regarding the sidewalk situation in Victoria. Bicycle riders seem to have the right of way, and please don't say the authorities are going to clamp down or crack down. We were promised that years ago and got as much action as the ones on litterbugs, stock car racing on city streets, smoke and fly ash and on the vandals. It is time for action — not promises. — Also Aged.

Not Comparable

Calgary Herald

Mr. Antonio Barrette, a former premier of Quebec, spoke in misleading generalities the other day in urging that French Canadians be accorded the same rights throughout Canada which they enjoy in Quebec.

He said that French Canadians living outside Quebec are not treated with the same justice and consideration given English Canadians in that province. But the situations cannot be realistically compared in this manner. There are 1,000,000 English-speaking residents among Quebec's 5,700,000. It is a relatively concentrated group. Its use of English and even English schools serves a practical purpose because of this. French Canadians outside of Quebec are scattered, aside from the concentration in New Brunswick. It would be impractical to attempt to give the French language equality with the English tongue in the other provinces. It would be unjustifiably costly to sanction French schools to serve isolated families attempting to cling tenaciously to their French, rather than Canadian identity.

Many Christmas Plums In Lester Pearson's Bag

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA — Lester Pearson finds himself this Yuletide in the enviable position of having an unprecedented number of tinselly packages — in the form of government appointments — to distribute to his party faithful.

A confidential list prepared for the prime minister's office shows a grand total of 210 government positions coming open within the next six months, all of them order-in-council appointments — theoretically within the preserve of the cabinet but in fact, the personal prerogative of the prime minister.

A grand total of 175 of these are the kind of prestige-laden, part-time positions ideal for rewarding Liberals who have delivered votes and money to the party at election time. By coincidence all these three or five-year appointments to various government boards will run out between now and next June 30. Since some of them are the last of the appointments made under the Diefenbaker regime, there will no doubt be a significant turnover of personnel.

The openings include directorships in such important bodies as the Bank of Canada, the Atlantic Development Board, the Economic Council of Canada and lesser organizations such as the National Advisory Council on fitness and Amateur Sports and various local harbors boards and bridge authorities.

Much Prestige

All such appointments bring more prestige than money. But the prime minister also has six senate vacancies to fill (one each from B.C., Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and three from Ontario) and there continue to be rumors that some ministers from these provinces will be asked to trade chambers, making room for new faces in cabinet. (The PM must also shortly appoint, or re-appoint, a new team of 16 parliamentary secretaries whose mandate will ruh out on January 7.)

Ten judgeships will shortly fall open through retirements, including the chief justiceship of British Columbia, since the present incumbent, H. I. Bird, is expected to retire Jan. 8, 1967.

Apart from these political appointments, the prime minister will also soon have to fill some vital openings in the public service of Canada. The most important of them will be the new chairman and chief operating officer for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. (CBC president Alphonse Ouimet resigned on Oct. 5 and the term of Captain W. E. Briggs, the current vice-president of operations, expires on Jan. 26, 1967.) So far, the government has made no move to either implement its white paper on broadcasting or to pursue further the tentative approaches it has made to several prospective appointees.

Low Morale

Quite apart from the devastating effect this delay is having on the already low morale of the CBC, the problem is that at this very time the programming decisions are being made for the next 18 months by executives who will no longer be there to answer for the decisions, when the shows are actally being aired.

At the same time, the new executives, whoever they are, will find themselves locked into television and radio schedules not of their making.

Another position that the government has inexplicably delayed filling is that of commissioner of the National Film Board. Guy Roberge, the former commissioner, resigned last March 31 to become Quebec's agent-general in London.

Several of Ottawa's most important permanent boards are also under-staffed, including the Air Transport Board, the Canadian Maritime Commission, the Canadian Pension Commission, and the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission.

Three other top jobs in the national public service will fall open next year through the retirement of their present incumbents. Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the Defence Research Board, reaches retirement age on June 25, 1967; A. D. P. Heeney, the chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission will celebrate his 65th birthday on April 5, 1967; and Dr. B. G. Ballard, president of the National Research Council, will be 65 on June 19, 1967.

Some time next year, the prime minister will also have to begin considering a successor to Governor-General Georges Vanier. By the end of 1966 his term (which began on Sept. 15, 1959) will be the longest in Canadian history. (The previous record holder was Earl Grey, who served from Dec. 10, 1904, to March 21, 1911.)

Of all the appointments Lester Pearson has to make this should be the most difficult; seldom has an office been graced with so admirable an incumbent.

Haile Selassie Fears For Loss of Throne As Army Restless

By GEORGE BLACK

ROME — The postponement of Emperor Haile Selassie's state visit to Rome this month is reliably reported here to be the result of new fears of an uprising in Ethiopia when his back is turned.

The army, elements of which almost ended his reign during his visit to Brazil in 1960, is once more restive. Acts of terrorism have started in the north.

The young intellectuals, determined to crowd on the pace of literacy and progress, are increasingly impatient. And the Emperor's skill at playing off one faction against another shows signs of waning.

Officially the long awaited visit has been put off because of Italian floods, but these have not affected Rome, where diplomats now wonder whether the Negus is really as anxious to open "new era of friendship" as he claims. It seems that three major agreements — cultural, financial and technical — which were to be signed by the Emperor on his arrival are still "under discussion" in Addis Ababa.

The Italians have been wooing the Emperor because they still have a big financial stake in Ethiopia and a 20,000-strong community which is a spearhead for economic development in the new African states. On Haile Selassie's side the problem has been to treat the Italians as "good friends" without offending those around him who have not forgotten Mussolini's brutal invasion in 1936 — and without leaving the seat of power vacant.

In this aim he has a stout ally. It rises at the Circo Massimo, near the Coliseum, a 75-feet, fourth-century obelisk which Mussolini, in imitation of the Caesars, brought back to mark the triumph of his Ethiopian adventure 30 years ago.

The obelisk must be returned, under the Peace Treaty of 1956. Italy first offered to put it on a ship in Naples docks.

The Negus felt it should be replaced on its base in the sacred city of Aksum, over the mountains. Italian engineers objected that hundreds of bridges would have to be strengthened first. It was suggested that Ethiopia might forget the obelisk in exchange for a $600,000 contribution to a badly needed airport. Nothing came of this.

Ethiopian reminders about the obelisk have accompanied two previous attempts to arrange visits and each time difficulties in the way of restitution increase. To strengthen bridges in Ethiopia for the passage of an obelisk when new bridges are now needed all over Tuscany and the Po Valley is not politically feasible. And Signor Mario Buschi, the engineer who supervised the obelisk's removal to Rome in 1937, says its crumbling grey sandstone might not survive another journey.

Foreign ministry sources say that it is an early Christian monument sited at one of the most august and beautiful points of this heart of Christianity. They also like to point out that it is on territory which is "virtually international" — the grounds of the UN Food and Agriculture Organization HQ, which was originally built as Mussolini's Colonial Office — and that since Ethiopia is a UN member she still, in a sense, possesses the monument.

"Destiny," comments Il-Messagero, Rome's daily newspaper, "wished the obelisk to move to the land of the Christian martyrs."

The Italian government are still prepared to make a cash grant instead of the obelisk. No doubt the Ethiopians would like to have both. But it seems that, given the fresh unrest in his own backyard, Haile Selassie is prepared to accept neither.

River Otter Can Travel 'Beats' of 100 Miles

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

Dear Dr. Carl — Reading your answer in the "Times" to a letter about River Otters I saw that you mentioned their dens are usually close to water. About two years ago I was startled by something doing a lop-sided walk along our driveway; it was an otter and it disappeared into the bush. There is only a small stream near where I live, a half mile from the Astrophysical Observatory. Our driveway runs parallel to the stream and is very close to the main road which is quite busy.

I was excited and mentioned it to our neighbors who said they had seen four playing very happily in the snow on their front lawn a few days before.

Do you think they may have travelled from Prospect or Beaver Lake, which would be a mile or so to either from here, and if so would they travel from one lake to another? — R. D.

I would say it is very probable the otters you have seen in your area have come from either Prospect or Beaver Lake. These animals are known to occur in or around these bodies of water but it is unlikely that they are permanent residents. They seem to stay in favorite fishing areas for most of the summer but in the winter months they tend to wander and their travels may take them many miles.

Carl

The movements of these interesting fur-bearers have been followed in several parts of North America. Studies have shown that the animals often have a regular beat which may be more than a hundred miles long and take two to three weeks to complete. However, it is not known if our local otters share these nomadic habits but they very definitely can travel great distances if they are inclined.

I suspect the stream near your home is a regular pathway for otters since they prefer to stick to waterways when travelling. The animal you saw in the driveway was probably taking an easier route for a change. Wild creatures regularly use man-made roads or trails for ease in travelling but of course they normally avoid a busy highway.

Dear Dr. Carl — This fall we took a trip up to Adams River to see the spawning Sockeye salmon. The Fisheries Department had two fish in a glass case — one very large with a hooked nose and the other much smaller. We would like to know if the larger one was the male or female?

Then the question of the Spring salmon spawning habits was raised and we were of the opinion that the Springs go up the rivers to spawn but do not die. Is this correct?

Thanking you for any information you could give us. — W. P. K.

Without doubt the larger fish with the hooked nose was a male salmon. This over-development of the snout is characteristic of the Pacific salmon at spawning time and is found in males of all five species native to our waters. In some the hook is so pronounced the fish can no longer close its mouth properly but the fish does not seem to be hampered by the overgrowth. Its function is unknown; perhaps it serves only to help distinguish males from females.

The question about the possibility of spring or chinook salmon living after having spawned has been raised many times. Perhaps the query is sparked by the fact chinook salmon vary considerably in their life span and in their size. Unlike other salmon which have a two, three or four year cycle (depending on the species) the chinook has no regular pattern and may not mature until its seventh year.

Chinooks also vary greatly in size; they commonly achieve 10 to 15 pounds in weight at maturity but some have been recorded in excess of 100 pounds. The larger ones are not necessarily the older; ultimate size depends upon heredity, abundance of food, water temperature and other factors as well as length of life.

However, there is no record of any Pacific salmon living more than a few days after spawning. All die after propagation, another characteristic of this group of fishes.

Founders of B.C.

Dance houses in Victoria about 100 years ago were "hot beds" of vice and pollution" according to Rev. Ephraim Evans.

"It will soon be the imperative duty of parents to hasten with their families from the town, as they would from a pestilence." He wrote this opinion in a letter to the British Colonist.

He also aired his views in the press, defending his Mehodist Church when the Church of England's Bishop George Hills, in 1861 said the Methodists were withdrawing from ministering to the gold miners in British Columbia. Evans said Hills was wrong and that the Church of England was just trying to create public sympathy in hope of more endowments.

Rev. Evans was a brother of Rev. James Evans who had taken Christianity to the Indians of Rupert's Land. Ephraim was following an example set by James when he volunteered while chaplain of the Weslyan College at Sackville, to lead a band of four missionaries to the west.

He became general superintendent of Wesleyan Missions of the colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia and he built the first Methodist Church in Victoria. His first meetings had been in a police barracks. When the Hudson's Bay Company donated the land, Evans went to work and raised public funds and had a church that would seat 600 completed within a year.

Under his direction other ministers of his church set up missions at Hope and Yale and travelled the roads of the miners into the Interior.

He died in June, 1892, at the age of 89, at London, Ontario.

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE
(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, lectures in Canadian government at Carleton University.)

Is there a more uncherished, unknown Canadian institution than the Supreme Court of Canada? Recently a law teacher called it "the quiet court in an unquiet country." It's doubtful that more than 10,000 Canadians could name more than two of the nine justices of the court; and if one ruled the lawyers and Ottawa establishment out of that number we are sure the figure would only be a few hundred.

Fisher

There are ready and obvious answers to our leading question: For example, the doctrine of the supremacy of Parliament over the courts, or the fairly recent (1949) emergence of the Supreme Court as the Canadian court of final appeal, or—and this is opinion only—the lack of push or what the Americans call "judicial activism" among the justices appointed.

Crowe

Well . . . if the court is quiet and unloved and unknown, why bother to bring it up? Precisely because this is, as Professor R. I. Cheffins puts it, an "unquiet country." In a period of stress and contending powers, especially between the federal government and the provinces, if the disagreements could be handled judicially or through a settled method of arbitration, some of the gall would be taken out of our contentiousness.

The prospects for such neutrality and tidiness are bad. That's the story; that's the trend. And while the Supreme Court has been remarkably inactive recently on constitutional matters certain stances of provincial figures indicate that it may never again have much of a role in that field.

What are these stances? Let's take two recent ones.

On Dec. 2, the government of British Columbia claimed all the continental shelf off the B.C. coast. Without going to the length of B.C.'s official order-in-council, other provinces have made similar claims.

The irony is that the Supreme Court of Canada is to consider next year the reference to it of this question, a reference that has been often postponed because the federal government wanted it and some of the provinces did not, with Quebec under Jean Lesage in effect stating that (A) it wouldn't accept a court ruling in favor of Ottawa and (B) the court was almost certain to be biased in Ottawa's favor because it was appointed by the federal government.

On Dec. 6, Daniel Johnson told the Quebec legislature that he has never considered the Supreme Court of Canada an adequate tribunal to settle problems of a constitutional kind "... not for mineral rights any more than for old age pensions." That Premier Johnson and Jean Lesage should take roughly the same view of the Supreme Court is not surprising. Both major Quebec parties have often shown their agreement with the hostile criticism of the court expressed by the Tremblay Commission, a Duplessis creation which reported in 1956.

The Tremblay report was largely ignored in English-speaking Canada but it has gradually acquired standing in Quebec and tends to be the bed-rock of Quebec arguments on the constitution and, if you want, a unique status for Quebec within Confederation.

What are the consequences of a refusal to give the Supreme Court a vital function of judicial review? Doesn't it merely support what most of us believe: the supremacy of Parliament?

Here for "Parliament" one must read the federal Parliament and the provincial legislatures. And that's the rub. Largely, we have a written constitution, the BNA Act, demarcating federal and provincial jurisdictions and functions. It's almost silly to say that, since the argument over which is supreme in various fields has raged since Confederation. Judicial interpretation of the constitution, pre-1949, lay with the Privy Council in Britain and it, to many minds, threw its weight in favor of the provinces, scuttling many of the intentions of the founding fathers.

Often before 1949 the restraint of the BNA Act was evaded by co-operative agreement between Ottawa and the provinces, especially in shared and joint programs. But it was generally clear that there would be a final judicial decision on whether certain acts were constitutionally legal. Generally, the decisions were accepted.

It was anticipated that the Supreme Court would carry on the Privy Council role in constitutional determination; that in a nation with a written constitution the court would adjust the reading of the BNA Act to the changing developments and forces of our society and economy. Instead, the trend is to ignore the Court and to have the kind of federalism in which neither Parliament nor the legislatures are supreme. Rather, it is the federal-provincial conference and a relationship that's taking on the aspect of secret treaty sessions between heads of state.

Professor Cheffins is not overstating the case, in our opinion, when he notes that since the election of Jean Lesage in 1960 there has been "a decline of the Supreme Court of Canada as a decision-maker with respect to the allocation of federal-provincial legislative power."

He went on: "The salient point being made, however, is that in a country torn with political dispute, the Court seems almost isolated from the main-spring of decision-making."

The disadvantage, when almost every issue caused by our federalism is settled in the political arena is simply that there is no court of last resort to settle an issue, except the people. That last resort is fine in a democracy, a democracy where national unity prevails, where there are no issues such as bilingualism and biculturalism, no bifurcation of the voter into Canadian at this election and Manitoban, say, at the next.

On the world stage, on the stage of corporate-uinon relations, there is a growing belief in mediation and arbitration, in the use of neutral, detached, skilled opinion. Not so, in our central domestic problem. Sooner or later the irresistible force is going to meet the immovable object and we'll damned well wish we had a Supreme Court with a tradition, a status, and a methodology.

THE GALLUP POLL

U.S. Has Little Support For Its Vietnam Policy

By The Canadian Institute Of Public Opinion

Back of the world conflict of opinion among many governments as to U.S. policy in Vietnam, lies an equal conflict among the average men and women who make up public mood of the countries. This is vividly reflected in a unique international study carried out by the Gallup Affiliates in Canada, Great Britain, the United States, France, West Germany and Australia.

In each of the six countries, interviewers put the same choice to a national sample of adults asking:

"Just from what you have heard or read which of these statements comes closest to the way you, yourself, feel about the war in Viet Nam:

The U.S. should withdraw it troops;

Rsults show:

De Gaulle's attitude is reflected by the big majority of French citizens, as almost seven in ten believe that the U.S. should withdraw its troops. In West Germany, a bare majority hold this opinion, dwindling down through the nations to the U.S. itself where less than two in ten want the U.S. troops withdrawn.

On the other side of the argument, Australia is twice as convinced as any of the other nations under study that the war should be carried on at its present level — towering, by an average of about two to one over other nations, in believing the present policy should be continued.

As for increasing the strength of its attacks — the U.S. stands alone, far ahead of any country in wanting this policy enforced. In the U.S. more than half the public — 55 per cent — hold this view, compared to only 5 per cent in France.

The broad spectrum shows the U.S. alone in the majority desire of its people that war attacks be increased. France, West Germany and Great Britain are grouped as nations wishing, in the main, that U.S. forces be withdrawn, Australia stands alone in the strength of its desire that the present policy be contined. Canada is somewhere midway between these attitudes.

Here are the details:

	The U.S. Should Withdraw Its Troops	The U.S. Should Carry On As at Present	The U.S. Should Increase Attacks	No Opinion
CANADA	31%	18%	27%	24%
U.S.A.	18	18	55	9
Great Britain	42	17	16	25
West Germany	51	19	15	15
Australia	21	43	24	12
France	68	8	5	19

AUDIENCE DAZZLED BY SHOW

Sore But Happy Ice Capade Opening

By PETE LOUDON

But some of the performers must have gone home sore.

Ice waltzers Robin Watts and partner Michael McCarthy came down while performing a lift. Ann Christy, performing Beauty in Motion, has another unbeautiful spill.

As usual, the beautiful costumery, the lighting effects and the radiance of the youthful performers were sufficient to dazzle the watchers. And most of the children and many adults wouldn't have noticed if the performers had forgotten their skates.

The comedy acts — John La Brecque and Carolyn O'Kelly, Terry Head, George Bussey and Sepp Schonmetzler—were popular. They went through all the old routines involving planted cast members seated at rinkside. One new twist involved a live skunk.

Other squeal-makers involved an acrobatic trio, The Tree Toddys and a huge Cheshire cat, a real swinging cat, in an Alice In Wonderland sequence.

About a dozen lucky kids got on the ice with Alice and had a ride in the Mad Hatter's king-sized teacups. Others were favored with lollypops handed out by a quartet of walruses.

The Salute To Canada was brief and a bit forced, depending on a coat of arms and some flags in a backdrop to give it a Canuck flavor. Change the backdrop and the same performance would fit in anywhere in the world.

Anyone planning to attend tonight, Friday or Saturday should watch for Richard Callaghan's opening number and for the live Japanese doll Mitsuko Funakoshi and for former Swedish Junior Figures Champion Gisela.

But don't go if you're just attending to hear the music.

It may be the fault of the harsh arena acoustics or it may be because a live band is trying to play along with a recorded group, but it was an unhappy experience. One group should bow out.

FIRST UNITED

Christmas Card Appearance

By AUDREY JOHNSON

The 40-odd voices of First United Church Choir were raised Wednesday night, in the 19th annual Carols in the Candle light concert.

Conducted by W. H. Gregory, and accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Ursula Bunt, they made a Christmas card appearance in their cherry-red surplices in the candlelit church.

The numerical balance between the sections of the choir is very even and the ensemble makes a pleasing sound when it is singing mezzo forte or piano.

When the stops are pulled out for full-bodied fortissimos however, as in the Hallelujah Chorus, the quality coarsens, there is forcing which causes trouble with intonation and one or two strong voices dominate, upsetting the balance.

SUCCESSFUL

The program contained some interesting and lovely things. Pergolesi's Glory to God in the Highest, that included a trio episode sung by Alice Waddell, Bernice Irwin and Robert Husband, was one of the most successful numbers.

A group of charming songs by the ladies' choir and the male choir singing Lo How a Rose E'r Blooming and the Boar's Head carol were among highlights.

First United Church Choir is fortunate in being able to bring forward so many fine soloists from its ranks.

Alice Waddell, Bernice Irwin, Allan Husband and Paul Wharf are experienced singers whose work always gives pleasure and all were heard to excellent advantage Wednesday.

Two young singers who delighted the capacity audience and whom we will look forward to hearing again, are Betty Buchan and David Conrad.

'White Man Not Expendable'

NIGEL, South Africa (Reuters) — Premier John Vorster urged Western leaders Tuesday night to resist African pressures over Rhodesia and he warned that the white man in Africa is not expendable.

Speaking at a barbecue, Vorster said he regards the Rhodesian independence crisis as a British-Rhodesian domestic matter that should not have been taken to the United Nations.

He said that South Africa's correct stance should not be taken for weakness. He promised not to allow South Africa's honor to be injured.

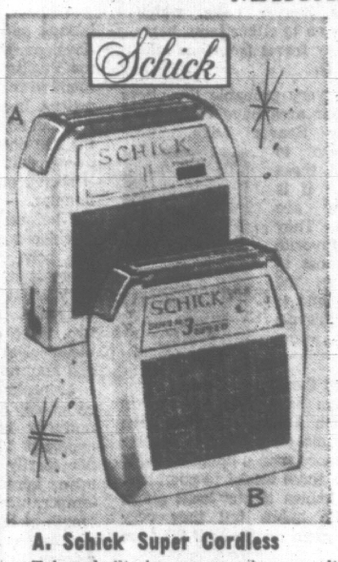

Whoopee in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The festive habits of the Japanese business world have come in for renewed criticism here following publication of an official report. The report, just issued by the tax administration agency, points out that Japanese business organizations last year spent a staggering $1,750,000,000 on entertainment, most of it tax-deductible.

Canada Hopeful On Peace Force

UN Assembly Votes Next Week To Find Way Out of Impasse

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canadian diplomats were confident today that their efforts to push the UN into a stronger position on peacekeeping will meet some success before the current General Assembly session ends Dec. 20.

The assembly now has on its agenda a Canadian motion inviting UN member countries to designate armed forces and facilities for peacekeeping duties and asking the Security Council to take "practical steps" that would make peacekeeping operations more effective.

The motion was passed by the assembly's special political committee Wednesday night by 59 votes to 14, with 42 abstentions.

It will probably be considered by the 122-country assembly next week, along with an Irish motion to restore compulsory financing of peacekeeping for all except the big powers. The Irish motion got through committee by 33 votes to 27, with 48 abstentions, including Canada.

STICK TO POSITION

Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff told reporters a number of countries, notably the Soviet Union and France, are sticking to their position that all decisions on peackeeping can be made only by the Security Council.

"The General Assembly or its committees shouldn't even be passing resolutions, these countries maintain, and this accounts for the deadlock that has persisted all through the year-long efforts of a special 33-country committee and of the assembly's special political committee at this session to find some significant area of agreement."

Ignatieff said the large number of abstentions in committee shows that many countries are uncertain about how peacekeeping operations should be financed and whether the assembly can authorize them when the Security Council is deadlocked.

He was confident enough abstainers will decide to support the limited steps proposed in the Canadian motion to ensure it of the necessary two-thirds approval in the assembly.

The general view among diplomats appeared to be that the Canadian proposals have a good chance of getting assembly approval, while the tougher, more concrete Irish motion is almost certain to be beaten.

Ireland is calling for compulsory peacekeeping assessments for all except the permanent council members, the United States, the Soviet Union, France, Britain and Nationalist China, who wouldn't be obligated to pay for any operation to which they objected. Developed countries, excluding any dissenting big power, would be assessed 95 per cent of the cost, the undeveloped countries five per cent.

Canada proposes that the assembly ask the Security Council:

—To authorize a study of ways to improve preparations for peacekeeping operations, so that UN peace forces won't have to be improvised at the last minute, as in the past.

—To get a cost estimate from the secretary - general whenever it sets up a peace force, so that, contrary to what has has happened in the past, member countries will know at the outset that the annual expenditure is likely to be.

—To consider making agreements with member countries for provision of armed forces and facilities on request.

Ignatieff said "everybody agrees that the Security Council has the primary responsibility for peacekeeping, and there is no reason why it shouldn't be studying means of making better preparations."

"We don't want to see a repetition of the Cyprus situation, where in the spring of 1964, Canada had to take the lead in organizing a peace force at the last minute. Plans and forces should be ready any time the council agrees on an operation."

POST of press secretary to President Johnson will be taken over on Feb. 1 by George Christian, 39-year-old Texan. He will succeed Bill Moyers who announced his resignation to take a publisher's position. (AP Wirephoto.)

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The Indian government imposed a ban Wednesday on the slaughter of cows—the Hindu symbol of motherhood — following pressure from religious leaders.

The cow issue has sparked several riots recently. Dissatisfied Hindu leaders have been staging a fast.

MUTILATED MONEY TRIAL

Ex-Policeman Guilty of Possession

VANCOUVER (CP) — A former Vancouver policeman was found guilty Wednesday night of possession of part of the $1,200,000 in mutilated money stolen from a Vancouver warehouse in February, 1965.

Convicted was Joseph Percival, 37. He will be sentenced Friday.

The B.C. Supreme Court jury returned a not guilty verdict on a similar charge against James McDougall, 32, a former Vancouver real estate salesman.

Earlier Wednesday, Mr. Justice Victor Dryer directed the jury to return a not guilty verdict on charges against the two men of robbing a Canadian Pacific Merchandising Services warehouse of the money.

Most of the bills had been punched with three dime-size holes and the money was destined for Ottawa to be destroyed.

The men were arrested in Edmonton earlier this year and a portion of the mutilated money was recovered in the room.

Pro-Anti Members Honor Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — In a show of social amity, federal Conservative MPs and senators gave party leader John Diefenbaker a handsome desk and lamp Wednesday to mark his 10th anniversary as leader.

Both pro- and anti-Diefenbaker elements in the caucus contributed to the gifts.

There was no sign of the division that has placed more than 20 of the 96 MPs into the party call for a leadership convention by the end of next year.

Mr. Diefenbaker, alert and bouyant, reminisced about earlier political figures in a thank you address.

He also told the 150 people present — wives also were there including Mr. Diefenbaker's wife, Olive — that he could have become a wealthy man by pursuing his career as a lawyer, rather than entering politics.

However, he would not change the course of his life if he had it to do over again.

TRUCE BID A 'FRAUD' SAYS CHINA AFTER RAID

TOKYO (UPI)—China said today talk about an extended holiday ceasefire in Vietnam was a "fraud" in view of "savage bombing" by American planes of the Hanoi area. Other Communist nations joined in the condemnation of the United States air attacks.

An article in the official "People's Daily" said the United States was "anxiously scheming the so-called Christmas truce, bombing pause and peace talk hoaxes".

"The Johnson administration is making vain attempts to bring the Vietnamese people to their knees and make them accept the United States peace talks fraud by the sinister means of stepping up its bombing of the D.V.R. (North Vietnamese) capital," the editorial said.

. . . DISNEY

In an industry sometimes seemingly obsessed with sex and brutality, Disney thrived with simple tales about animals, children and Victorian characters.

ALL AGES KNEW HIM

The titles of his cartoons and their characters evoked fond memories for more than a generation of Disney fans — The Three Little Pigs, Donald Duck, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Fantasia, Peter Pan, The Lady and the Tramp.

Aspects of the Disney empire included:

—Some 80 feature films since Walt and his brother Roy opened their cartoon studio in 1923. Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, who bore names such as Happy, Grumpy, Sneezy and Dopey, was the first animated feature film. An immediate success, it has been reissued repeatedly. The rollicking Mary Poppins brought Julie Andrews to the screen as a gravity-defying governess and tunefully gave the language a new word — supercalifragilisticexpialidocious.

—By 1966, more than 1,900 hours of television entertainment, including the weekly Wonderful World of Color, with grandfatherly Walt as host.

—Disneyland, the 160 - acre, $35,000,000 amusement park at suburban Anaheim that became a must-see item for every tourist visiting Southern California.

DEMANDING MAN

Disney was a man of medium size, with greying brown hair. Impatient with himself or coworkers who failed to deliver.

Walter Elias Disney was born Dec. 5, 1901, in Chicago, of Irish-German descent.

The family moved to Kansas City, and Walt carried papers, earned haircuts by drawing sketches for a barber who displayed them in the window, drew illustrations for the high school paper and took his first motion pictures. Nights, he studied cartooning.

Returning at 18, he became an apprentice artist for a Kansas City advertising company. Later he opened his own commercial art studio but soon took a $35-a-week job as cartoonist for a Kansas City firm that made still-picture slides for projection on theatre screens.

With an old movie camera he experimented with animated films. Several young cartoonists joined him at his garage studio in the animation of fairy tales, starting with Little Red Riding Hood.

Shortly after his 63rd birthday, a newspaperman who was interviewing Disney was struck by his repetitious use of the phrase "it's fun" as he talkel about his movies, Walt Disney Studios in Burbank, Disneyland and his life in general.

This led the writer to ask:

"What was the most rewarding thing in your life?"

Disney retorted:

"The whole damned thing! The fact I was able to build an organization and hold it. Some of the people at the studio have been with me for 35 years."

He then was asked to tell his biggest disappointment;

"Nothing," he replied. "I used to kid my wife about not having a son, but now I have two good sons-in-law. Oh, I've had little disappointments, but I've gotten over them."

. . . CAMPBELL

sections that I had expected."

Election officials said only about 32 per cent of the eligible 253,000 voters showed up at the polls.

He said he is convinced Mr. Campbell will carry out many of the policies already launched under the four-year Rathie regime, including a downtown redevelopment scheme which would see new buildings constructed at the city's main intersection, Georgia and Granville.

Miss Rand, 21, said she was quite pleased at her showing. She polled seven per cent of the total vote.

"That's four times what Campbell said I'd get," she said.

TOPS POLL

Incumbent alderman Hugh Bird topped the poll with 49,528 votes. Other NPA incumbents elected for two-year terms were Halford Wilson, Earle Adams, Ernie Broome and Reg Atherton.

Marianne Linnell, Peter Graham and Ed Sweeney joined the NPA ranks on council. Incumbent Tom Alsbury, an independent, also regained his council seat.

The NPA continued its domination of the school board, seating eight of the nine trustees. Incumbents Robert Dundas, Betsy McDonald, Arthur Johnson, Frederick Rowell, Constance Spring, Eva New, Gordon McOuat and Mel Scott were all successful.

Independent James MacFarlane edged the NPA's George Holgate for the ninth seat.

The NPA won all seven parks board seats. Four incumbents, George Wainborn, Margaret Jack, George Puil and Andy Livingston, were joined by newcomers Lorne Brown, Sandy Robertson and Joseph Malkin.

Great Loss To Filmland

"He was practically the only producer making films which were entirely suitable for families and children. His name alone was an assurance to parents."

. . . SPLIT

Mr. Bennett had endorsed Mayor Rathie for re-election after the latter made a surprise endorsation during the Cariboo byelection of Mr. Bonner, the man he had unsuccessfully opposed as a Liberal candidate in the 1963 election.

SURPRISE WIN

Mr. Peterson was asked for comment, as he headed to a cabinet meeting here, on the surprise victory of Ald. Thomas Campbell over the premier's choice.

"I think Mr. Campbell will make a very capable mayor," he responded.

Asked if he had agreed with the premier's endorsation of Mr. Rathie, Mr. Peterson said:

"We all have our won views in regard to civic elections. I know that he (Campbell) was supported by members of our cabinet as well as our party."

'ACCORDING TO PRESS'

Asked why he appeared to be breaking with the Premier's choice, Mr. Peterson said that Mr. Bennett's endorsation of Mr. Rathie was only "according to press reports."

He said he personally knew Mr. Campbell and was sure that he would be as dedicated a mayor as Mr. Rathie had been.

He added that he felt his relations with Mr. Rathie, who had announced that he had voted for Mr. Peterson in the Sept. 12 general election, "are still very good."

NO BETS

Mr Peterson said it was obvious that many Social Credit party members had voted for both Mr. Campbell and Mr. Rathie but he personally had made no bets on the election or become involved in any way.

"I didn't participate in the campaign in any way but I know some members of the cabinet were supporting Mr. Campbell," he repeated.

Premier Bennett, in Vancouver for a civil service dinner, was not available for comment.

Mr. Bonner, who also was in Vancouver, declined to say whether he had favored Mr. Rathie or Mr. Campbell.

"I find provincial politics sufficiently engaging that I don't take part in civic politics," he said.

Asked if he thought the tit-for-tat endorsation of Mr. Rathie was a factor in his defeat, Mr. Bonner said he did not wish to speculate.

Britain Fails To Soften African Stand

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — African members of the UN Security Council were reported today to have refused to drop demands that Britain use force to cut off Rhodesia's oil supply despite Western warnings such demands are doomed to defeat.

Informed sources said Britain has failed to persuade the three African members — Nigeria, Uganda and Mali—to abandon their attempt to draft such an amendment onto the British resolution calling for mandatory sanctions against 12 Rhodesian exports, not including oil. The amendment introduced this week with the blessings of the 38 African UN members demands that Britain "prevent by all means the transport to Southern Rhodesia of oil or oil products."

Lord Caradon of Britain, who spent most of Wednesday in consultation with the African council members, was said to have pointed out th at Britain would have to throw a naval blockade around all of southern Africa to enforce such a ban.

"The whole idea is unrealistic," said a source close to the British delegation.

"Even if Britain had the warships available for such a massive blockade, she would refuse to take a step certain to bring her into direct confrontation with South Africa and Portugal."

SUPPLIES OIL

South Africa, which has been supplying much of Rhodesia's oil since Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith declared independence 13 months ago, is Britain's third biggest trading partner.

Western sources predicted that the amendment would get only five votes in the 15-nation council—the three African and the two Communist members, the Soviet Union and Bulgaria.

This would make it possible for Britain to abstain on the amendment and avoid using the veto.

Caradon is reported to have told the African members that his government is more favorable to their other oil amendment. This calls on UN members to refrain from allowing their territories or transport facilities to be used by anyone trying to ship oil to Rhodesia.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko told the council Wednesday that the British request for sanctions was meaningless unless oil was included.

WITHDRAWAL from an active leadership in politics was announced Wednesday by Pennsylvania Governor William W. Scranton. He will leave office on Jan. 17. Scranton told a press conference he will drop his activities in both national and state politics.

FULL DISCLOSURE

A-G To Seek National Plan On Loan Cost

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today said he will to to Ottawa this weekend to tell a federal-provincial conference that B.C. wants a national policy requiring disclosure of true interest rates.

He said the conference will discuss desirability of requiring credit firms to publish their full interest charges, setting a ceiling on allowable credit rates and instalment buying practices in general.

Mr. Bonner said his department has undertaken a study of the interest-disclosure proposal as promised in last spring's legislative session but it feels that a uniform policy should be adopted throughout Canada.

He said the conference will take place Monday but he will stay on in Ottawa to assist Premier Bennett at a finance ministers' meeting there Tuesday and Wednesday.

Step-Up Deplored

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — UN Secretary-General U Thant deplored today what he described as "the intensification of the bombing of North Vietnam" by the United States. Through a spokesman, he also expressed fear "it might lead to a wider war."

A spokesman gave Thant's views when asked for the secretary-general's comment on "the bombing of Hanoi."

AFTER 2-YEAR DELAY

Bank of B.C. Now Official

OTTAWA (CP) — After more than two yeags of parliamentary delays, the private bill to incorporate the Bank of British Columbia became law Wednesday.

The measure received royal assent from Chief Justice Robert Taschereau, acting as deputy to the Governor-General, shorty after the Senate concurred with amendments passed earlier by the Commons.

The new bank will have its headquarters in Vancouver and will be headed by Einar Gunderson, a former member of the B.C. cabinet and the chief fund raiser for the Social Credit party of Premier Bennett.

The amendment written into the bill by the Commons finance committee prohibits any government official from being an executive to the new bank.

The bill originally provided that a majority of the bank's directors and executives be B.C. residents, but this was deleted by the committee to strengthen the bank's national character.

The B.C. government originally proposed to own 25 per cent of the bank's shares, but this was opposed and the bill as passed does not involve any provincial ownership.

Nine other pieces of legislation, mostly minor, also were given royal assent. They included a measure granting eight paid statutory holidays and a two-week vacation to stevedores working for more than one company.

Chinese Embassy Damaged

HANOI (CP) — The Chinese embassy, damaged in an American air raid Wednesday, refused to accept incoming telephone calls today. Callers were repeatedly told by the embassy operator that the person they asked for was absent.

The North Vietnamese foreign ministry refused to add anything to Wednesday's official statement that "U.S. aircraft attacked a certain number of areas in Hanoi, including that which contains foreign embassies."

Journalists were invited by the ministry to visit certain parts of the city.

The Chinese embassy, closed to visitors for several hours Wednesday night, was open today.

The embassy, a vast stone building dating back to the 1930s, presented its normal aspect, with no damage visible from the broad, tree-lined avenue on which it stands.

East European experts said a rocket hit the back of the building. Staff in neighboring embassies said the rocket exploded in a cloud of black smoke without apparently causing any casualties, but badly damaging the embassy's kitchens.

Justice Named For Port Inquiry

Shift System in Eight Schools Likely for Next Year: Bunn

Greater Victoria children in eight schools may have to take classes next year on a swing-shift basis due to the provincial government's clamp-down on construction already approved by ratepayers.

Trustee Peter Bunn, chairman of the school board's building and grounds committee, made the warning Wednesday after Education Minister Leslie Peterson confirmed he will not allow all schools now planned in the province to go ahead at once.

Mr. Peterson said the tight money market already had put a strain on construction financing and last Saturday saw civic voters approve an additional $43.3 million in school construction.

He said all the approved bylaws were being reviewed by the department to put them on a priority basis before deciding which would be permitted to go ahead to meet the next school year's needs.

Mr. Bunn said swing shifts will be needed next fall at Craigflower, Shelbourne, Frank Hobbs, Gordon Head, Hillcrest, Fairburn, Braefoot and Cedar Hill elementary schools if Mr. Peterson prevents immediate construction of two planned schools.

These are the $1 million elementary-junior secondary school at Christie Point in View Royal and the $600,000 Newton elementary school in the Saanich panhandle.

Mr. Bunn said the eight schools already "are bulging" with pupils and the two planned schools would provide enough relief to avoid shifts.

Sooke school board trustee Isabelle Reader said there were 451 additional pupils registered last September and another 500 are expected next September and shifts are "a possibility, although not a probability."

'FOOTBALL'

Meanwhile, Mr. Peterson accused Sooke school board chairman John Bartanus, an unsuccessful NDP candidate Sept. 12, of turning the situation into a political football.

He based his accusation on the statement by Mr. Bartanus at a Tuesday meeting of the school board when it became apparent that even though ratepayers approved a $2.1 million referendum Saturday, the government might prevent any construction being started.

"If they can find money for blacktop, there must be a place somewhere in their budget for education," Mr. Bartanus had said.

Mr. Peterson said the Sooke board had been sent a departmental circular letter some time ago warning that even if ratepayers approve money bylaws, the government might hold back construction financing until the money market improves.

QUESTION MOTIVES

Mr. Peterson questioned the motvies of the Sooke school board because it had not revealed this warning to the ratepayers before Saturday's vote.

New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan claimed Wednesday there "definitely" is an unjustified cutback in urgent school construction programs.

"We need schools desperately . . . more than pulp mills. Otherwise where are we going to train youths to run these mills?"

He said skilled workmen are imported from outside the province while B.C. youngsters have difficulty obtaining the same education or training.

YOUTH ON WELFARE

"We should be building (academic) schools and technical schools full blast, otherwise we're going to be keeping British Columbia youth on welfare," he said.

Mr. Strachan said school boards do not put unnecessary bylaws to their ratepayers so the education department should not hamstring their efforts to build more facilities.

"We will have to go back to shift systems unless they provide the facilities," he said.

"The basic education of our young people will suffer through inadequate education, lack of libraries and laboratories, and overcrowding."

This would, he claimed, put them at a disadvantage when trying to continue education at university or technological schools.

BUGS RIDE SATELLITE INTO ORBIT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A host of tiny plants and animals whirled about the earth today in the first U.S. bio-satellite. They couldn't know it, but scientists were watching their every move for clues to the biological dangers of space flight.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said "all systems are performing as we planned" aboard the 940-pound satellite.

Thus far only the premature injection of a fluid into a chamber containing two microscopic amoeba had flawed the flight — a small part of the "crew" that included wasps, fruit flies, and four beatles.

B.C. Students Demonstrate

KELOWNA (CP) — About 300 shouting high school students Wednesday staged a brief demonstration in support of an Okanagan regional college. Financial support for such a college failed to get the 60-per-cent majority in a referendum Saturday among nine participating districts.

The students stood around the downtown office of the regional college council and shouted "we want a college."

Chuck Jean, a Grade 12 student in Kelowna, said a noon rally Saturday is expected to draw from 2,000 to 4,000 students.

A large number is expected to drive to Vernon and march around the city hall which is closed Saturdays. Eighty-five per cent of voters in Vernon turned down the college referendum while the majority in the eight other districts favored it.

Tito To Visit Expo

MONTREAL (CP)—President Tito of Yugoslavia will visit Canada next year to help celebrate his country's national day at the 1967 world's fair, it was announced Wednesday. Exact details of the 74-year-old president's visit have not been worked out.

CITY FIRM LOW BIDDER

Pacific Pile Driving Ltd., of Victoria, was lowest of seven tendering firms at $157,170 for the foundation contract in the provincial government's $6 million mental hospital project on Lee Avenue, behind the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Works Minister W. N. Chant said the low bid was "practically in line" with the department's estimates, after he opened the tenders Wednesday afternoon. A contract award is expected within a week to clear the way for a quick start.

TB Fund Gets $24,000

Greater Victorians and residents of Sidney and Sooke have given $24,000 to the Christmas seal campaign in aid of the B.C. Tuberculosis Society.

The campaign opened Nov. 1.

"We are up nearly $1,500 on last year's total for the middle of December," said Mrs. J. U. Kimmitt, chairman of the campaign.

"It looks as if we shall have more than $33,000 when the campaign closes in January."

Council Grant To Gallery

The Canada Council has granted $2,600 to Greater Victoria Art Gallery to help pay the salary of assistant curator Will Hoare.

Mr. Hoare has been acting curator since Sept. 5, due to the illness of curator Colin Graham. Mr. Graham is expected to return in January.

Mr. Hoare was one of five Canadians who received grants from the Netherlands government to study at the Royal Academy of Arts, The Hague, from 1962 to 1964.

Later he studied at the University of Southern Illinois and worked at Vancouver Art Gallery while teaching art in Vancouver high schools.

JACKIE:

Prospect Of Trial 'Horrible'

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy says she is prepared to relive her grief and shock after the assassination of her husband in order to block publication of a book about the tragedy.

She admits the prospect of going to court is "horrible."

The book, which the Kennedy family at first had authorized, is Death of a President, by William Manchester. It describes the assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963, and the events in the days immediately afterward.

Mrs. Kennedy calls parts of the book "tasteless and distorted" and says:

"As horrible as a trial will be, it now seems clear that my only redress is to ask the courts to enforce my rights. . . ."

Her lawyers said they are preparing papers seeking a temporary injunction to stop the book's publication and will file them in two or three days.

Summonses already have been served on Harper and Row, book publishers, and Cowles Communications Inc., publishers of Look magazine.

The magazine paid Manchester a reported $650,000 for the serial rights to his book and has scheduled publication of the first article for Jan. 10. Harper and Row plan to bring out the book next April.

Mrs. Kennedy's statement about the book mentioning "inaccurate and unfair references to other individuals" and the impending lawsuit may throw some light on reports of friction between the Kennedys and President Johnson. It was supposed to have started on the plane that brought Kennedy's body from Dallas to Washington after the assassination.

To support Mrs. Kennedy's contention that Manchester's book violated the terms of the agreement under which it was written, this and other episodes may be aired.

Manchester said: "I have confidence in the book. I think it will stand on its own. I ask only that people give it a chance."

William Attwood, editor - in-chief of Look, issued a statement Wednesday night saying cancellation of the scheduled publication now would amount to "censorship of history." He said Look intended to go ahead.

Harper and Row said they had made four sets of "substantial" revisions to the book at the request of Mrs. Kennedy and other members of the family.

After the first series, the firm said in a statement, the Kennedy's officially notified them "members of the family will place no obstacle in the way of publication."

A source close to Mrs. Kennedy gave this version of the events that led up to the dispute:

"Early in 1964," he said, "it became apparent to Mrs. Kennedy and other members of the family there would be sensational versions of the assassination."

The source said a "memorandum of understanding" spelled out the terms under which Manchester, selected by the family, would write the book. It was signed by Senator Robert F. Kennedy and William Manchester.

It is dated March 26, 1964, and contains 11 clauses. The Kennys consider two of these have the immediate bearing on the case.

One reads: "The completed manuscript shall be reviewed by Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Robert F. Kennedy and the text shall not be published unless and until approved by them."

The other reads: "The book may not be published before Nov. 22, 1968, unless Mrs. Kennedy designates a prior date and shall be published at a date thereafter as shall be mutually agreeable to the contracting parties."

Mrs. Kennedy, the source continued, then gave Manchester two long interviews in early 1964.

"She was in a state of grief, of course," the informant said. "She was not self-censoring but relying on his agreement not to publish anything that would be offensive to her.

"The material is offensive in that it delineates her feelings during that period. No woman would want these things disclosed to the world."

In his foreword to the book, Manchester notes that Mrs. Kennedy suggested he write the account "of the tragic and historic events in Texas and Washington 10 weeks earlier."

"Neither Mrs. Kennedy nor anyone else is in any way answerable for my subsequent research of this narrative," Manchester says in the foreword. He also states in part:

"I could not dilute my questions and still be faithful to my task, and over half the subjects experienced moments of emotional difficulty. Often, I found that a principal figure had thrust his memories into a remote corner of his mind. Bringing them out was agonizing, almost unendurable."

Two years before being picked by Mrs. Kennedy to write Death of a President, Manchester wrote another book about her husband, Portrait of a President, which a New York Times reviewer said "could only be described as adoring."

Mill Noise Not Within Health Board Jurisdiction

The Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health decided Wednesday that noise from a plywood mill is none of its business.

The decision was made after board members heard read a letter from View Royal resident W. B. Holms complaining that noise from the Victoria Plywood Ltd. mill made it impossible for nearby residents to sleep at night.

Mr. Holms claimed that because sleep is impossible the noise constituted a health hazard.

The board agreed to pass on the complaint to the mill operators but noted there are no regulations under the Health Act giving it power to take positive action.

"There are no regulations for this sort of thing under the act as it applies to unorganized territory," said metro health chief Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread.

"I don't think it's any of our concern," said Coun. Art Mebs of Esquimalt. "I doubt if the noise is any worse then traffic on downtown streets. Now if View Royal was a part of Esquimalt where we have an anti-noise bylaw, maybe something could be done."

A second complaint from Mr. Holms regarding oil smoke and soot from the Naval Fire Fighting School also received little sympathy.

It was noted the oil fire lit from time to time to train firefighters burned only briefly.

Thief Gets $20

Rooms were ransacked and a $20 bill stolen from the home of W. Richardson, 209 Maddock, early Tuesday night.

Police said a thief climbed onto a sun deck and entered the house through a window which wasn't locked.

Federal West Coast Port Study Findings Hold Local Interest

By AB KENT
Business Editor

A federally-sponsored study of west coast port facilities could have implications for Victoria deep sea shipping facilities in view of the limited capacity of Vancouver and New Westminster docks.

And coming at a time when the provincial government is considering a multi-million dollar bulk-loading terminal for Robert Bank, near Tsawassen, the recommendations are awaited with special interest.

Transport Minister Jack Pickersgill has said the federal study is aimed at determining capacity, speed and dependability of commodity movements through coast port facilities.

Of particular interest are grain shipments since more than 30 per cent of the Canadian crop goes to Asia and the Orient through western ports.

The study has been in progress for about two months and both immediate and long-term recommendations are expected to come out of it.

Railways, National Harbors Board, Canadian Wheat Board, Shipping Federation and local representatives are involved in the federal study.

* * *

The provincial study, meanwhile, is at cabinet level and based on an engineering report that suggests development in phases of an entirely new ship, truck and rail terminal adjoining Tsawwassen ferry terminal.

The future of Victoria's shipping facility at Ogden Point could be brighter as a result of the federal study, at least on a short-term basis. More ships might be handled here during the immediate need of loading space on the lower mainland.

But if the Victoria Chamber of Commerce has its way, new deep sea loading facilities would be built across from Ogden Point, perhaps at Macaulay or Work Point, provided a new breakwater is thrust across the harbor mouth to shield docks from southeasterly and southwesterly winds and waves.

If that were done, it could mean the end of heavy transport through downtown Victoria en route to the docks, enabling trucks to reach ships by way of Victoria West and Esquimalt.

It also would mean grain and smaller vessels could be handled at Ogden Point while surer bulk carriers and lumber could be embarked at the proposed new terminal.

* * *

The chamber's annual Christmas party Friday noon at the Empress is a sellout.

And showing themselves at the event for the first time will be Premier Bennett and Mrs. Bennett, making a foursome with Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes, both regulars.

* * *

A letter to McAllister Towing Ltd. shareholders predicts 1966 earnings will show improvement over the $1.138 million registered for 1965.

But no dividends will be paid this year because of large expenditures for new equipment, including new Island Tug and Barge vessels. A good year is predicted for 1967.

A. D. Houston, president of Native Mines Ltd., reports the camp at Zymoetz, near Terrace, is ready for winter and drilling continues.

Values in five of the first nine holes in a lower ore body range from .08 per cent to 1.33 per cent copper, he said.

Hole 10 of the upper ore body graded 5.9 per cent copper for a distance of 40 feet, with 4.78 ounces of silver and .046 ounces of gold.

BAD ADVICE COSTLY TO BROKERS

MONTREAL (CP) Stockbrokers Baker Weeks and Co. have been ordered by a Quebec Superior Court judge to pay $7,000 damages to six investor-clients for losses the latter suffered because of the advice of a Baker Weeks' employee.

The brokerage has its head office in New York and branches in Toronto and Montreal.

Mr. Justice Arthur I. Smith said the six plaintiffs said they lost an aggregate $13,256 after purchase of shares in the capital stock of Shoppers City Ltd.

The judge added there were no allegations of fraud or bad faith on the part of the defendants.

SOME PLANTS MIGHT SHUT DOWN

Ford Hits Safety Rules

DEARBORN, Mich. (CP) Henry Ford II warned Wednesday there is a "definite possibility that unreasonable safety standards could force the auto industry to shut down some plants if they cannot be met."

At his annual year-end review and economic forecast, Mr. Ford called some of the 23 safety standards which U.S. automakers are required to build into their 1968-model cars "unreasonable, arbitrary, unnecessary and technically not feasible." He did not mention any specific requirements.

He was critical of the list of new safety features which the auto manufacturers must include on their 1968-model cars. The commerce department has until Jan. 31 to publish the safety standards in their final form.

Arjay Miller, president of the Ford Motor Co., who attended the news conference with Mr. Ford, chairman of the board, said "the government sets the rules for this industry now."

Mr. Ford, in a question and answer session, also warned that "the cost of implementing some of these requirements could price us right out of the market."

"This industry is very important to the economy of the U.S. If we have to shut down plants because we can't meet some of these requirements, then this country is going to be in real trouble."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Auto safety critic Ralph Nader branded as "industrial extortion", today a warning from Henry Ford II that the auto industry might have to shut down production lines unless the U.S. government modifies its new safety standards.

Nader claimed that there was no reason why the automakers could not meet the 23 standards issued earlier this month for 1968 model cars.

Record Output For B.C. Mines

Value of mineral production in B.C. is expected to hit a record $331.7 million this year.

Mines and Petroleum Resources Minister Donald Brothers Wednesday said preliminary estimates indicated 1966 would see an 18 per cent increase, or $51 million, over the 1965 production value.

The indicated record would be the eighth in a row for the mining and oil industry but it still would be less than one-third the value of last year's $980 million production by the forests industry.

Molybdenum and copper showed the greatest increase, both in volume and value.

DOUBLED

The production of molybdenum more than doubled to make it fourth metal in total value. Production of "moly" in 1965 was worth $12,405,344, but in 1966 soared to an estimated $27,700,000.

Increases of more than 30 per cent in production and 40 per cent in price almost doubled the total value of B.C. copper in the past year, the statement said. The 1966 copper production is estimated at $61,600,000, compared with $32,696,081 in 1965.

The estimated 1966 value of B.C.-produced metals (1965 value in brackets): Gold $4,500,000 ($4,444,142); silver $7,200,000 ($6,929,793); lead $33,000,000 ($43,149,171); zinc $47,200,000 ($48,866,923); iron $19,600,000 ($21,266,154); cadmium $2,400,000 ($1,297,000); nickel $2,600,000 ($2,790,480), and other metals including antimony, bismuth, indium and tin, $3,750,000 ($3,224,098).

The total value of 1966 production of industrial minerals was $22,900,000, compared with a value of $20,407,230 in 1965.

The total value of B.C. structural materials produced in 1966 was an estimated $37,900,000 compared with a 1965 figure of $32,325,714. The 1966 estimated production of fuels, including B.C. coal, natural gas, natural gas by-products and oil is $37,500,000 compared with $29,340,642 in 1965.

"Prospects for the future include increased production of copper and molybdenum and normal growth for many metals and minerals," the statement added.

RECORD YEAR FOR FIRESTONE

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. reported Wednesday the 12-month period ended Oct. 31 was the most successful year in sales and earnings in the company's history.

Earnings totalled $101,765,793, with sales of $1,814,592,386. These figures compared with $86,667,178 and $1,609,756,478 for the previous year.

Trans-Canada Labels Proposals 'Frivolous'

WASHINGTON (CP) — Recommendations to dismiss its $200,000,000 U.S. project are "frivolous on their face and should be denied summarily," Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. told the Federal Power Commission Wednesday.

Trans-Canada said undertakings given recently to the Canadian government on the project, designed to feed more Alberta natural gas via the U.S. to Eastern Canada and U.S. export markets, leave its application entirely unchanged.

It said the application should be resorted to the presiding examiner for a prompt decision.

Its submission was aimed at four others presented Monday — from staff counsel of the commission, coal interests, the Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha and the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co.

Hearings on the Trans-Canada application began last April but were suspended by the presiding examiner when the Canadian government announced Aug. 25 it would not approve the export of the necessary gas to Trans-Canada as its project stood.

Subsequently, after certain Trans-Canada undertakings limiting the amount to be carried to Ontario and Quebec via the U.S., Canadian approval was given.

That left the commission with the task of deciding whether to let the presiding examiner carry on with preparing his non-binding recommendation to it or whether to order the application dismissed.

The brief from coal interests and that of staff counsel George Lewpes, a strong critic of the Trans-Canada plan, asked the commission to reject the application. That act would leave Trans-Canada — already well behind in its original plan to deliver more gas to expanding Ontario markets by last Nov. 1 — no recourse but to make a new application, its fourth since November, 1964.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

Anybody who has been exposed to athletes automatically qualifies to write a book on the fine art of eating.

From personal experience at football training camps the title might read: "Migawd! What Did You Do With the FIRST Plate?"

After being asked to luncheon with several jockeys, a best seller would be: "A Bottle of No-Calorie Pop, Alors!"

It is a matter of record that waitresses at a football team's table often visit opthalmologists to have eyeballs returned to their sockets.

Football players do not converse at the trough. They are too busy stoking. Small Everests of meat, potatoes, vegetables, salad, ice cream disappear only to be replaced by even larger successors.

One football player seldom asks another football player to dinner without first having won a Schenley award to pay for the meat.

Jockeys have no desire to get as big as the horses they ride. Ask any rider about a good place to dine and he'll say, "the nearest pop machine."

Bobby Jennings, who works West Coast tracks, is six feet and 112 pounds. He would make a great hat rack as long as you didn't put more than one hat on him. Two would make the whole thing collapse.

Problem Not Moving Food—Just Moving

Personally I fall somewhere between the heavyweights and lightweights when it comes to eating.

I haven't had breakfast since Noah built the boat.

I don't have anything against breakfast. But in the dawn's early light I am lucky to find my pants let alone the porridge.

Lunch? I get by on a double order of prawns, french fries on the side, salad and half a coconut cream pie. It's not much, maybe, but a fellow has to live.

Dinner is my hour. I'm not fussy, as long as it's food. First you start with half a cow. . . .

The problem here is not moving the food but moving. After a particularly splendid session with the cutlery I often feel I could not move out of the chair if the place was burning beautifully.

Three years ago, John LaBreque says, it was the same with him.

"The eyelids would droop. I was — how you say? — lethargic. Always heavy."

So what did he do?

LaBreque smiled. "I tried thropology," he said.

"At first I lose weight. Then I put it on. But" — eyes flashing — "only in the right places. I used to have the skinny legs. Now my calves, they are respectable. Nevair am I droopy."

I have never tried thropology. We haven't even been introduced. I didn't know whether you took it with ice cream or artichokes with lobster soup a la sherry on the side.

You Need Faith in a Cast-Iron Stomach

Mons. LaBreque straightened all that. He is a Montrealer, brown hair, 32. He earns his bread (or if you like, thropology) as a comedian with Ice Capades.

"Thropology," he said, "is a kind of tailor-made science of eating based on your individual chemistry. It deals not only with what you eat but the way you eat."

"I see," I said, not seeing at all. "But when you talk about style, I'm rather old-fashioned. You know, the knife, the fork, the dessert —"

"No, no," said Mons. LaBreque. "By 'way' you eat I mean the chewing. Did you know you should chew a banana more than you chew a steak? Myself I am not too good at the chewing. In my first year I only chew 4 per cent. Last year 12 per cent. Now I'm up to 20 per cent. It is bettair."

And what is it that we should chew?

"It depends," said Mons. LaBreque, "on the individual. In my case for breakfast I had eight pieces of toast, half a package of dates, five bananas and grapes."

Hi! Yi! Yi! I thought. This boy hasn't got thropology. He's got a cast-iron stomach.

"For lunch," continued Mons. LaBreque, "it is a steak, rare and broiled — NEVER FRIED — and lettuce and cabbage.

"During the show I munch on cabbage or apples and oranges. Either fruit. But nevair both.

"After the show I will have maybee a vegetable plate . . . boiled potatoes and carrots.

"Nevair milk or milk products. Why? Cows' milk was meant for calves. There is so much inter-breeding of the cows eet is not good. And nevair white bread. Only the whole wheat."

Austin Motair in a Cast-Iron Body

Consorting with thropology, Mons. LaBreque claims, has led his mother to lead an active, restful life at 70 — "she bowls regularly and all that" — and has worked wonders for his sister, even to improving her marriage.

"You remembair Beliveau too-three years ago was always tired? They say he had a weak heart. They say it was like driving a Cadillac with an Austin motair. Well, Jean, he discover thropology through Adrien Allard, a diet expert.

"Jean, he try thropology and his strength come back. I try it and I swear by eet. Now and then, of course, I cheet a leetle. Human nature, eh? But as long as I do not keep on cheatin' I am alright."

Alright? By gar, he is pretty good. In all Ice Capades, only one comedian pulls in more—er—lettuce in the pay envelope. Freddie Trinkler, reportedly hauls in 1,000 long green ones a week.

Trinker is in his fifties. Presumably he will not go on forever.

With thropology, John LaBreque at 32, reasons that he has a long career ahead in the comedian business. Much longer than boxing which he tried (30 fights, no losses) or hockey where, with some exceptions, 32 is considered on the south slope of life.

Perhaps John LaBreque has something.

For the kind of lettuce he's taking home, maybe we should all get our skates sharpened — and try a parsley sandwich. Make mine on whole wheat, please.

Starr, Roland Named Cream of NFL Crop

NEW YORK (AP)—Bart Starr, Green Bay Packers quarterback, was Wednesday named the most valuable player in the National Football League by vote of a panel of Associated Press football writers.

Starr won by a large margin with 19 votes to six for Larry Wilson of St. Louis Cardinals. Don Meredith of Dallas Cowboys. Leroy Kelly, Cleveland Brown's successor to Jim Brown picked up three votes.

Starr, in his eleventh pro season, completed a fancy 62.6 per cent of his passes and had only three interceptions.

At the same time Johnny Roland, a 1965 all-America back from Missouri who received a big bonus to sign with St. Louis Cardinals, was named Rookie of the Year.

Roland won in a close vote over Tommy Nobis of Atlanta Falcons, the two - time all-America from Texas.

In the Cards' first 13 games, Roland accounted for a total of 1,566 yards with his running, throwing or catching. He has scored six touchdowns and has thrown one touchdown pass. He leads the league in punt returns.

'Strictly Hanky Panky' Abel Says of Chihawks

NEW YORK (CP) — Howie Young is still a minor leaguer and Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League are crying foul.

Young, playing with Los Angeles Blades of the Western Hockey League, and the Wings are separated by thousands of miles and the Chicago Black Hawks.

The former bad boy of hockey was to have played with the Wings in New York Wednesday night, but the Hawks blocked a complicated trade by claiming prior right for Young's services.

"Why did they wait so long before killing the deal?" asked Detroit coach Sid Abel. "This is strictly hanky panky on the part of the Black Hawks.

"They have a special deal with Los Angeles, but it's obvious they are just out to keep us down."

The Wings, floundering in the NHL cellar, could have used Young Wednesday night. They were beaten 4-1 by New York Rangers.

STARTED WITH DEAL

The Howie Young caper all started when Detroit made a deal with the Blades to send two players to Los Angeles in exchange for Young, who played for Detroit from 1960 through 1963, compiling a record 273 penalty minutes in the 62-63 campaign.

But that trade collapsed when an unidentified NHL club put in a claim for Hall or Lebrun. Both were removed from the waiver list and returned to Pittsburgh.

The Wings then started wheeling and dealing again, this time offering Bob McCord from Pittsburgh and Alex Faulkner from Memphis Wings of the Central League.

The Blades said yes, but the Hawks, who obtained Young from the Wings in June, 1963, said no.

Chicago reminded NHL president Clarence Campbell of an agreement they had signed with the Blades two years ago, after selling Young to Los Angeles in mid-season of 1963-64.

PRESIDENT EXPLAINS

Campbell explained it:

"Chicago has the right of first refusal on any player owned by Los Angeles under agreement the two clubs signed in 1964. This agreement runs through to July 1, 1967."

He said the Blades had no authority to make the trade with Detroit and added his office was not instrumental in barring Young's return.

"We have always kept a string on Young since we sent him to Los Angeles three years ago," said Chicago general manager Tommy Ivan.

"We received some cash in the deal, but the important consideration was getting NHL rights to two players from Los Angeles. These players have not made it in the NHL, so we still have some say where Young plays in the NHL."

Ivan admitted he approved of the transaction of Young for Lebrun and Hall. He objected to McCord and Faulkner and would not say why.

"I don't have to explain why except to the Los Angeles club," he said.

Abel said as far as the Wings are concerned the deal is off. They have recalled defenceman Pete Goegan from Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League.

The Wings do not intend to do any dealing with the Hawks, he said, or attempt another deal with the Blades.

"Our deal was with the Blades and we shook hands on the second deal. When I talked with Ivan on Monday he didn't mention any agreement he had with Los Angeles for first refusal of their players."

On the West Coast, Young, who straightened out his personal life by joining Alcoholics Anonymous, was upset over his loss of a chance to return to the NHL and end his minor league exile.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

Detroit 87, Chicago 93.

It depends on the discretion of the directors, but the new Victoria Racquets Club layout could be a million-dollar development some time in the New Year.

The executive board has been authorized "to expend an additional $250,000 as it becomes available" on the new club, scheduled to be completed in May. The budget on the building program now in progress is $800,000.

The club's annual general meeting this week was told that a steady increase of membership indicates the $250,000 development, if and when it becomes a reality, will be an extension of the current building program.

GOING SMOOTHLY

Dr. Kemble Greenwood was re-elected president of the club.

Members also had to vote on five vacancies on the directorate. Andy Pitkethley, George Evans and Bert Matthews were re-elected while newcomers named were George McMinn and R. C. (Doc) Miller.

E. L. (Tut) Jones, Ted Smythe, Jack Glover and Peter Meredith are directors who have yet another year to serve.

Gilbert scored twice Wednesday night and took the National Hockey League goal - scoring lead with 15 for the season as the first place New York Rangers ripped sagging Detroit 4-1.

The goals gave Gilbert seven in the last four games—the hottest pace in the NHL. And he's been doing it on one good leg.

"The ankle is still sore," Gilbert admits. "It feels stronger but I have no lateral movement." That means that everytime Gilbert turns on the ice, it's a major navigational problem.

BURSITIS DEVELOPS

He has developed a slight case of bursitis in the joint as a result of a rap across the ankle by Detroit goalie Roger Crozier last month. He went eight games without a goal after the injury but has snapped the slump spectacularly in the last week.

"Am I leading the league," Gilbert asked when someone mentioned his goal total. "That's great but what's even better is that we're first. That's more important."

The Rangers, in the midst of a four - game winning streak, were serenaded by their happy fans with a "We're number one" chant again and the players loved it.

"It was great to hear," said goalie Ed Giacomin. "Having the fans with you is a big boost."

NO FIRE ANYWHERE

Asked if any trades were expected now that the Howie Young deal had been erased, Detroit manager-coach Sid Abel shook his head.

"No," he said, "there's nothing on the fire . . . not even the club."

Toronto Maple Leafs squeezed out a 2-1 win over Boston Bruins in another game Wednesday night, while Chicago Black Hawks edged Montreal Canadiens by the same score.

SHACK SCORES

Eddie Shack and Frank Mahovlich scored for the Maple Leafs and Ron Stewart for Boston. Ken Wharram and Dennis Hull scored for the Black Hawks and Bobby Rousseau for the Canadiens.

Mahovlich scored the winner for Toronto with four minutes and 50 seconds remaining. Shack gave the Leafs a 1-0 lead at 9:26 of the second period with his 100th NHL regular season goal. Stewart tied the game for Boston just over a minute later.

Chicago's victory over Montreal was the Black Hawks' third in four meetings this season over the defending league and Stanley Cup champions.

Stan Mikita, leading the league in points, picked up an assist on Wharram's goal and increased his total for the season to 39. He has 27 assists. Goyette has three goals and 22 assists for 25 points, one more than Gilbert.

Canucks Giving Fearful Coach Large Cushion

VANCOUVER — Vancouver coach Bert Olmstead wants to make Western Hockey League hay while the sun still shines on the Canucks, and it turns out that his workers are more than willing.

Canucks tacked two more points onto their second-place standing Wednesday night by clipping Oakland Seals 2-1 in overtime.

Rookie winger Bob Cook piled on the new hay by banging home a loose puck at 7:16 of the sudden-death overtime. Ray Brunel scored Vancouver's first goal while Ron Harris was the Oakland marksman.

HE'S WORRIED

Despite Canucks' comfortable position, Olmstead expressed fear the other day that Vancouver is "destined" to fall into a slump one of these days.

It happens to everyone, he suggested, and it is Olmstead's wish to pile up as many points as possibie when things are going right . . . as a cushion.

Certainly, the Canucks showed no signs of a slump Wednesday. They out-shot, out-skated and out-bumped Oakland. Only the spectacular work of goaltender Jack McCartan kept the Seals in the game. McCartan made 33 shots, including three breakaway saves, while rival Don Simmons turned aside only 16.

It was the only game played in the league Wednesday. Tonight, Victoria Maple Leafs — only four points out of third place after finally breaking out of an eight-game losing streak — play at Los Angeles.

CARDS GET ROMANO

Flurry of Trades Precedes Deadline

The inter - league baseball trade deadline in the major leagues is at midnight tonight and the deals that sent Roger Maris to St. Louis Cardinals from New York Yankees and Maury Wills to Pittsburgh Pirates from Los Angeles Dodgers look to be the biggest that will be made unless there is a last day flurry of activity.

Wednesday, California Angels traded veteran first baseman Norm Siebern to San Francisco Giants for outfielder Len Gabrielson. And St. Louis sent Walter Williams, who led the Pacific Coast League in batting last season, to Chicago White Sox along with relief pitcher Don Dennis.

The Angels got youth for age in giving up the 33-year-old Siebern for Gabrielson, 26. But Siebern hit .247 last season and drove in 41 runs while Gabrielson hit just .216 and had 16 RBI.

Romano, the key player in the St. Louis deal, hit .231 for the White Sox in 1966 and had 15 homers. Williams, 23, hit .330 for Tulsa while Dennis was 4-2 in relief for the Cardinals.

The two deals brought to 14 the total made in the last three weeks.

Lineman, Coach On Lions' List?

DETROIT (AP) — William Clay Ford, owner of Detroit Lions, said Wednesday night the National Football League team will be looking for offensive linemen in the draft, but refused to give any hints as to whether Harry Gilmer will be kept as head coach.

Gilmer has been under fire from coaches and players during a 4-9-1 season and Ford said at a club meeting he will weigh carefully all the factors before deciding whether to keep him for the final year of Gilmer's three-year contract.

Don't Eggs-pect Bucks Back!

VERNON (CP) — Kelowna Buckaroos left Vernon Wednesday night with egg on their faces and threatened never to come back again after losing 4-3 in an Okanagan Junior Hockey League game.

Hundreds of teen-agers pelted the Kelowna players' box with eggs throughout the deadlocked second and third periods and one Kelowna player — Dave Cousins — left the game after he was hit in the eye.

He complained he could not see after being hit during the third period. He sat out the rest of the game after scoring two of Kelowna's earlier goals. However, he recovered toward the end of the game.

The egg throwing cost Kelowna another valuable player as Terry Strong, who had scored once, was thrown out of the game for arguing with the referee over the egg-throwing incident.

Four RCMP officers attempted in vain to halt the bombardment and a Kelowna official said after the game that his team would never play in Vernon again unless it got some assurance a similar incident would not occur.

LEADS VICTORIA O'KEEFES . . .

Wee Dunc a Giant on Score Sheet

DUNC McCAIG
. . . enjoying fine season

The smallest of their company has been a big man for Victoria O'Keefes in the team's undefeated march through the Pacific Coast Soccer League fields this season.

Yet Duncan Murray McCaig, a five-foot-six, 140-pound left winger, doesn't think he has been doing "anything different" on the field.

The 30-year-old forward shares the team's goal-scoring honors with inside Tom Menzies. Both have six scoring shots to their credit.

The six goals scored by McCaig supports coach Frank Grealy's belief that wee Dunc is having his greatest season in five Coast League campaigns.

"No one works harder, or stays in better shape," said Grealy as he took time out this week to laud the peppery little winger.

If there has to be a reason for his fine play this season, Grealy chooses to boil it down to the fact McCaig seems to have acquired greater confidence in his on-field abilities.

"Consequently," added the Victoria pilot, "Dune has been more aggressive on the forward line and has been showing greater ball control."

Although Royals are lodged in a fifth-place tie with Vancouver Firefighters, Westminster's appearance against first-place Victoria gives Grealy some cause for concern.

"I just hope there's no letdown after the big win (4-2 over North Shore) last weekend. Royals have always given us plenty of trouble and we can't afford to let down."

Not to be overlooked is the fact that George Wright's Royals have won four of their last six games.

Scores Injured As Fans Panic

LIVERPOOL, England (AP)—Eight injured Liverpool soccer fans were in a hospital today after a panicky crush that felled scores of spectators watching their team get eliminated from the European Cup by Ajax of Amsterdam Wednesday night.

About 200 fans were slightly hurt and 31 were admitted to local hospitals with everything from cracked ribs to broken fingers after smoke bombs started the panic among the crowd of 54,000 at Liverpool's Anfield Road Stadium.

Police led more than 3,000 spectators from the ground for their own safety at the height of the crush. Dozens who had fainted were lifted over barriers from the terrace behind one of the goals.

FIRE SCARE

Peter Robinson, secretary of the Liverpool Club, said some of the panic was caused by perspiration "rising in clouds of steam" from the crowd. Some fans thought the place was on fire.

"It may sound fantastic but we have had those clouds of steam at Liverpool before on big occasions," Robinson said.

All but eight of the injured were released from the hospitals after treatment.

Ajax drew 2-2 with Liverpool and went into the quarter-finals of the Cup of Champions on a 7-3 aggregate score.

At Liege, Standard Liege of Belgium also qualified for the quarter-finals of the European Cup event by defeating Chemie Leipzig of East Germany 1-0.

At Kilmarnock, the Scottish club blanked La Gantoise of Belgium 1-0 in a first-leg Inter-Cities Fairs Cup match.

Division II

Cardiff 4, Northampton 2.
Torquay 1, Watford 0.

Crowd Stampedes, Games Fan Killed

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — One man was killed and several persons injured Wednesday as crowd stampedes at the main National Stadium and a nearby gymnasium marred the fifth Asian Games.

The tragedy, triggered by attempts of thousands to cram into arenas for a soccer match and a basketball game, dampened another winning day for the Japanese.

At the National Stadium, a crowd of 50,000 tried to jam into a place that seats only 30,000 for a soccer game between Thailand and Burma.

When a gate was opened, thousands of fans surged forward. An air force sergeant fell and was trampled to death. At least a dozen others were seriously injured.

The other jam came at the gymnasium where fans crashed through the doors to see a basketball game between Thailand and Nationalist China. Authorities said several persons, including five children, were hurt.

Meanwhile, Japan boosted its gold medal count to 36 with a sweep of swimming events. India was closest with five, followed by Iran and Malaysia, each with four; Nationalist China, three, South Korea and Pakistan, two each.

Butler Baron Beauty

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland rookie Gary Butler scored the winning goal in the second period, his eighth goal of the season, as the Barons scored a 4-2 victory over Springfield Indians in an American Hockey League game Wednesday night.

FAVOR VICTORIA'S METRO HEALTH

'We Want No Part of Duncan'—Islanders

Whatever the future of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health may be, the Gulf Islands want to be part of it.

In a letter to the department of health the Saltspring Island Chamber of Commerce says residents have been alarmed by recent press reports of problems facing the board in 1967.

It asked that the department make arrangements for Gulf Island services to be continued either by the Greater Victoria board or its successor.

And it stressed several times, "we want no part of Duncan."

No reasons were given for shying away from the Duncan health service unit but the Chamber made it clear that residents wanted service from Victoria.

At present the board is operating on a pro tem basis while awaiting word from the provincial government on a new cost-sharing formula.

Health services at present cost Victoria, Esquimalt and Oak Bay around $3 per capita as compared with 30 cents per capita paid by government subsidized other municipalities.

All three heavy paying municipalities have served notice of intent to quit the metro set-up unless a more equitable cost-sharing formula can be found.

Deadline for quitting is the end of this month but it is expected that all three municipalities will remain in the organization until definite word on cost is received from the government.

INDIANS WORRIED

Waters Rising Again After Overnight Rain

The B.C. Forest Service nursery recorded .85 inches from 4:30 p.m. Wednesday to 8 a.m. today.

Abel Joe of Cowichan Indian band flood control committee said this morning: "The Koksilah and Cowichan rivers are rising rapidly on the reserve.

"If the rain keeps up there will be flooding problems later today."

He said high tides are forecast again.

Victoria weather office offered some hope with a forecast for clearer weather Friday with little or no rain. However, the respite may be only temporary.

●

Mr. and Mrs. Francis James, evacuated from their Clem-Clem-Alutz home Tuesday went back Wednesday.

This morning Abel Joe and members of his committee were busy building partitions in the former Duncan Armory in case it is required for evacuated families.

Municipal crews had their two 600-gallon-a-minute pumps working through the night along Beverly Street at the north end of Duncan.

Don McCool of the municipal works department said: "I think the worst of the flood threat in the area is over for the time being unless there is exceptional rainfall.

"The high weekend temperatures combined with the heavy rain brought the snow off the lower hills and this is what posed the threat Monday and Tuesday.

Worst of the area's flooding was Tuesday when a dozen Indian homes on the Koksilah flats between the converging Cowichan and Koksilah were stranded as both rivers burst their banks.

ISLAND DIGEST

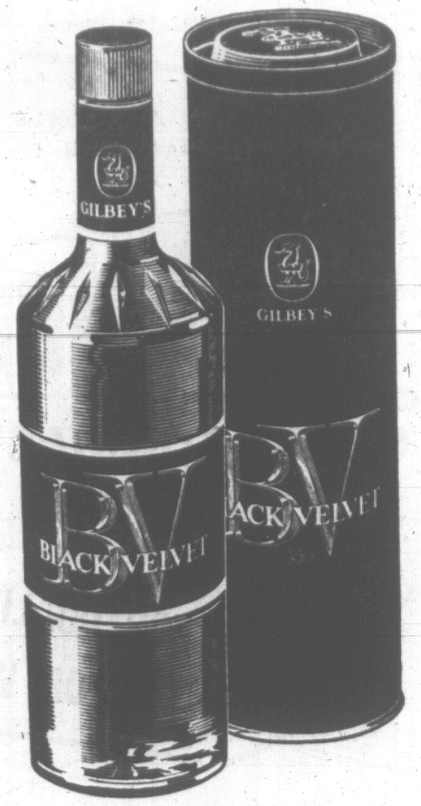

C of C Backs Indian Bid

DUNCAN — Duncan Chamber of Commerce will back Cowichan Indian band in its bid to get the Indian Expo '67 collapsible pavilion established permanently in Duncan.

The Cowichan band made the request for chamber support Wednesday.

Sam Keeble, president, said after a closed session: "We endorsed the idea as we believe the pavilion would be a tremendous tourist attraction.

APPEAL OPENS

Board 'Rushed' Buttle Decision

VANCOUVER (CP) — The battle of Buttle Lake reopened Wednesday in B.C. Court of Appeals.

Lawyer Tom Berger, counsel for the Greater Campbell River Water Board, told the court the B.C. Water Pollution Board "rushed" to give Western Mines a permit Sept. 15 to dump waste and sewage into the lake because the mining company wanted to go into production.

IGNORED

He said Campbell River Water Board's request for a hearing on the proposed waste disposal was ignored. The lake is part of the Campbell River watershed.

The water board is appealing a ruling by Mr. Justice Victor Dryer in B.C. Supreme Court Oct. 17 that the pollution board had the legal right to permit the dumping, and that the court had no jurisdiction to quash the decision.

Mr. Berger contended the pollution board contravened its own enabling act when it arbitrarily granted the permits to Western Mines without an opportunity for objectors to state their case at a hearing.

RULING 'WRONG'

He contended that the courts had the right to quash decisions of the pollution board, and that therefore Mr. Justice Dryer was "absolutely wrong" in his ruling.

Brian McLoughlin, counsel for Western Mines, contended that when an administrative body like the pollution board had made a decision and had complied with statutory regulations, the decision could not be quashed by any court.

ATTACKS 'MAINLY UNFAIR'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Western Mines was subjected to a virtual torrent of abuse during the last year because of its location within Strathcona Park, president Harold M. Wright said Wednesday in the company's annual report.

The base metal mine at the south end of Buttle Lake in Strathcona Park is now in the tune-up period leading to full production, he said.

"This opposition has been biased and emotional and mainly unfair to a new producer in the mining industry proceeding to production," said Mr. Wright.

"These factors had a serious effect on our personnel and delayed our progress to a considerable extent."

Later, referring to the B.C. Pollution Control Board's granting of permits for waste disposal for the mine and community, he said: "This action resulted in a virtual torrent of abuse by some citizens' groups and some news media . . ."

LAKE SUPPLY

The Campbell River Water District, which draws its supplies from Buttle Lake, has led a campaign to prevent dumping of mine tailings into the lake.

The water district maintains that dumping of wastes could lead to a serious water pollution problem.

Conservationists opposed to the dumping maintain that government had no right to allow a private company to mine in a public park.

MORE STUDIES AT ALL LEVELS ASKED BY ALBERNI GROUP LEADER

Results Inconclusive in Air Pollution Study

A long-awaited pilot study of the health effects of Alberni Valley air pollution has reported inconclusive results.

Project head Dr. D. O. Anderson of the University of British Columbia's department of preventive medicine branded the five-month study's outcome "equivocal," in a progress report in a medical journal.

To be completed by late 1968, the two-pronged study will attempt to correlate air pollution from MacMillan Bloedel's kraft pulp mill in Port Alberni with the illnesses of Grade 1 children living in the valley.

Results will be compared with a similar "control" study in the cleaner atmosphere of Chilliwack.

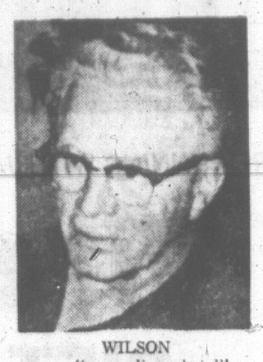

The study arose out of public concern over reports that seven times as many respiratory disease cases were admitted to Alberni Valley hospitals compared with the provincial average.

The pilot study is intended to determine the need for a full-scale study over two years of the health of 200 families.

Instead of revealing a consistently higher incidence of respiratory disease among Alberni Valley children, it was discovered that Alberni studnets had fewer and milder respiratory diseases then their Chilliwack counterparts. Port Alberni children suffered the most, the study reports.

The air pollution study to be finished by mid-1968 found Alberni and Port Alberni exposed to roughly the same degree of fallout from the MacMillan Bloedel mill. Chilliwack by comparison has a much cleaner atmosphere.

WILSON

The air sampling study based on six sampling stations in the Alberni Valley and three in Chilliwack will not be completed until mid-1968.

The study is under the direction of Dr. E. J. Bowmer, health department director of laboratories.

The medical report thinly disguised the Alberni communities as Seaview and Upper Seaview. Dr. Anderson expressed satisfaction the report had not got into the hands of the Alberni Valley Citizen's Anti-Pollution Committee.

He admitted the results were soft-pedalled so as not to add fuel to the flames of controversy.

Anti-pollution committee chairman Colin Wilson siezed upon the study as proof of the work that needs to be done in the field.

"This small study has only indicated the need for more studies at all levels," he said.

"While we are pleased with what has been done by the researchers, much more lies ahead."

ONCE BITTER FOES, President Nasser, of Egypt, and ex-King Saud of Saudi Arabia have buried the hatchet. Nasser is reported to have invited the ailing 65-year-old monarch to end his exile in Athens and live in Cairo. Saud, who once hatched a plot to have Nasser assassinated, was ousted by his brother Faisal in 1964.

SOVIETS RUSH MOON LANDING

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Soviet scientists are working on a "crash program" aimed at putting a man on the moon possibly by November, 1967, informed sources said Wednesday.

Priorities in the Kremlin's space program have been reported switched, with the main emphasis now on attempts to land a cosmonaut on the lunar surface ahead of the United States.

NORWAY

Big Time Swindler Jailed

OSLO (AP) — Tibor Burger, Hungarian-born Canadian citizen and a resident of California, was sentenced by a Norwegian court to four years in jail Tuesday on a charge of having swindled several Oslo banks out of a total of 130,000 Kroner ($18,265) by passing bad cheques and showing a false passport.

The district attorney had asked for a six-year sentence on the grounds that Burger was a member of an international gang operating on such a large scale that Interpol, the international police organization, had to call a special meeting in Paris last summer to pool efforts to stop its activities.

In passing sentence the court related that Interpol had exposed two Argentines as leaders of the gang. Last March the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation had traced 200 false cheques worth 600,000 Kroner ($84,000). Thirty-three of them had been cashed by Burger, who told the court that he had handed more than 70 per cent of the money to the persons who supplied the bad cheques.

Burger, a 34-year-old Jew, spent the war years in a German concentration camp. After the war he was placed in a displaced persons camp in Europe before being given an entry visa to Canada 15 years ago.

He is a furrier by profession and had his own shop in London and Munich after returning from Montreal. For the last few years he has been a resident of Los Angeles.

In our 69th year — again we've improved on the year before. It's a standard we expect to maintain. We work hard to do it.

But the "facts and figures" aspect is only one reason why we say 1966 was good.

Our "bouquet file" is another. It's a collection of letters from our clients across Canada telling us how much our efforts were appreciated.

They weren't necessary (after all that's our business) but they were nice.

At National Trust we're equally proud of all our 'dividends'. The ones we give and the ones we get. And when you come to think of it, perhaps it's one of the main reasons why we've had such a good year.

Simple Approach To Table Decorations

By HILDA BEASTALL

For those of us who lack the artistic eye and hand in arranging plant material indoors, the simple approach to a Christmas table decoration will win approval from your guests.

Hilda

The first essential will be to keep the central decoration low, but if the table is long the centrepiece may also be long, though it may be as narrow as six inches.

While I have seen evergreen material placed loose for a centre'' theme, I feel that a simple container such as a low basket or woven roll tray adds a note of elegance.

Twigs of berried holly for instance, may be laid in the tray beginning at the two ends and laying successive pieces over the stems of the preceding row until the centre is reached. Two or three central berried pieces are thrust in stems down to finish off the basket.

If you make a trip into the country to get your evergreens and Christmas tree from a friend's property, be sure to take a pair of pruners with you and treat the trees as if they were on your own city lot.

Cut sparingly, only what you need, remembering that tree growth is precious.

You may find other materials which can be used in your scheme of decorations. Salal, a gracefully branching, smooth-leaved dark green shrub growing in the underbrush, will stand up for several weeks in water, and leaves of Oregon grape often have lovely rich coloring.

When you arrive home with the tree and trimmings, put them immediately into a cool place, preferably in the open air. If in a dry atmosphere the foliage will begin to dry out, creating an additional fire hazard besides losing the fresh lustre you admire.

Make the gathering of Christmas decorations a family affair whether at home or afar. Such memories are beyond price. Be sure to get the owner's permission before cutting on another person's property. There is very little property left on the southern end of Vancouver Island which is not privately owned.

Franco Wins Solid Backing For Program

MADRID (AP) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco emerged today from Spain's second national referendum in 30 years with smashing support for his government reorganization plans and new strength from which to negotiate Spain's future relations with the rest of Western Europe.

More than 17,000,000 Spaniards—85 per cent of those eligible to vote—apparently said "si" in the nationwide vote Wednesday on Franco's program.

With about 61 per cent of the voting population accounted for, the vote was 10,275,111 yes (85.2 per cent), 220,849 no (1.8 per cent), 243,186 blank or void (2.1 per cent) and 1,312,432 abstaining (10.9 per cent) as a sign of opposition or indifference.

Even Franco's staunchest supporters were amazed at the result. Although the government utilized press and propaganda facilities to the fullest to muster support and relentlessly muzzled opposition forces calling for a voters' boycott the most optimistic pre-voting prediction was a favorable response from 80 per cent of those voting. Instead, 96 per cent of those voting voted yes.

OPPOSITION HURT

The heavy pro-Franco vote was likely to dismay potential opposition groups seeking an early end to the 27-year-old dictatorship.

It was expected to have an equally - strong effect abroad, where complaints that the Spanish people are denied liberty as it is known in some democratic countries has kept Spain from membership in the European Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

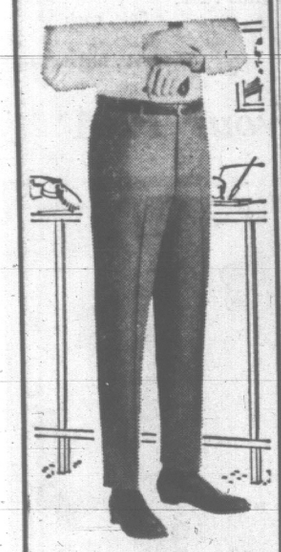

"The size of the vote and the evidence of support by the bulk of the Spanish people may well change the minds of some of Gen. Franco's critics," said one political observer here.

The landslide government victory removed the last barrier to implementation of Franco's plans to amend Spain's organic laws as a guarantee of the future when he steps down.

Highlights of the program include separation of the heads of state and government, which Franco is expected to put into effect early in January; a detailed plan providing for his succession by a king or regent, which is not likely to become effective as long as the 74-year-old Franco remains in good health, and provisions for broadening the elective membership of the Spanish Cortes (legislature) and council of the realm.

ROBERT KENNEDY

BUGGING

FBI Warned Not To Use Some Devices

WASHINGTON (AP)—As U.S. attorney-general in 1962, Robert F. Kennedy issued a private directive to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and other justice department officials that certain investigative means were not to be used, the department said Wednesday night.

The department, in response to queries, declined to discuss the specific contents of the directive except to say that it was written in broad terms.

Kennedy, now a Democratic senator from New York, has exchanged statements with Hoover in a dispute over whether Kennedy had authorized Hoover to expand the use of electronic eavesdropping devices.

Kennedy said he didn't authorize use of "bugging" and didn't know it was being done. Hoover said Kennedy not only knew about such practices but had indicated interest in getting better electronic equipment to do the job.

Recent decisions by the U.S. Supreme Court have placed in jeopardy many federal convictions based on eavesdropping and wiretapping.

Gouzenko Libel Action Trial Begins

TORONTO (CP) — A libel action against Maclean's magazine by Igor Gouzenko, the cipher clerk who defected from the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa in 1945 with documents that uncovered a major spy ring in North America, began in Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday.

R. Alan Harris, Mr. Gouzenko's lawyer, said he would not call his client as a witness

Since his defection, the whereabouts of the former cipher clerk and his family and his mode of living have been kept secret.

He is suing over an article in the Sept. 5, 1964, issue of Maclean's, written by Blair Fraser, the magazine's Ottawa editor.

Main defendant is Ken Lefolii, who was editor at the time. Also cited as defendants are Mr. Fraser, Borden Spears, Maclean's present editor, and Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co. Ltd.

Mr. Justice Alexander Stark and a six-man jury is hearing the action.

Medicals Required For Juveniles

Juveniles held in the Greater Victoria Detention Home will in future be given complete medical checks within 24 hours of being detained.

In the past only adult prisoners have been required to take a medical check for communicable diseases before being dispatched from the city lock-up to Oakalla or Wilkinson Road.

Coun. Edith Gunning, Saanich, informed the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health Wednesday that new standards for juvenile detention homes released recently by provincial authorities call for a similar health check for juveniles.

Health board doctors will carry out the routine checks as required.

A psychologist, Dr. Ruthe Burg, has been added to the staff of the school health services. She will deal chiefly with emotionally disturbed children.

'Spectator Sport' Now Legal in U.K.

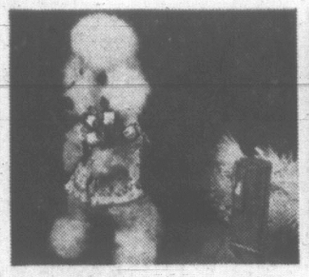

LONDON (Reuters) — London's strippers Wednesday stepped out of their clothes with official blessing from the city fathers after 14 years of private peeling. The Great London council voted to legalize "the spectator sport of sex" which since 1952 has been confined to 17 striptease cubs in Soho.

Arthur Mayse

Two weeks ago or maybe three, I listened while a father whose bark is pretty convincing assured me that his children would get strictly practical Christmas presents this year. No junk toys, no fad-of-the-moment marvels, and even though they yearned for one, no expensive, space-taking, time-wasting car race game.

Well, as you have probably guessed, Dad is having himself quite a time these evenings after the kids are safely asleep, and by Christmas he expects to be about as sound an indoor race driver as this town can field.

There are, of course, certain perils in wait for the father who sneaks expensive, time-wasting but fascinating gifts of this sort down to the basement for a few trial runs.

One of these, a young man who once yearned mightily for an electric train will forgive me if I now reveal.

About two o'clock on that Christmas morning, the locomotive was chuffing around its complex of tracks when it jumped a switch and piled into gondola, freight car and caboose.

I lit out for the basement work bench with the locie in one hand and a shard of broken-off metal in the other. It was a loaded moment when the train made its first official run a few hours later, but the repair held, and if Ron knew about it, he never reproached me.

From 'Worried Housewife', a note to tell me she has searched all the main stores and many smaller shops for a spray-bomb designed to fireproof and preserve Christmas trees.

"It seems to be unheard of," she writes, "though I was able to buy this in a spray can last year. How so important an item can be omitted from our local stores is astounding."

Calls around town have failed to turn up any such fireproofing spray cans, but for anyone interested, here is our Victoria fire department recipe for such a spray:

'Mix nine ounces borax and four ounces boracic acid in one gallon water. Spray on, or soak tree in this solution.'

"Remember, though," said the smoke-eater who supplied this information, "fire protection starts with a fresh-cut tree standing in water."

★

The time has come again when the mail may turn up a package of unsolicited and quite possibly unwanted Christmas cards tagged with a healthy price. All you need do with this or any other unordered merchandise sent you is write "Refused" large and firm on the envelope or container, and drop in the nearest mail-box.

Speaking of mail, the postal authorities are commendably helpful and polite when a parcel or letter is sent out minus the required stamps. Let this happen, and you receive a card pointing out your error, also telling you that "the post office affixed the deficient postage to avoid delay."

Still on this matter of mail, our last brought us along with some cards and a Billy Graham pitch for money, a letter from Toronto publisher friend George Nelson who heads Doubleday - Doran in Canada.

From a hasty dip into the book-proofs Mr. Nelson sent along, I suspect that 'C.L.E.' may hit more than one literary jackpot before next year has run its course.

Purse Thieves Caught In Routine Car Check

Albertans Return To Scene of Crime

A spate of purse-snatching in the city and Saanich ended Wednesday night when an alert Saanich policeman nabbed four Alberta youths in a routine car check.

The four were caught when they returned to the scene of their first grab Monday night.

Two of the youths pleaded guilty in central court this morning to grabbing the purses of four women since Monday and attempting a purse snatch on another.

Ronald Williams, 19, of Medicine Hat and Stanley Smith, 20, of Calgary, were remanded in custody to Dec. 23 for sentence.

A third youth, Warren Smith, 18, of Okotoks, Alta., who pleaded guilty to one count of theft, will be sentenced at the same time.

JUVENILE COURT

The fourth occupant of the car, a 16-year-old Calgary boy, was scheduled to appear in juvenile court.

The purse-snatching began Monday night when Mrs. Mary Edwardson, 45, of 568 Vincent had her purse torn form her grasp at about 10 p.m. after she had alighted from a bus in the 600 block Gorge.

The purse contained $12 cash, two rings worth $550, a watch valued at $275 and other jewellery which brought the loss to $900. All but the watch and cash have been recovered.

The youth who took the purse escaped in a car driven by an accomplice.

Another purse-snatching attempt downtown earlier in the evening failed when the strap on the purse broke and the young thief fled empty-handed.

THREE OTHERS

Three other women had their purses grabbed Tuesday. In each case only small amounts of cash were lost besides personal papers.

Constable Jim White, on the lookout for a white and yellow car described by one of the victims, stopped a similar auto at about 7 p.m. Wednesday on the Gorge Road near Admirals Road, not far from where Mrs. Edwardson's purse was stolen.

The charges were laid after officers from the Victoria and Saanich departments questioned the quartet and searched their car.

Detective Sergeant Robin Stewart said today goods found in the youths' Admirals Road auto court unit could lead to further charges.

CHAMBER EXPANSION DUE SOON

Late Mayor's Plan Winning Acceptance

A plan prepared by the chamber in co-operation with Oak Bay Board of Trade, Esquimalt Chamber of Commerce and Sooke Chamber of Commerce needs only Victoria membership ratification and approval of municipal councils.

Early in 1967 it is expected the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce will be born, its boundary covering Victoria city and Saanich municipality, which at present has no chamber.

At the same time, a working affiliation is recommended between the Greater Victoria chamber and other capital region chambers, which would keep their identities.

EXCHANGE

There would be an exchange of directors between Victoria and the various regional boards, including seats on the Greater Victoria chamber of presidents of the other chambers.

By becoming corporate members of the Greater Victoria chamber, the other chambers would add weight to representations made before local, provincial and federal authorities.

THOMAS SHINGLES
... diasman

Governor Cut But He Didn't Bleed

That was back when Vincent Massey held the post and Mr. Shingles worked for the mint.

●

He's a diasman, a designer of coins, medallions and medals and even in retirement he's still pursuing his art in a basement studio.

He retired at 61 due to ill health but at 63 he still hasn't found time to pursue his interest in painting.

●

Born in Birmingham where he learned his trade, Mr. Shingles went to Winnipeg to work for a firm later taken over by Birks Ltd. He met his wife Violet there. Then in 1939 they went to Ottawa and the mint.

The ultimate move to Victoria has made life easier for them.

"There's no snow to shovel," Mrs. Shingles says.

50 POISED FOR ANNUAL BIRD COUNT

"We expect about 50 enthusiasts will take the count in this area," said provincial park naturalist David Stirling, who is organizing the count for the Victoria society.

Mr. Stirling has compiled the count for the past six years.

Owners, Riders Rewarded

Owners and riders of Victoria horses have received championship awards for 1966.

The awards were made under auspices of the Canadian Horse Show's Association for the highest points scored at various B.C. shows between Easter and Thanksgiving.

Reserve award in the Conformation Hunter class was won by Hindu Punch, owned by Mrs. J. V. Donaldson, and ridden by her daughter, Mrs. Pat Bowron.

Report Coming Out Friday On Shipyard Wage Dispute

Provincial conciliation officer Jack Sherlock will hand down a report Friday on a contract dispute involving 22 unions and three B.C. shipyards.

Mr. Sherlock met Wednesday with union representatives for the first time since the B.C. Labor Relations Board ordered all the unions to bargain jointly with Burrard Dry Dock of Vancouver, and Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot of Victoria.

The report is expected to contain recommendations to settle differences in wage demands between some of the unions.

Prior to the LRB's joint certification, one group of unions had demanded a 65-cent hourly pay increase. A second group had asked for a 70-cent pay increase.

Both groups want the present 40-hour work week reduced to 35 hours with no drop in take-home pay.

LIGHTS! ACTION!! CHRISTMAS!!!

More than 1,000 lights will be turned on at dusk Friday on two giant trees that have become a traditional part of Christmas in Victoria.

Provincial public works employees have strung 525 festive lights over an 80-foot tree on the Legislative Buildings lawn and 500 lights garland a 92-footer at the driveway entrance to Government House.

Both trees are California Redwood Sequoia.

25 Idled By Fairey Shutdown

Possibility of future American orders for aircraft components is not expected to alter a Fairey Canada Ltd. decision to cut back its Sidney operation.

The shutdown — until work in the aviation field picks up — was announced by plant manager G. A. Marr.

"Certain personnel will be retained to fulfill continuing military commitments," Mr. Marr said.

25 AFFECTED

About 25 employees are affected in the decision to suspend, which takes place at the end of January.

Fairey was a service depot for naval aircraft and converted a number of planes for use as water bombers, including the Martin Mars of Flying Fireman Ltd.

RCMP PLANS TRAFFIC CHECKPOINTS

If the drinking driver feels hounded this Christmas season in the urban areas, he'd better not feel safe in the country.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police is planning a crackdown throughout the whole province.

"RCMP patrols will be out in full force," said a directive issued by the force today, "in order to detect the drinking driver."

"Special emphasis is being placed on the use of traffic check points," says the warning.

Tory, Grit Working To Aid Ship-Jumper

George Chatterton (PC—Esquimalt-Saanich) has now interested himself in the case of Vinko Kucina, 26, who faces deportation.

CASH BOND

Mr. Kucina speaks little English. His cousin, Milko Jadresko, a Victoria landscape gardener, has been fighting his case with petitions and legal aid. He also has posted a cash bond for Mr. Kucina pending a final decision by immigration authorities.

Mr. Jadresko said today that he has had two letters from Mr. Chatterton requesting information. And he has had two telephone calls from Mr. Groos lending encouragement in recent days.

"This is bigger than politics. It is helping a man in trouble," said Mr. Jadresko.

He explained earlier that Mr. Kucina jumped ship at Sorel, Quebec, in the belief he would be given asylum as a refugee from a Communist-controlled country. He reported to immigration authorities on arrival on this coast.

The question of whether such informal immigrants should be permitted entry has been discussed recently in the Commons with Opposition Leader Diefenbaker urging leniency.

Mr. Jadresko says if Mr. Kucina is required to return to Yugoslavia he will be subjected to various persecutions. He said two of Mr. Kucina's brothers now are living in Australia. He no longer has any family at home.

A wife of one of the brothers, still in Yugoslavia, has been evicted from a state-operated housing authority following her husband's departure, said Mr. Jadresko.

Peterson Greets Woman Minister At First Meeting

Grace McCarthy turned out to be the early bird among the province's new trio of women ministers.

She came early this morning to be sure to be there for the start of the first cabinet meeting since the swearing-in ceremony Monday night that saw her, Patricia Jordan and Isobel Dawson made ministers without portfolio.

Premier Bennett, who asked the women ministers to operate out of their own ridings although they could attend any cabinet meetings they wished, wasn't on hand to greet her.

He was in Vancouver, her bailiwick.

Inquest Set For Friday In Shooting

An inquest will be held Friday into the shooting death of nine-year-old Kevin King, 1903 Maple, Sooke.

The youngster died Tuesday in St. Joseph's Hospital three days after being hit in the forehead by a .22 bullet from a rifle he and a younger brother had been playing with.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre has ordered the inquest for 7:30 p.m. in McCall Bros.

You Drink and Drive? Watch Channel 8 Tonight

British Columbia superintendent of motor vehicles Ray Hadfield wants all drivers to watch television tonight ... especially those who drink and drive.

Mr. Hadfield is boosting the program "Point Zero Eight" which will appear on Channel 8 at 9.

Point zero eight is the measure of alcohol in blood which can cause trouble and it's surprisingly easy to attain. The same measure is the nub of B.C.'s new legislation which, when it is proclaimed, will give police power to suspend driver privileges for 24 hours without trial.

The program will feature some of Canada's leading racing car drivers.

"It is particularly appropriate in view of the approaching holiday season," said Mr. Hadfield.

ALGONQUIN, CRESCENT?

Two More DEs for Esquimalt

The west coast navy fleet will be increased next year with the arrival here of two more destroyers-escorts.

The ships, now stationed in the east, will bring the fighting ships' operational strength to nine, including the submarine Grilse, five other destroyer-escorts and the ocean-escort Beacon Hill which is to be decommissioned in the spring.

At the same time as the reinforcements arrive in March, a third destroyer-escort from the east will put into Dockyard for refit.

It is not yet known if this third vessel will remain here or return to Halifax after refit.

While the names of the ships have not been confirmed, it is believed the Algonquin and Crescent will be stationed here. The Columbia, it is thought, will undergo refit here.

The plan is in line with the defence department's scheme to eventually have helicopter-destroyers on both east and west coast.

Four of the converted vessels should be ready by about 1971.

Both Algonquin and Crescent have seen west coast service in the past.

Older class destroyers, they underwent multi-million dollar conversions to destroyer-escorts on the west coast—the Algonquin at Yarrows Ltd. in 1953 and the Crescent at Dockyard in 1955.

Later in the 50s, both were sent to join the east coast fleet at Halifax.

NARROW ESCAPE for mother and baby occurred this morning when this car exploded and burst into flames while it was warming up in basement garage. Mrs. William Duncan, 1532 Dallas Road, told firemen, she had started the car after opening the garage door and then returned upstairs to collect her baby when she heard a blast and found the car a mass of flames. Inches of water were swishing about on the floor of the late model auto before firemen were able to quench the stubborn blaze. Fireman Robert John here examines some of the charred engine parts. Cause is still under investigation. (Irving Strickland photo.)

Block Sealed Off In Underground View Street Blast

Reports of a smell of gas made police suspect a ruptured gas main and the possibility of a further blast.

However, after firemen and B.C. Hydro officials were called it was found the blast occured underground in a chamber housing underground lighting cables and transformers.

A transformer "blew," Hydro officials said. Flames and smoke did little damage except to the electrical equipment.

Thieves Steal Useless TV Set

Man With Everything Presents a Problem

By PENNY SAVER

Husbands have to be the most helpless, unimaginative and impossible creatures about this time of year. I have a dandy—ask him what he wants for Christmas and all he says is "Don't fuss, dear, I have everything I need."

Most of the time, finding a gift for the man who says he has everything can be the most exasperating job. But I've found the solution in one store which offers some of the most unique and yet practical gift suggestions ever.

Two handy items for the man that travels are a clothes brush with leather back that zips open to reveal a man's manicure set, and a leather-covered shaving kit. The latter has not only a small-size safety razor and blades, but also a nail file, scissors and cuticle stick. Brush sets sell for $5.95 and razor kits are $3.95 and $4.50.

Is hubby a "games nut"? Here are the ideal gifts. A checkers set, complete with board and "men" and encased in long-wearing leather, is selling for $1.95. It fits right into your pocket, the set is so compact.

A crib set, with board, pegs and small deck of cards, is selling at $5.95 and these are the handiest things to have on a weekend hunting or fishing trip, I'm told. For the gambler in the family there's a set of poker cards and dice in a handsome leather case, also at $5.95.

Handy stocking stuffers are shoe buffers of soft orlon pile with a leather handle. These come in assorted colors and are perfect for the man on the go, to tuck into suitcase corners. Price is $1.98.

One item that's going to be number one on my list is a tie organizer. This is of fine-quality leather which contains a number of clear plastic "envelopes". Slip the tie into one of these and they stay fresh and wrinkle-free in a drawer or in a suitcase. These are $6.95.

If you've got a man like mine around the house, you are forever looking for his shirt studs. I always find them in the vacuum cleaner because he's dropped them on the floor, caught between the cushions on the sofa . . . . once I even found them in a package of breakfast cereal—how they got there I'll never know!

Here is the answer. A small round leather box which is labelled for studs and which sells for $2.95. There's no excuse with these to go scrambling about searching for the tiny jewelry pieces, for they zip tightly shut.

If you'd like to know where I found these suggestions, give me a call at 382-3131.

Finish Your Garment Hems Smoothly—No Stitch Marks

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I am making a winter coat for myself and my daughter. I just can't seem to get the hems to look nice and smooth. My stitches seem to pull up too tight, and I can see them from the right side at the hem. It just doesn't look professional. I didn't underline the coat. Would this make a difference?

Mrs. R. E. H.

Dear Mrs. R. E. H.:

The method of finishing hems of garments as well as the sleeves we use in our sewing classes works beautifully. It gives beauty to the unlined areas and avoids leaving stitch marks on the outside of your garment.

Cut a bias strip of woven type interfacing, about the same type and weight as muslin, about ½-inch wider than the width of your finished hem. Baste this bias strip to your coat; the edge should be exactly on the hem-line marks, as illustrated. Catch stitch this edge of the bias strip to the crease line of your coat.

Now fold the hem of the coat in place and baste the edge with silk thread. Press lightly and then use the pounding block area of your Tailor Trix pressing board to flatten the hem without getting a sharp edge (the sharp edge look is out in today's fashions).

Be sure not to stretch the hem out of shape and also be sure the cut edge of the hem doesn't leave an indentation from the right side of the garment. If it does, press the hem before proceeding.

Next, catch-stitch the edge of the hem, to the bias-strip only. Bias strip should not extend more than ¼-inch beyond the width of the hem; trim if necessary.

Last step is to catch-stitch the edge of the bias strip which extends to each and every seam of your garment. This will hold your hem in place until the lining is applied and will avoid a ridge from the hem. The stitches couldn't possibly show from the right side since you didn't make any (you only caught them to the seams).

This bias strip also gives the hemline of your garment as well as the hem of sleeves a little extra body for firmness which will help retain the shape. If you have a long area without a seam, you may catch the bias strip loosely in one or two spots to your garment.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Currie, of Prince Rupert, have announced the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Catherine Anne, to Mr. Peter Gerard Zboyovsky, son of Mr. Peter Zboyovsky, Honeymoon Bay, B.C., and the late Mrs. Zboyovsky. The wedding will take place this coming Tuesday, at 7:30 p.m., in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Victoria. Fr. William Kennedy will officiate. (Kandid Kamera Studio.)

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Start Your Exercise Slowly Build Yourself Up Gradually

This week I am letting you join me in reading a couple of letters which have come from readers recently. This one writes:

"Dear Josephine Lowman:

"I am 35 years old. I want to start doing exercises regularly, but I don't know just how to start or what to do. How many exercises should I take, and how many times should I do them? What time of day should I take them? What kind of clothes should I wear? Should I wear a bra?

Lowman

"I am only about six to eight pounds overweight, but my figure has changed during the past 10 years. I do have bulges and my figure is out of proportion, mainly, I have a roll over my girdle and my tummy protrudes. Help, please!"

Okay, let's begin at the beginning. I think many readers still wonder about the questions this reader asked. If you are not accustomed to exercise, start in very slowly and build up gradually. Six or eight exercises, done 10 times each, is enough for the first day. After a few days add two more exercises and do all of the exercises 10 times for a few days. Continue increasing gradually until you are doing 10 exercises 30 times a day.

Let your reaction be the measure of whether or not you are doing too much. After a brief rest you should feel refreshed instead of exhausted. If your fatigue continues, you are doing too much. Cut back.

Do your exercises whenever it is most convenient for you, except do them before meals or three hours or more after eating.

Wear clothes which are not binding in any way, short shorts or leotards. I think most women are more comfortable when wearing a bra. This should fit well but not be too tight or binding, just mildly supporting.

If you would like to have my free short routine of exercise for women, "Essential Daily Routine for Beauty and Health" which is corrective to the most usual figure defects, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to me in care of this newspaper.

Write for your copy of this leaflet right away. But, in the meantime, you can get a good start by doing the following exercise. Lie on your back with your legs straight and your arms stretched out on the floor over your head. At the same time raise your right arm and your left leg. Touch them together if you can. Now lower them and repeat with your left leg and arm.

HELP ITALY

Mrs. J. Neil Gordon, president of the National Chapter, IODE, announced today that the order is responding to an urgent appeal for milk for the children of Italy by sending $1,500 to the Save the Children Fund in London, Eng. The emergency is due to the loss of hundreds of cattle that were drowned in the recent floods.

Turkey Dinner Served At Party in Hospital

The auditorium of St. Joseph's Hospital was decorated in a festive theme for the recent annual Christmas dinner of the Victoria Branch of the Canadian Diabetic Association.

After a meal that included Tom Turkey and all the trimmings, the guests were treated to a program of carols, both ancient and modern, sung by the choir of the hospital's school of nursing, led by E. A. A. Boulder.

Colorful costumes were worn by members of the Sons of Norway who, directed by A. Gilstein, performed a variety of folk dances, played several instrumental numbers and sang Norwegian songs.

The highlight for the younger guests came when Santa made his appearance.

The hospital's Ladies' Auxiliary was responsible for decorating the auditorium.

One of the busiest women in Victoria on Wednesday afternoon was Mrs. H. H. Youson (centre), president of the Women's Canadian Club. Her's was a happy chore, making sure that all of the hundreds of women who attended the Christmas tea had fun . . . and they did! She's seen here greeting the club's honorary vice-president, Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett (at left) and Mrs. George R. Pearkes, honorary president.

True Spirit of Christmas Captured

HUNDREDS AT CANADIAN CLUB TEA

One of the largest parties of the holiday season took place in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel on Wednesday afternoon when more than 400 members of the Women's Canadian Club gathered for the group's annual Christmas tea.

Never had the ballroom looked more brilliant. The huge glittering chandeliers looked down on a scene that shone with color. The walls were bright with great swags of cedar boughs, richly festooned with large scarlet bells. At the corner of the stage one of the largest Christmas trees in town twinkled with a kaleidoscope of lights.

The long tables were covered with green cloths that proved a perfect foil for the borders that ran the length of them. Simple but effective, they were formed of pine boughs, dotted here and there with scarlet-berried holly and gilded pine cones. Stubby red candles added their own touch. The head table was similarly decorated, also having the most unique poinsettias to hit town this season. These were of crepe paper, colored golden to match the 'stamens' of pine cones. The decorations were the work of Mrs. T. C. Hamilton and her committee.

The afternoon began with a program that was outstanding in its excellence. Dressed in the costume of her old country of Czechoslovakia, Erika Kurth sang a selection of carols, many of her former country, some English favorites and another from Germany. Prior to the musical program, Mrs. Kurth did what she termed a "strip tease-upside down," adding the final touches of her 10-petticoated ensemble in order to give the guests a more informed appreciation of the apron, scarf and other accessories.

WELL-KNOWN ARTIST

Accompanying Mrs. Kurth at the piano was Winifred Scott, whose reputation as a pianist is world-wide. The program convener, Mrs. D. Leslie Macdonell introduced the artists, who were thanked by Mrs. H. H. Youson, president.

Seated with Mrs. Youson at the head table were Mrs. George R. Pearkes, Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, Miss Audrey Alexander Brown, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah, Mrs. R. G. McKee, Mrs. F. M. Corbett, Miss Mary Ashworth, Mrs. A. B. Young, Dr. O. Jardine, Mrs. Dorothy Wrotnowski, Mrs. Pat Dufour, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Mrs. Macdonell, Mrs. R. T. Wallace, who as a social convener arranged the tea party; Mrs. Frank Mack, who was in charge of tickets, and Mrs. W. Davenport.

Unable to attend for various reasons, other guests who were to be honored at the head table were Dr. Margaret Newton, Senator Nancy Hodges, Miss Kathleen Agnew and Mrs. W. G. Wilson.

In order to keep the hundreds of tea cups filled and moving, a veritable army of honor guests presided at the tables that filled the ballroom almost to the point of overflowing.

Helping to keep the supply lines open were Mrs. T. H. Johns, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. A. Stringer, Mrs. Howard Damaske, Miss Jessie Gordon, Mrs. M. Routledge, Mrs. G. Chambers, Mrs. Willard Ireland, Mrs. A. Worthington, Mrs. P. J. Sinnott, Mrs. A. G. Slocomb, Mrs. Hart Henderson, Mrs. T. C. Evans, Mrs. B. L. Brown, Mrs. H. G. Ellis, Mrs. C. Howatson, Mrs. G. A. Johnson, Mrs. M. Simpson, Mrs. P. Mulcahy, Mrs. A. Sheard, Mrs. Kenneth Drury, Mrs. H. O. English, Mrs. D. MacLeod and Mrs. W. Pinfold.

Others who presided at the mammoth party were Mrs. W. G. Flett, Mrs. A. T. M. Cowley, Mrs. A. Oswald, Mrs. Carlton Collard, Mrs. Douglas Leechman, Mrs. Daryl Elford, Mrs. R. R. Jeffels, Mrs. R. H. MacDougall, Mrs. J. H. Howard, Mrs. Bruce Hutchison, Mrs. K. O. Wright, Mrs. G. Gray, Mrs. F. Tyler, Mrs. A. Wood, Mrs. R. Lipsey, Mrs. Harold B. Elworthy and Mrs. M. C. Hughes.

The conviviality of the company and the tenderness and meaning of the carols made each and every guest very much aware that Christmas is much more than a time for the buying and exchanging of gifts.

The feeling with which each guest left the party could well be summed up in the little verse which Mrs. Youson gave as a final touch to the afternoon:

"To you a merry Christmastide, a brightly shining star,
No end of greetings from your friends at home or those afar;
And, if you know a lonely soul, please give some joy away."

Wed at Service Base

TO LIVE IN DARTMOUTH

Following a honeymoon trip to Montreal, newlyweds OSRP Peter Dennis LaRocque, RCN, and Mrs. LaRocque, will continue on to Dartmouth, N.S., where they will be making their new home.

The bride, the former Donna Eileen Wakelin, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Wakelin, 3023 Craigowan Road, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. LaRocque, who travelled from their home in Ste Therese, P.Q., for the wedding.

White chrysanthemums decorated the chapel in Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, for the service at which Fr. E. Paradis officiated. Mr. Wakelin gave his daughter in marriage.

A full-length coat en train, fashioned with lily-point sleeves, topped the sheath gown of crystal charm worn by the bride. Exquisite accents of lace trimmed the gown and outlined the high neckline of the empire bodice. A large white flower held her softly misted veil of illusion net. She carried a large white orchid, surrounded by freesia and feathered carnations in her bouquet. Her only attendant, Miss Bonnie Potter, was in a floor-length gown of red lace. Her rose headpiece was en tone and edged with illusion net. A red rose accented the white fur muff she carried.

The new Mrs. LaRocque chose an all-white theme for her travelling ensemble. Her three-piece suit was of white boucle, accented with white accessories. Completing the outfit was an orchid corsage.

Travelling from Vancouver for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. D. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. G. Moncreiff.

This delicious holiday treat is a true time-saver. Make it ahead of time and pop it into the freezer until you are entertaining. Its rich, old-fashioned flavor will make it a hit with any guest.

SPICY TOPPING

Holiday Coffee Ring Will Draw Many Raves

Elegant holiday baked goodies are a tradition the homemaker, her family, and guests eagerly await each year. Not only do the luscious pastries, cakes, and cookies appear at dinners and parties, but they also grace the table for breakfasts and brunches. This tasty holiday coffee ring, baked in a mould, is a creation the homemaker will love to serve. It will be a delight for her guests to eat.

To be prepared for holiday guests, this coffee cake can be made during a leisurely day and then frozen. The no-knead yeast bread travels from freezer to oven and is ready to serve for a festive holiday brunch or when unexpected guests arrive at tea time. The syrup which glazes the warm coffee ring is a flavored topping spiced with fresh oranges, cinnamon sticks, and whole cloves. The spicy aroma of the bubbling syrup will cause guests' faces to light.

The old-fashioned, made-from-scratch flavor of a coffee ring associated with grandmother's baking is due to the fine quality shortening that flavor-bakes into a tender, light yeast bread. The plump raisins and pecans complete this rich creation.

HOLIDAY COFFEE RING

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup milk, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 package active dry yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup raisins, 1 cup chopped pecans.

SYRUP:

One cup sugar, ½ cup water, 1 orange, cut into squares, 2 sticks cinnamon, 12 whole cloves.

Heat shortening, milk, sugar and salt in saucepan until shortening has melted. Pour into mixing bowl and cool to lukewarm. Add one cup flour and beat until smooth. Sprinkle yeast into lukewarm water. Stir until yeast is dissolved. Blend in softened yeast, eggs, and vanilla. Mix well. Add remaining flour. Beat until smooth. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in size. Stir dough down. Add raisins and pecans. Spoon batter into two quart ring mould which has been rubbed with shortening. Cover and let rise until almost double in size. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Remove from oven and cool 5 minutes. Unmould. Pour syrup over coffee ring while still warm.

To make syrup, mix sugar and water in heavy saucepan. Add orange sections, cinnamon, and cloves. Cook mixture until candy thermometer registers 230 degrees F.

To warm coffee ring which has been frozen, remove from freezer and thaw one hour. Place in a slow oven (300 to 325 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Unmould and serve with warm syrup.

Yield: One coffee ring.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Couple Lacking In Good Manners

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last Sunday we attended church in a small college town where our daughter is a student. The young couple sitting directly in front of us did everything except kiss each other in fond embrace. Clearly, they were having a date, and it made no difference that they were in church, surrounded by serious-minded adults who had come to hear the church service. My husband could feel my seething just by looking at me, and my daughter implored me with her eyes not to say or do anything, so I chickened out and said I would write to you. What would you have done?

CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: I would have prayed to the Lord to send those ill-behaved young people some much needed manners, judgment, and self-control.

DEAR ABBY: At the end of your column it says, "Troubled? Write to Abby."

Well, I am just troubled enough to write to you about this problem, which irks me no end: When I invite friends to dinner, some will say, "Don't go to any trouble."

Exactly, what do they mean by this? Do they wish me to serve them TV dinners in their original containers? Or do they expect me to take them to a restaurant? Those are the only two ways I can think of to entertain guests without "going to any trouble."

I am a good cook, and my friends know it, so they should realize that I most certainly shall go to considerable trouble in preparing a company meal. And the next person who tells me not to "go to any trouble" will not be invited again!

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: You appear to be all steamed up over a colloquial expression. Your guests were trying to tell you not to "knock yourself out," another expression I am sure you understand, but would not be expected to take literally.

DEAR ABBY: Please, please print this letter. It might make a few girls think twice before begging for a wedding ring.

I fell in love with Mark when I was 15. He was 17. I fought with my family because I wanted to quit school and get married. Mark wanted to go to college, but I talked him into taking a job in a parking lot so we could get married right away. We ran off and got married and broke our parents' hearts. I got pregnant real quick so our parents wouldn't have our marriage annulled.

Well, Mark wasn't really ready to settle down so when he'd spend an evening with his buddies, I'd get mad and jealous. Then we started fussing at each other. He couldn't stand my whining so he left me. Now we're getting a divorce because he says he missed out on his youth and it's my fault. I still love him, but his love for me has turned to hate.

Please, Abby, keep telling young girls to finish high school and let the guys grow up before they start nagging for marriage. I am 16 years old, pregnant, and in six months I'll be a divorcee. Sign this . . .

TALENTED CAST

Christmas Oratorio This Sunday

Three visiting soloists will join Victoria singers, the Symphony Orchestra and Victoria Choral Society for performances of Bach's Christmas Oratorio Sunday and Monday at the Royal Theatre.

The performances take place under the baton of Otto-Werner Mueller.

Sunday's performance which begins at 2 p.m. is being sponsored by the Victoria Daily Times. The Monday performance starts at 8:30.

Robert Peters will sing the tenor role of The Evangelist. American born, Mr. Peters has established himself in Canada as a versatile operatic and oratorio singer.

RECITALIST

As a recitalist he has sung much of the German lieder, and French and Italian repertoire. He has starred in Canada's Stratford Festival opera presentations and is regular soloist with the Montreal Elgar Choir and the Renaissance Singers.

Mr. Peters studied the great Bach repertoire with Otto Mueller and has appeared on several previous occasions with the Victoria Symphony.

At New York's Lincoln Centre he has sung with the Concert Opera Association and the Little Orchestra Society.

NEW RECORDING

His new recording in French and Russian of Berlioz and Rachmaninoff songs will soon be released on the Canadian Madrigal label.

B.C. TOUR

She appeared with the Victoria Symphony as soloist in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony last season, and this year has toured with the British Columbia Opera Ensemble.

Audrey Glass, mezzo soprano of Vancouver, Stanley Maritn, baritone, and Derek MacDermot, bass-baritone of this city, are the other soloists.

Also participating in the performance of this lovely Christmas music is organist Richard Proudman, and the boys of Christ Church Cathedral Choir.

Character Actress, V. Felton Dies

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Verna Felton, 76, the grandmotherly-looking, sharp-tongued character actress who was a star of December Bride, died Wednesday night in her home after a stroke.

Miss Felton, a native of Salinas, Calif., lived in Nanaimo as a child and, while still young, appeared on the stage of the Plaza Theatre on Yates Street in Victoria, when it was known as The Playhouse.

B.C. CENTENARY

She was invited to return to Vancouver Island in 1958 when she took part in the B.C. centennial celebrations at Nanaimo and other centres.

She also appeared in Pete and Gladys on TV, with Red Skelton and Dennis Day on radio and in such movies as Picnic and—vocally only—many Disney features.

Miss Felton served as honorary mayor of Salinas. As such, she often was called upon to visit women's clubs.

Which whisky do the Jones' really drink?

When it comes to whisky, the Jones' can afford to please themselves.

Yet they don't let others dictate their taste. They have taste of their own.

This is a smooth, mellow whisky with a flavour you don't have to disguise.

One other thing: you don't have to be one of the Jones' to appreciate Bonded Stock.

All you need is a taste for good whisky.

Combined Choirs To Sing Carols

Soloists will be Miss Audrey Jackson, director of nursing services at Rest Haven Hospital, Sidney; Alfred Grieves from Jamaica, and Mrs. A. V. Piper, choir director.

NO DANGER OF GROUP LOSING SEATS

17 MPs Accepted TV Fees—Before Session

OTTAWA (CP)—There are 17 members of the present Parliament who have accepted fees from the publicly-owned CBC but the payments occurred during the previous Parliament and none now is in danger of losing his seat, Prime Minister Pearson said Wednesday.

He told the Commons in a prepared statement that no MP has been offered or has accepted any payment from the CBC since the present Parliament was formed after the election of Nov. 8, 1965.

The Senate and House of Commons Act says any MP who accepts fees from the public treasury, apart from his salary, must resign his seat or be liable to a fine of $200 for each day he sits in the House after committing the offence.

Mr. Pearson pointed out that the act contains two qualifications to this section. First, the fine is not automatic and, second, action would have to be taken within 12 months of the payment.

His detailed statement was in reply to a written question submitted last spring by Lewis Brand (PC—Saskatoon). There had been suggestions in recent days that as many as 39 MPs might have to resign because of CBC payments.

The prime minister said there is no doubt that CBC fees come under the prohibition expressed in the old statute.

Mr. Pearson did not identify the 17 MPs. There were five Liberals, five Conservatives, five from the New Democratic Party, one Creditiste and one Social Credit member.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

You see, letter writing does pay off on occasion.

CTV network has issued information that The Avengers will return to the network Jan. 17. Diana Rigg and Patrick Macnee will again centre the satiric, witty look at the spy adventure game.

Stephen

A long running favorite on British television, The Avengers appeared on CTV last season. The comeback results in large part from the fact that its intensely loyal, highly zealous audience of supporters besieged the network and TV publications across Canada with letters demanding the return of the series.

The new series will differ in several ways from the previous black-and-white film series.

This time each episode begins and ends with a stylized sequence in Emma Peel's apartment. At the beginning of each story Steed arrives to say "Mrs. Peel — we're needed!" At the end of each story he returns — to take her out to dinner or something.

The producers of the series will also lean a bit heavier on the science fiction theme this time around.

There will be such stories as "The See-Through Man," which, as the title suggests, has an invisible enemy in search of a secret formula.

To top it all, as if the return was not enough, the series will be seen in color.

'Project 20," NBC-TV's award-winning series which has produced such programs as "The Real West," "Meet Mr. Lincoln" and "The Coming of Christ" will present three hour-long productions early next year.

The productions will be "The Island Called Ellis," dealing with the story of American immigration; "End of the Trail," telling of the struggle of the Plains Indians against Western expansion of the 1870s; "The Law and the Prophets," the third part of the series Biblical trilogy (including "He Is Risen" and "The Coming of Christ").

In the case of The Law and the Prophets, cameras will play on masterworks of religious art from 70 museums and private collections on three continents.

STOWAWAY PUT ASHORE

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man who stowed away aboard a Soviet freighter here last month was put ashore at Vladivostok, the freighter's captain said Wednesday when the ship returned to Vancouver.

But it could not be learned from the captain, who knows little English, how the stowaway was received by Soviet authorities.

The stowaway said his name was Andre Dubois and that his birthplace was Lyons, France. He was discovered when the grain ship Ola was 200 miles out in the Pacific and said he wanted to go to Russia to give a message to the people.

The Ola returned to Victoria, but started out again with the stowaway when Canadian immigration authorities said there was nothing they could do.

Plastic Ship Developed In Britain

SOUTHAMPTON, England (Reuters) — Britain claimed Wednesday a technological breakthrough in the construction of plastic ships which may revolutionize shipbuilding.

Builders of an experimental 600-ton plastic ship said the successful completion of the 160-foot ship is in sight.

Plastics have been used for building boats up to 80 feet. It has not been economically possible to build larger vessels because of the amount of stiffening needed for the skin of the hull.

"This barrier has now been broken and plastic ships up to a length of 200 feet are immediately practicable," a spokesman for the project said Wednesday.

The experimental vessel is being built by Aeroplane, plastics and shipbuilders, backed by the British defence ministry.

Its construction follows research to determine whether glass-reinforced plastics could be used for ship construction on similar lines to aircraft construction.

SECTION SHOWN

A 34-foot test section of the vessel was shown to shipping and plastics experts Wednesday. It consisted of a hull made in one piece with prefabricated decks, bulkheads and superstructure consisting of only 34 parts. Not one screw, nail, bolt or other form of metal fastening was used.

The ship is to be launched Jan. 2—less than four months after construction began.

Ceylon Fears Boycott

COLOMBO (Reuters)—Conrad Dias, secretary of the Colombo Tea Traders' Association, warned Wednesday if Ceylon joins any United Nations economic sanctions against South Africa it will be disastrous for its tea trade. Dias said the South African market is one of the best and biggest for Ceylon— worth about 90,000,000 rupees ($18,900,000).

Price Fix Admitted By Linen Companies

MONTREAL (CP) — Counsel for 18 companies and four individuals in the linen supply business indicated in Exchequer Court Monday that they will fight a price-fixing conspiracy charge on grounds that service industries are not subject to the Combines Investigation Act.

At the opening of the trial, before Judge Hugh Gibson, the accused filed six admissions, including one that acknowledged price-fixing from Jan. 1, 1950 to Sept. 30, 1960, as charged.

However, the formal admission was made "without admitting that such acts constitute an offence under the act."

The companies and the individuals accused are said to account for close to 90 per cent of the business done in the Montreal area in the rental and servicing of towels, washable uniforms, and "related textile products" on a weekly basis.

Dean Cohen submitted that a hygienic service industry cannot be brought under the section of the act on which the charge is based because past interpretations of the statute support the view that it was "never intended that this kind of industry or business should come under it."

The trial continues.

QUEBEC MP ASKS BONUS INCREASE

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec MP Henri Latulippe, father of eight, asked for an increase in the family allowance in an adjournment debate in the Commons Tuesday night.

Mr. Latulippe (Creditiste - Compton—Frontenac) said the so-called baby bonus was perhaps the most important piece of social legislation a government could enact.

With rising prices, families had a hard time these days making ends meet. Yet there hadn't been a boost in the allowance for many years.

Margaret Rideout, parliamentary assistant to Health Minister MacEachen and mother of three sons, replied it was a question of priorities.

But she didn't hint at a rise in the family allowance.

Teacher Wins Award

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto mathematics teacher who considers television vulgar and common has won an international award for an educational TV show he didn't want to make. Peter Colgrove, 56, who forbids TV in his home, won honorable mention in the Japan Prize contest for two half-hour programs he made for the Metropolitan Educational Television Association.

INCLUDED IN MONDAY'S MINI-BUDGET

'Christmas Present for Aged'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp said Wednesday he has a "Christmas present for the older people of Canada" in his mini-budget to be presented Monday, but he refused to say if increased personal income taxes will pay for it.

"On Monday next, I'm going to offer all Canadians the opportunity of sharing in a Christmas present to the older people of this country," Mr. Sharp told a press conference.

Mr. Sharp said he will reveal what lies ahead for the Canadian taxpayer Monday, and refused to comment on reports that the mini-budget will mean another boost in personal income taxes.

The government needs revenue to cover the estimated $275,000,000 cost of old age pension supplements.

Turning to the general tax picture, Mr. Sharp said the tax bite would have sunk much deeper if a budget had been drafted during September or earlier.

He said timing of the mini-budget for this month means "the expectation of increasing inflationary pressure has diminished."

"Postponement of federal programs announced in September have helped stabilize the situation and improve prospects of continued steady expansion of the economy," the cabinet minister said.

Mr. Sharp was in Vancouver to address a meeting of the Canadian Club.

Fire on Women

SANTO DOMINGO (AFP) — One person was wounded Monday night when police opened fire on a crowd of Dominican women staging a violent demonstration against the increased cost of living. During the demonstration the demonstrators had stoned a police van and injured a policeman. A total of 37 arrests were made.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 62-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to David Miles, age 9, of Overland Park, Kan., for his question:

What kind of bird is a rain crow?

Our rain crow seems to be a weather prophet. He looks like a handsome dove with a snowy white westkit and a jacket of chestnut brown. There are brown bands and big white spots on his long, graceful tail — and on his head he wears a small brown cap. The beautiful bird tends to be shy but we often hear what he has to say about the weather. Just before a shower he sings his sad-sounding song. He cries Cl-uck, Cl-uck, Cl-uck — cow-cow-cow, again and again, just before the rain comes showering down.

We call him the rain crow but he is not a crow at all. He looks somewhat like a dove, but he is not related to the dove family of birds. The handsome, sad-voiced fellow is really a cuckoo. And he has 128 different cuckoo cousins living in many lands around the world. One of them is the leggy roadrunner who loves to race along the roadsides through our southern deserts.

Another cousin spends the summer in Europe. He arrives in England in early spring before the other birds return. There the people say that the first cuckoo brings the spring, just as we say that spring comes back with the first robin. This cuckoo of Europe coos his name softly as he flies through the trees, coo-koo, coo-koo, over and over again. The cuckoo clock was invented and named in his honor.

Heralds Rainy Season

There are other cuckoo cousins far around the world in the jungles of Asia. Some of them are gaudy birds almost as big as chickens. Our rain crow has a cousin im Malay who also is a weather prophet. This part of the world has hot, dry summers and warm, wet winters. As the scorching summer draws to an end, the Malay cuckoo begins his shrill whistling song. The people there call him the burong landas, which means the bird who calls the rainy monsoon season.

The cuckoos are handsome birds and very clever, but some of them are very poor parents, too lazy to build nests and bring up their children. Mrs. Cuckoo often lays her eggs in the nests of other birds. Then off she flies leaving the foster parents to feed and train her little ones.

Our rain crow is called the yellow-billed cuckoo or the black-billed cuckoo, depending upon the color of his beak. He feeds on bugs and helps the farmer by devouring lots of greedy caterpillars. And our cuckoos are better parents than some of their lazy cousins. They build their nests in thickets, often at the edgge of the woods. And sometimes we hear their soft, cooing calls just before a rainy shower.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Regina Smith, age 17, of Cleveland, Ohio, for her question:

How does velocity differ from acceleration?

Both velocity and acceleration refer to speed. Velocity refers to a steady rate of speed, such as miles per hour. Acceleration is the increase of speed at a steady rate — and velocity, of course, must be present before acceleration can begin. The changing rate of speed in acceleration is related to the time in which the change takes place. When a car increases its speed 5 miles an hour every minute, it accelerates at 5 miles an hour per minute.

Falling objects accelerate or drop faster and faster on the way down. Under normal circumstances, the force of gravity pulls them down at a fixed rate of increase. The speed-up increases by about 32 feet with every foot of the distance down. As a rule, falling objects accelerate at 32 feet per second.

BRING THEM BACK

Anti-Brain Drain Operation Set

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Despite all the talk about need for young people with special skills to fill jobs in Canada, there appears to be a virtualy-untapped source — the 12,000 Canadian students studying abroad.

They should get more encouragement from government and industry to work in Canada after graduation, says a report of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada.

"Little effort is made to see that they receive offers of employment at home. Local employers, especially in the United States, are given practically no competition by Canadian employers."

The association's recomendations are based on visits made to 27 American and five British universities in 1965-66. Operation Retrieval teams met about 3,000 of the 12,000 Canadians studying abroad.

Willing

It found that many were willing to return to work in Canada but had been discouraged by lack of response to their letters of application to employers back home, and "they were being actively courted by American employers."

Though the study was mainly concerned with prospective staff for Canadian universities, it recommends that the interviews be continued, with representatives of industry and government going along on the recruiting teams.

List Openings

The federal manpower department should become the centre of anti-brain-drain operations, paying the costs of recruiting tours and supplying information to students abroad about jobs at home and to Canadian employers about prospective staff among the students, the association says.

Canadian universities should list all staff vacancies with the association's publication, Academic Vacancies. At present less than one-fifth of vacant posts are listed. The complete bulletin could then be sent to Canadian graduate students abroad with the hope they would apply for jobs with Canadian universities.

The association adds that both universities and industry should treat letters from Canadian students abroad with "the ultimate in consideration" and Industry should start recruiting such Canadians "with as much vigor as is displayed by American recruiters."

Come to Life

Five teachers and 95 students of Laura Secord secondary school in St. Catharines, Ont., plan to make geography come to life next July with a five-week swing through six countries of Europe. By staying in hostels and travelling cheaply, geography teacher Bill Wiley hopes to keep the cost down to $750 a student. The trip, for students in Grades 11 to 13, will include visits to factories, steel mills, school systems and government offices. There will also be nights out in Paris and London and a visit to the Alps.

Regina Combos

Regina may not claim to be the swingingest city in Canada but two rock 'n' roll groups from the Saskatchewan capital have made it in the recording business.

The Checkerlands and the White Nights both have signed six-year contracts with American recording firms and each combo has had a single record released in Canada.

The boys have left for the United States to promote their records and there is a possibility they will be seen on American TV this winter.

The Checkerlands, made up of drummer Harvey Frasz, 19, organist Bob Bucholz, 17, and vocalist-guitarist Bob Fry, 20, recorded a song called Shake Yourself Down.

The White Nights — vocalist Barry Keating, drummer Art Zimmerman, guitarist Richard Gettle and guitarist Vern Hoffert, all 20 — recorded Love That's True and Run, Run Baby.

Checkerlands have signed with RCA Victor and the White Nights with Gaiety Records of Hollywood.

Coyne Gets Certificate

WINNIPEG (CP) — The new Bank of Western Canada has received its certificate from the treasury board in Ottawa, president James E. Coyne announced Wednesday.

The certificate to transact business under provisions of the Bank Act was the last major official requirement to be met before the bank opens.

Sponsors first proposed the bank three years ago. All share capital had been subscribed by March, 1964.

It is the first Canadian-owned bank to receive a charter and certificate to transact business in 50 years.

Mr. Coyne said the bank will be western-oriented.

Bill Hikes Wages

Union Agrees To Obey Law

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation on its way to the Commons to prevent a strike of air traffic controllers will also provide for a salary increase.

The legislation is scheduled to be introduced Friday, but the government will ask the House today to change its rules to allow immediate introduction of such emergency bills.

The union has set a strike deadline for 8 a.m. local times Tuesday, Dec. 20.

Revenue Minister Benson gave notice of the strike-preventing bill with the following resolution:

"That it is expedient to introduce a measure to provide for the continuation of air traffic control services; to provide also for an increase in the remuneration of air traffic controllers."

TALKS RESUME TODAY

Negotiations between the government and representatives of the key airport workers resumed at 3 p.m. today, half an hour after the Commons began its daily sitting.

James Conway of Winnipeg, vice-president of the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers' Association, said there will be no attempt by controllers to defy strike-banning legislation.

"We will call off our strike deadline when — and if — Parliament passes this legislation," he said in an interview.

But the association would await the legislation rather than back down from its wage stand.

A strike of the nearly 800 control tower and radar operators who are members of the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers Association would halt all air traffic except for small aircraft able to take off and land without assistance.

Negotiating teams from the CATCA and the treasury board spent 2½ hours in talks Wednesday night before adjourning until today. Mr. Benson stood by in his office, ready to take part in the talks if called.

Last week, Gilles Gregoire (Ind. — Lapointe) denied the government unanimous consent to bring in emergency legislation dealing with the West Coast longshoremen's strike.

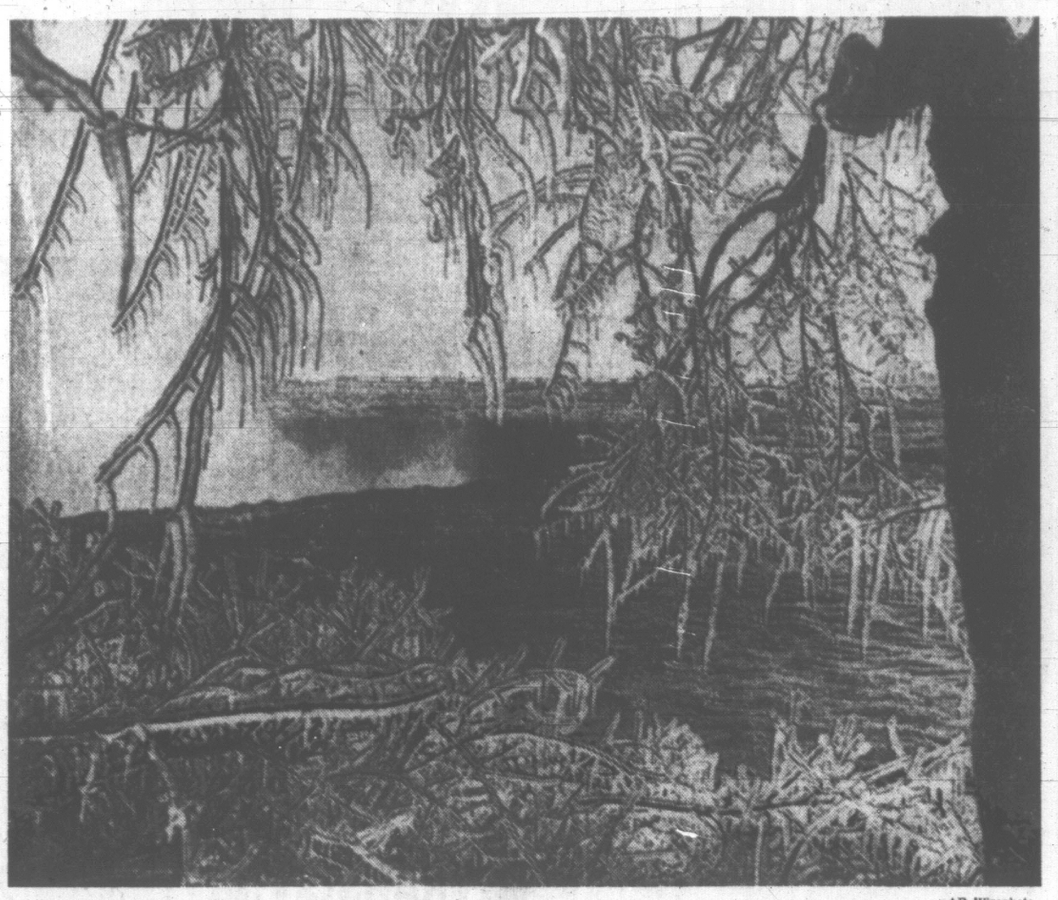

A motion to change the rules is also expected to be introduced today. It would make it necessary for at least 10 members to oppose the introduction of emergency legislation to prevent the 48-hour notice being waived.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux agreed to an Opposition demand for an emergency debate of the air traffic controllers situation Wednesday.

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker accused the government of holding a club over the controllers' heads by threatening to bring in legislation outlawing a strike while negotiations were still going on.

NDP Leader Douglas said the government had no choice but

Finance Firm Losses Soar To $19 Million

Creditors Demand Action

TORONTO (CP)—John Biddell, of Clarkson Co., Ltd., said today the total losses of the bankrupt Prudential Finance Corp., Ltd., will amount to between $19,000,000 and $20,000,000.

He told an obviously angry and frequently shouting meeting of creditors that so far investigations have determined losses of about $17,000,000, and Clarkson as trustee for the bankrupt company is still working on others.

His statement brought gasps of dismay from the 500 creditors who gathered in the Royal Alexandra Theatre in downtown Toronto for the meeting.

The meeting was interrupted by shouts from the floor by creditors asking why the federal or provincial governments had not acted to protect them, demanding criminal and civil actions and criticizing the way the matter has been handled since Prudential Finance's difficulties became apparent early in November.

LAWYER MENTIONED

Frequently mentioned by the creditors was London, Ont. lawyer C. C. Carrothers, a director of Prudential Finance.

Several creditors asked why Mr. Carrothers, who has said he lost $60,000 in the collapse, did not know the company's financial situation.

Others also called out angrily when they learned that Joseph Benoit Brien, Prudential Finance president, was not at the meeting.

Mr. Biddell said Brien, facing six charges including theft and forgery in connection with the investigation of the collapse, is ill according to his lawyers.

At first it had been estimated Prudential Finance's losses would run about $3,500,000. Later this was revised to being "substantially higher" and today's announcement by Mr. Biddell followed a warning that unsecured creditors might get no more than 15 cents on the dollar.

WALT DISNEY . . . entertainment empire

STARTED WITH MICKEY

(Times News Services)

HOLLYWOOD — Walt Disney, the master showman, who created the rollicking cartoon characters of Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck and went on to fashion a fabulous entertainment empire, died today at the age of 65.

Disney succumbed at 9:35 a.m. in St. Joseph Hospital — across the street from his movie studio in Burbank—where his left lung was removed last Nov. 21 after doctors found a tumor which had caused an abcess. At the time, doctors and Disney spokesmen declined to say whether the tumor was malignant. The hospital gave circulatory collapse as the cause of death today.

The founder of Disneyland and producer of more than 600 films ranging from the animated cartoon Snow White to the lavish color musical Mary Poppins is survived by his widow, Lillian, and two married daughters.

Disney was entertainment's most successful practitioner. He made a meagre start as an artist with an idea for a comedy cartoon featuring Mickey Mouse—and saw the lively rodent become a world-wide institution.

He pioneered feature - length color cartoons, popularized nature films, expanded into adventure, comedy and musical films. He became a mainstay of television. The fabulous success of his huge amusement park, Disneyland, set the pattern for others elsewhere.

Success and honors piled up in profusion for the creator-tycoon.

LBJ READY TO TALK EXTENDED CEASEFIRE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson made known through his press secretary Wednesday night that he is ready to discuss an extended ceasefire in Vietnam, includng a freeze on troop reinforcements "if the other side is responsive".

When press secretary Bill D. Moyers was asked whether that meant the United States is ready to talk over with the other side in the war the specific issues of an extended ceasefire and a "stand-fast" by both sides he replied, "Yes".

This latest White House comment reflects guarded speculation among top United States officials that the Christmas truce might possibly open up possibilties for peace talks of much broader significance.

NEW VANCOUVER MAYOR

Major Upset By Campbell

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tom Campbell, a flamboyant millionaire lawyer and real estate developer, became the youngest mayor in the history of Vancouver, Wednesday night, defeating incumbent William Rathie by fewer than 2,000 votes.

CAMPBELL
. . . youngest in history

Mr. Campbell polled 41,073 votes to Mr. Rathie's 39,843 in one of the closest election races in the city's history.

Jean Rands, the only other mayoralty candidate, who described herself as a Marxist-Socialist, polled 6,534 votes. Miss Rands, 21, is iditor of a Socialist magazine published in Toronto.

The 38-year-old mayor-elect, an alderman for five years, said during the campaign: "I have the ability — I made my first million before I was 28."

RAN AS INDEPENDENT

He said he had no political affiliations and ran as an independent.

Mr. Rathie, backed by the powerful Non-Partisan Association which has controlled Vancouver civic politics since the Second World War, was the major casualty in the NPA's slate of city council hopefuls.

The NPA, described by its opponents as a coalition of Liberal and Conservative politicians, seated eight aldermen in the 10 council seats up for grabs. Two independents, one a far left labor candidate, also won council seats.

The mayoralty contest was a close count all the way — from the time polls closed at 8 p.m. until final returns were in early today.

As in most Vancouver elections, the west side of the city favored one candidate and the east side favored the opposition.

"Normally speaking, if you can get the vote in the west end of the city you can win without the east end," said Mr. Rathie. "But I was beaten all over — I didn't get the support in western

BOMB RAIDS

Red Protest 'Mild Rebuke'

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Kremlin today protested at American bombing raids on Hanoi and demanded that the United States call a halt to its "aggression" in Vietnam.

In a government statement read over Moscow radio, the Soviet Union said the latest raids seriously aggravated international tension.

It warned the U.S. government not to forget the Warsaw pact nations' July declaration, in which they pledged to send volunteers to Vietnam if Hanoi asked for them.

It said U.S. air raids on residential districts of Hanoi Tuesday and Wednesday had killed and injured people in the North Vietnamese capital.

The Soviet statement, first of its kind on Vietnam for many months, struck observers here by the relative mildness of its tone, which was less threatening than past Kremlin statements on this subject.

WILL GIVE AID

The statement said Russia "has provided and will continue to provide all-around assistance to the Vietnamese people in its heroic struggle against the criminal aggression of American imperialism."

The U.S. government, "which is working for a further extension of the war in Vietnam, should not forget the warning made by the socialist states at the meeting in Bucharest early in July," it cautioned.

U.S. Admits Residential Area Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department acknowledged today the "possibility" that residential areas may have been hit during the Tuesday and Wednesday bombing by U.S. aircraft of military targets five miles from the centre of Hanoi.

Officials said, however, that any civilian casualties were either the result of an accident or unavoidable "incidents" in connection with the primary objective of hitting key transportation facilities.

The targets for the two days were the Vendien railway marshalling yards and depot five miles south of the centre.

Cabinet Split Over Endorsation

Not all of the provincial cabinet, much less the voters, were behind Premier Bennett's endorsation of Vancouver Mayor William Rathie's campaign for a third term.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson today revealed the cabinet split over the premier's first open intrusion into civic politics which turned into a disaster.

Significantly, Mr. Peterson is the cabinet's chief spokesman in Vancouver, the mantle he inherited when Attorney-General Robert Bonner was beaten in Vancouver-Point Grey and had to get back into the legislature as a Cariboo MLA.

BANGKOK (AFP) — A Royal Thai Air Force sergeant was trampled to death and dozens of spectators were injured when a near riot developed outside the National Stadium as crowds gathered to watch an Asian Games soccer match between Thailand and Burma, the Bangkok Post reported today.

Burned to Death

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Three young children died early today when fire swept through their home in this northern coastal community. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wing, identified as Debra, 8; Toni, 5, and brother Dale, 6, apparently died of asphyxiation, firemen said.

DONATED GRAIN BECOMES WAGES

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Spring is hunger time in Korea.

The season that should bring joy and new hope to Koreans brings only misery to thousands.

In the cities of Seoul and Mokpo, tenement dwellers now shivering in the nippy Korean wind face a bleak and hungry spring.

A searing drought last summer was followed by severe floods.

And for Koreans, who live in a predominantly agricultural country, droughts and floods are a catastrophe.

Seventy per cent of the population is engaged in farming, yet only a little more than a fifth of the country is suited to agriculture.

Poor soil and outdated farming methods contribute to the unhappy situation and each year Korea is short of its annual grain quota by hundreds of thousands of tons.

Korea is not expected to feed its own population until 1971 and foreign aid is badly needed.

Last year the Unitarian Service Committee, which is supported by funds like The Times' Share with Asian Children Fund, shipped 400,000 pounds of barley to Korea.

Much of it went to the hungriest Koreans whose names appear on USC relief lists.

But practical Koreans have found another use for Canadian grain: It becomes "wages" paid to otherwise unemployed laborers in massive reconstruction and reclamation projects at the rate of eight pounds (50 cents worth) for each working day.

One USC investment of 55,000 pounds of Canadian barley has accomplished this: 55,000 sq. feet of land has been reclaimed from Mokpo harbor, and the Korean work-

PRIVATE EYE DESCRIBES BIZARRE DEVICES

One of 'Better Collections' of Bugs

VANCOUVER (CP)—Private detective Angus Macdonald, a former Vancouver city police drug squad officer, told the royal commission on bugging Wednesday about some of the bizarre devices used to eavesdrop on people electronically.

The inquiry, under former county court judge R. A. Sargent, was called after bugging devices were found at a labor union convention last month.

Evidence has been given that Pat O'Neal, organizer for the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, paid another private detective to bug hotel rooms occupied by delegates to the convention of the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

Mr. Macdonald told the inquiry he was hired by the Canadian union to de-bug hotel rooms, and hired later to de-bug the union's headquarters in suburban Burnaby.

He explained he had one of the "better collections" of bugging and anti-bugging devices, and that many are sold on the open market to detective agencies and police forces.

While he was on the force, he said, he used to make his own equipment. "The sergeant didn't take any notice—just so's I got convictions," he said.

One of his gadgets, he testified, is briefcase size, and by concealing it and hooking it to a telephone line with a fine wire he could tape and record both sides of conversations. He said it was activated by picking up the receiver and would record for eight days.

Among his other equipment was a combination microphone-transmitter the size of a sugar cube, with an effective range of about two blocks.

He said he has "about two" of these, and a special AM-FM receiver for them made up "by a man in Richmond." Richmond is a Vancouver suburb.

With the drug squad, he used hearing aids to bug at a distance of 150 feet and a "spike" microphone that could be pushed into a wall and record. There was also a transmitter that could be carried to scramble voices in a crowd.

"This is to prevent people from bugging you," he said. "California call girls use it."

The pride of the collection, he said, was a $1,000 bug that

Kennedys 'Stunned' By Johnson Actions

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Bennett Cerf, publisher and television personality, was quoted as saying he read an unedited manuscript of a controversial book on the death of President John F. Kennedy and that it described some "unbelievable things that happened after the assassination."

The Yale Daily News, the student newspaper, says Cerf told a banquet audience at Yale's Pierson College Wednesday night that the unedited manuscript of William Manchester's Death of a President described an incident involving the presidential plane at Love Airfield in Texas after the assassination.

The student newspaper quotes Cerf, chairman of the board of Random House, as saying the manuscript depicted the Kennedy people as stunned, remaining at the hospital, while Lyndon Johnson and a small entourage went to Love Airfield, where both the presidential and vice-presidential planes were parked.

IDENTICAL PLANES

The student newspaper's account of Cerf's remarks continues:

"The airplanes were identical in construction and furnishing, he (Cerf) said, except that the presidential plane carried a a 'football,' a bag containing all the crucial information about what was to be done in case of nuclear attack.

"According to Mr. Cerf's narration of Manchester's book, the Johnson party reached the airfield first, and, knowing that President Kennedy was dead, boarded the presidential jet. When the Kennedys returned to the airport with the coffin and discovered that the presidential plane was already occupied, they were shocked and infuriated, said Mr. Cerf."

The student newspaper says Cerf described another incident in the unedited manuscript of the book — that President Johnson claims he telephoned Attorney-General Robert Kennedy from Texas shortly after the assassination, asking for advice on whether or not he should be sworn in as president in Dallas or in Washington.

Cerf was quoted as saying that Kennedy now denies he received such a call.

Cerf, reached in New York, confirmed that he had made the remarks, but said, "I was under the impression I was talking off the record." He said he considered it a "wonderful book" and believes that it will influence history.

TRUCE BID A 'FRAUD' SAYS CHINA AFTER RAID

TOKYO (UPI)—China said today talk about an extended holiday ceasefire in Vietnam was a "fraud" in view of "savage bombing" by American planes of the Hanoi area. Other Communist nations joined in the condemnation of the United States air attacks.

An article in the official "People's Daily" said the United States was "anxiously scheming the so-called Christmas truce, bombing pause and peace talk hoaxes".

"The Johnson administration is making vain attempts to bring the Vietnamese people to their knees and make them accept the United States peace talks fraud by the sinister means of stepping up its bombing of the D.V.R. (North Viethamese) capital," the editorial said.

In an industry sometimes seemingly obsessed with sex and brutality, Disney thrived with simple tales about animals, children and Victorian characters.

ALL AGES KNEW HIM

The titles of his cartoons and their characters evoked fond memories for more than a generation of Disney fans — The Three Little Pigs, Donald Duck, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Fantasia, Peter Pan, The Lady and the Tramp.

Aspects of the Disney empire included:

—Some 80 feature films since Walt and his brother Roy opened their cartoon studio in 1923. Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, who bore names such as Happy, Grumpy, Sneezy and Dopey, was the first animated feature film. An immediate success, it has been reissued repeatedly. The rollicking Mary Poppins brought Julie Andrews to the screen as a gravity-defying governess and tunefully gave the language a new word — supercalifragilisticexpialidocious.

—By 1966, more than 1,900 hours of television entertainment, including the weekly Wonderful World of Color, with grandfatherly Walt as host.

—Disneyland, the 160 - acre, $35,000,000 amusement park at suburban Anaheim that became a must-see item for every tourist visiting Southern California.

DEMANDING MAN

Disney was a man of medium size, with greying brown hair. Impatient with himself or coworkers who failed to deliver.

Walter Elias Disney was born Dec. 5, 1901, in Chicago, of Irish-German descent.

The family moved to Kansas City, and Walt carried papers, earned haircuts by drawing sketches for a barber who displayed them in the window, drew illustrations for the high school paper and took his first motion pictures. Nights, he studied cartooning.

Returning at 18, he became an apprentice artist for a Kansas City advertising company. Later he opened his own commercial art studio but soon took a $35-a-week job as cartoonist for a Kansas City firm that made still-picture slides for projection on theatre screens.

With an old movie camera he experimented with animated films. Several young cartoonists joined him at his garage studio in the animation of fairy tales, starting with Little Red Riding Hood.

Shortly after his 63rd birthday, a newspaperman who was interviewing Disney was struck by his repetitious use of the phrase "it's fun" as he talkel about his movies, Walt Disney Studios in Burbank, Disneyland and his life in general.

This led the writer to ask:

"What was the most rewarding thing in your life?"

Disney retorted:

"The whole damned thing! The fact I was able to build an organization and hold it. Some of the people at the studio have been with me for 35 years."

He then was asked to tell his biggest disappointment:

"Nothing," he replied. "I used to kid my wife about not having a son, but now I have two good sons-in-law. Oh, I've had little disappointments, but I've gotten over them."

. . . CAMPBELL

sections that I had expected."

Election officials said only about 32 per cent of the eligible 253,000 voters showed up at the polls.

He said he is convinced Mr. Campbell will carry out many of the policies already launched under the four-year Rathie regime, including a downtown redevelopment scheme which would see new buildings constructed at the city's main intersection, Georgia and Granville.

Miss Rand, 21, said she was quite pleased at her showing. She polled seven per cent of the total vote.

"That's four times what Campbell said I'd get," she said.

TOPS POLL

Incumbent alderman Hugh Bird topped the poll with 49,528 votes. Other NPA incumbents elected for two-year terms were Halford Wilson, Earle Adams, Ernie Broome and Reg Atherton.

Marianne Linnell, Peter Graham and Ed Sweeney joined the NPA ranks on council. Incumbent Tom Alsbury, an independent, also regained his council seat.

The NPA continued its domination of the school board, seating eight of the nine trustees. Incumbents Robert Dundas, Betsy McDonald, Arthur Johnson, Frederick Rowell, Constance Spring, Eva New, Gordon McOuat and Mel Scott were all successful.

Independent James MacFarlane edged the NPA's George Holgate for the ninth seat.

The NPA won all seven parks board seats. Four incumbents, George Wainborn, Margaret Jack, George Puil and Andy Livingston, were joined by newcomers Lorne Brown, Sandy Robertson and Joseph Malkin.

Great Loss To Filmland

"He was practically the only producer making films which were entirely suitable for families and children. His name alone was an assurance to parents."

Mr. Bennett had endorsed Mayor Rathie for re-election after the latter made a surprise endorsation during the Cariboo byelection of Mr. Bonner, the man he had unsuccessfully opposed as a Liberal candidate in the 1963 election.

SURPRISE WIN

Mr. Peterson was asked for comment, as he headed to a cabinet meeting here, on the surprise victory of Ald. Thomas Campbell over the premier's choice.

"I think Mr. Campbell will make a very capable mayor," he responded.

Asked if he had agreed with the premier's endorsation of Mr. Rathie, Mr. Peterson said:

"We all have our won views in regard to civic elections. I know that he (Campbell) was supported by members of our cabinet as well as our party."

'ACCORDING TO PRESS'

Asked why he appeared to be breaking with the Premier's choice, Mr. Peterson said that Mr. Bennett's endorsation of Mr. Rathie was only "according to press reports."

He said he personally knew Mr. Campbell and was sure that he would be as dedicated a mayor as Mr. Rathie had been.

He added that he felt his relations with Mr. Rathie, who had announced that he had voted for Mr. Peterson in the Sept. 12 general election, "are still very good."

NO BETS

Mr. Peterson said it was obvious that many Social Credit party members had voted for both Mr. Campbell and Mr. Rathie but he personally had made no bets on the elction or become involved in any way.

"I didn't participate in the campaign in any way but I know some members of the cabinet were supporting Mr. Campbell," he repeated.

Premier Bennett, in Vancouver for a civil service dinner, was not available for comment.

Mr. Bonner, who also was in Vancouver, declined to say whether he had favored Mr. Rathie or Mr. Campbell.

"I find provincial politics sufficiently engaging that I don't take part in civic politics," he said.

Asked if he thought the tit-for-tat endorsation of Mr. Rathie was a factor in his defeat, Mr. Bonner said he did not wish to speculate.

Britain Fails To Soften African Stand

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — African members of the UN Security Council were reported today to have refused to drop demands that Britain use force to cut off Rhodesia's oil supply despite Western warnings such demands are doomed to defeat.

Informed sources said Britain has failed to persuade the three African members — Nigeria, Uganda and Mali—to abandon their attempt to draft such an amendment onto the British resolution calling for mandatory sanctions against 12 Rhodesian exports, not including oil. The amendment introduced this week with the blessings of the 38 African UN members demands that Britain "prevent by all means the transport to Southern Rhodesia of oil or oil products."

Lord Caradon of Britain, who spent most of Wednesday in consultation with the African council members, was said to have pointed out th at Britain would have to throw a naval blockade around all of southern Africa to enforce such a ban.

"The whole idea is unrealistic," said a source close to the British delegation.

"Even— if Britain had the warships available for such a massive blockade, she would refuse to take a step certain to bring her into direct confrontation with South Africa and Portugal."

SUPPLIES OIL

South Africa, which has been supplying much of Rhodesia's oil since Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith declared independence 13 months ago, is Britain's third biggest trading partner.

Western sources predicted that the amendment would get only five votes in the 15-nation council—the three African and the two Communist members, the Soviet Union and Bulgaria.

This would make it possible for Britain to abstain on the amendment and avoid using the veto.

Caradon is reported to have told the African members that his government is more favorable to their other oil amendment. This calls on UN members to refrain from allowing their territories or transport facilities to be used by anyone trying to ship oil to Rhodesia.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko told the council Wednesday that the British request for sanctions was meaningless unless oil was included.

WITHDRAWAL from an active leadership in politics was announced Wednesday by Pennsylvania Governor William W. Scranton. He will leave office on Jan. 17. Scranton told a press conference he will drop his activities in both national and state politics.

FULL DISCLOSURE

A-G To Seek National Plan On Loan Cost

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today said he will to to Ottawa this weekend to tell a federal-provincial conference that B.C. wants a national policy requiring disclosure of true interest rates.

He said the conference will discuss desirability of requiring credit firms to pubiish their full interest charges, setting a ceiling on allowable credit rates and instalment buying practices in general.

Mr. Bonner said his department has undertaken a study of the interest-disclosure proposal as promised in last spring's legislative session but it feels that a muiform policy shoudl be adopted throughout Canada.

He said the conference will take place Monday but he will stay on in Ottawa to assist Premier Bennett at a finance ministers' meeting there Tuesday and Wednesday.

Step-Up Deplored

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — UN Secretary-General U Thant deplored today what he described as "the intensification of the bombing of North Vietnam" by the United States. Through a spokesman, he also expressed fear "it might lead to a wider war."

A spokesman gave Thant's views when asked for the secretary-general's comment on "the bombing of Hanoi."

AFTER 2-YEAR DELAY

Bank of B.C. Now Official

OTTAWA (CP) — After more than two years of parliamentary delays, the private bill to incorporate the Bank of British Columbia became law Wednesday.

The measure received royal assent from Chief Justice Robert Taschereau, acting as deputy to the Governor-General, shorty after the Senate concurred with amendments passed earlier by the Commons.

The new bank will have its headquarters in Vancouver and will be headed by Einar Gunderson, a former member of the B.C. cabinet and the chief fund raiser for the Social Credit party of Premier Bennett.

The amendment written into the bill by the Commons finance committee prohibits any government official from being an executive to the new bank.

The bill originally provided that a majority of the bank's directors and executives be B.C. residents, but this was deleted by the committee to strengthen the bank's national character.

The B.C. government originally proposed to own 25 per cent of the bank's shares, but this was opposed and the bill as passed does not involve any provincial ownership.

Nine other pieces of legislation, mostly minor, also were given royal assent. They included a measure granting eight paid statutory holidays and a two-week vacation to stevedores working for more than one company.

Chinese Embassy Damaged

HANOI (CP) — The Chinese embassy, damaged in an American air raid Wednesday, refused to accept incoming telephone calls today. Callers were repeatedly told by the embassy operator that the person they asked for was absent.

The North Vietnamese foreign ministry refused to add anything to Wednesday's official statement that "U.S. aircraft attacked a certain number of areas in Hanoi, including that which contains foreign embassies."

Journalists were invited by the ministry to visit certain parts of the city.

The Chinese embassy, closed to visitors for several hours Wednesday night, was open today.

The embassy, a vast stone building dating back to the 1930s, presented its normal aspect, with no damage visible from the broad, tree-lined avenue on which it stands.

East European experts said a rocket hit the back of the building. Staff in neighboring embassies said the rocket exploded in a cloud of black smoke without apparently causing any casualties, but badly damaging the embassy's kitchens.

Arthur Mayse

Two weeks ago or maybe three, I listened while a father whose bark is pretty convincing assured me that his children would get strictly practical Christmas presents this year. No junk toys, no fad-of-the-moment marvels, and even though they yearned for one, no expensive, space-taking, time-wasting car race game.

Well, as you have probably guessed, Dad is having himself quite a time these evenings after the kids are safely asleep, and by Christmas he expects to be about as sound an indoor race driver as this town can field.

There are, of course, certain perils in wait for the father who sneaks expensive, time-wasting but fascinating gifts of this sort down to the basement for a few trial runs.

One of these, a young man who once yearned mightily for an electric train will forgive me if I now reveal.

About two o'clock on that Christmas morning, the locomotive was chuffing around its complex of tracks when it jumped a switch and piled into gondola, freight car and caboose.

I lit out for the basement work bench with the locie in one hand and a shard of broken-off metal in the other. It was a loaded moment when the train made its first official run a few hours later, but the repair held, and if Ron knew about it, he never reproached me.

From 'Worried Housewife', a note to tell me she has searched all the main stores and many smaller shops for a spray-bomb designed to fireproof and preserve Christmas trees.

"It seems to be unheard of," she writes, "though I was able to buy this in a spray can last year. How so important an item can be omitted from our local stores is astounding."

Calls around town have failed to turn up any such fireproofing spray cans, but for anyone interested, here is our Victoria fire department recipe for such a spray:

'Mix nine ounces borax and four ounces boracic acid in one gallon water. Spray on, or soak tree in this solution.'

"Remember, though," said the smoke-eater who supplied this information, "fire protection starts with a fresh-cut tree standing in water."

★

The time has come again when the mail may turn up a package of unsolicited and quite possibly unwanted Christmas cards tagged with a healthy price. All you need do with this or any other unordered merchandise sent you is write "Refused" large and firm on the envelope or container, and drop in the nearest mail-box.

You are not required to put stamps on the refused item — the sender is responsible for return postage.

Speaking of mail, the postal authorities are commendably helpful and polite when a parcel or letter is sent out minus the required stamps. Let this happen, and you receive a card pointing out your error, also telling you that "the post office affixed the deficient postage to avoid delay."

Still on this matter of mail, our last brought us along with some cards and a Billy Graham pitch for money, a letter from Toronto publisher friend George Nelson who heads Doubleday-Doran in Canada.

From a hasty dip into the book-proofs Mr. Nelson sent alone, I suspect that 'C.L.E.' may hit more than one literary jackpot before next year has run its course.

Purse Thieves Caught In Routine Car Check

Albertans Return To Scene of Crime

A spate of purse-snatching in the city and Saanich ended Wednesday night when an alert Saanich policeman nabbed four Alberta youths in a routine car check.

The four were caught when they returned to the scene of their first grab Monday night.

Two of the youths pleaded guilty in central court this morning to grabbing the purses of four women since Monday and attempting a purse snatch on another.

Ronald Williams, 19, of Medicine Hat and Stanley Smith, 20, of Calgary, were remanded in custody to Dec. 23 for sentence.

A third youth, Warren Smith, 18, of Okotoks, Alta., who pleaded guilty to one count of theft, will be sentenced at the same time.

JUVENILE COURT

The fourth occupant of the car, a 16-year-old Calgary boy, was scheduled to appear in juvenile court.

The purse-snatching began Monday night when Mrs. Mary Edwardson, 45, of 568 Vincent had her purse torn form her grasp at about 10 p.m. after she had alighted from a bus in the 600 block Gorge.

The purse contained $12 cash, two rings worth $550, a watch valued at $275 and other jewellery which brought the loss to $900. All but the watch and cash have been recovered.

The youth who took the purse escaped in a car driven by an accomplice.

Another purse-snatching attempt downtown earlier in the evening failed when the strap on the purse broke and the young thief fled empty-handed.

THREE OTHERS

Three other women had their purses grabbed Tuesday. In each case only small amounts of cash were lost besides personal papers.

Constable Jim White, on the lookout for a white and yellow car described by one of the victims, stopped a similar auto at about 7 p.m. Wednesday on the Gorge Road near Admirals Road, not far from where Mrs. Edwardson's purse was stolen.

The charges were laid after officers from the Victoria and Saanich departments questioned the quartet and searched their car.

Detective Sergeant Robin Stewart said today goods found in the youths' Admirals Road auto court unit could lead to further charges.

Late Mayor's Plan Winning Acceptance

A plan prepared by the chamber in co-operation with Oak Bay Board of Trade, Esquimalt Chamber of Commerce and Sooke Chamber of Commerce needs only Victoria membership ratification and approval of municipal councils.

Early in 1967 it is expected the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce will be born, its boundary covering Victoria city and Saanich municipality, which at present has no chamber.

At the same time, a working affiliation is recommended between the Greater Victoria chamber and other capital region chambers, which would keep their identities.

EXCHANGE

There would be an exchange of directors between Victoria and the various regional boards, including seats on the Greater Victoria chamber of presidents of the other chambers.

By becoming corporate members of the Greater Victoria chamber, the other chambers would add weight to representations made before local, provincial and federal authorities.

THOMAS SHINGLES
. . . diasman

Governor Cut But He Didn't Bleed

That was back when Vincent Massey held the post and Mr. Shingles worked for the mint.

●

He's a diasman, a designer of coins, medallions and medals and even in retirement he's still pursuing his art in a basement studio.

He retired at 61 due to ill health but at 63 he still hasn't found time to pursue his interest in painting.

●

Born in Birmingham where he learned his trade, Mr. Shingles went to Winnipeg to work for a firm later taken over by Birks Ltd. He met his wife Violet there. Then in 1939 they went to Ottawa and the mint.

The ultimate move to Victoria has made life easier for them.

50 POISED FOR ANNUAL BIRD COUNT

Victoria Natural History Society will begin its annual bird count at daybreak on Monday, Dec. 27, and continue until dusk.

It is part of a continental-wide project involving 15,000 persons.

"We expect about 50 enthusiasts will take the count in this area," said provincial park naturalist David Stirling, who is organizing the count for the Victoria society.

Mr. Stirling has compiled the count for the past six years.

Owners, Riders Rewarded

Owners and riders of Victoria horses have received championship awards for 1966.

The awards were made under auspices of the Canadian Horse Show's Association for the highest points scored at various B.C. shows between Easter and Thanksgiving.

Reserve award in the Conformation Hunter class was won by Hindu Punch, owned by Mrs. J. V. Donaldson, and ridden by her daughter, Mrs. Pat Bowron.

Miss Coles and her horse, Chico, also tied with a Vancouver competitor to win the Hunt Seat equitation award for riders aged 14 to 18.

Report Coming Out Friday On Shipyard Wage Dispute

Provincial conciliation officer Jack Sherlock will hand down a report Friday on a contract dispute involving 22 unions and three B.C. shipyards.

Mr. Sherlock met Wednesday with union representatives for the first time since the B.C. Labor Relations Board ordered all the unions to bargain jointly with Burrard Dry Dock of Vancouver, and Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot of Victoria.

The report is expected to contain recommendations to settle differences in wage demands between some of the unions.

Proir to the LRB's joint certification, one group of unions had demanded a 65-cent hourly pay increase. A second group had asked for a 70-cent pay increase.

Both groups want the present 40-hour work week reduced to 35 hours with no drop in take-home pay.

LIGHTS! ACTION!! CHRISTMAS!!!

More than 1,000 lights will be turned on at dusk Friday on two giant trees that have become a traditional part of Christmas in Victoria.

Provincial public works employees have strung 525 festive lights over an 80-foot tree on the Legislative Buildings lawn and 500 lights garland a 92-footer at the driveway entrance to Government House.

Both trees are California Redwood Sequoia.

25 Idled By Fairey Shutdown

Possibility of future American orders for aircraft components is not expected to alter a Fairey Canada Ltd. decision to cut back its Sidney operation.

The shutdown — until work in the aviation field picks up — was announced by plant manager G. A. Marr.

"Certain personnel will be retained to fulfill continuing military commitments," Mr. Marr said.

25 AFFECTED

About 25 employees are affected in the decision to suspend, which takes place at the end of January.

Fairey was a service depot for naval aircraft and converted a number of planes for use as water bombers, including the Martin Mars of Flying Fireman Ltd.

RCMP PLANS TRAFFIC CHECKPOINTS

If the drinking driver feels hounded this Christmas season in the urban areas, he'd better not feel safe in the country.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police is planning a crackdown throughout the whole province.

"RCMP patrols will be out in full force," said a directive issued by the force today, "in order to detect the drinking driver."

"Special emphasis is being placed on the use of traffic check points," says the warning.

Tory, Grit Working To Aid Ship-Jumper

George Chatterton (PC—Esquimalt-Saanich) has now interested himself in the case of Vinko Kucina, 26, who faces deportation.

CASH BOND

Mr. Kucina speaks little English. His cousin, Milko Jadresko, a Victoria landscape gardener, has been fighting his case with petitions and legal aid. He also has posted a cash bond for Mr. Kucina pending a final decision by immigration authorities.

Mr. Jadresko said today that he has had two letters from Mr. Chatterton requestion information. And he has had two telephone calls from Mr. Groos lending encouragement in recent days.

"This is bigger than politics. It is helping a man in trouble," said Mr. Jadresko.

He explained earlier that Mr. Kucina jumped ship at Sorel, Quebec, in the belief he would be given asylum as a refugee from a Communist-controlled country. He reported to immigration authorities on arrival on this coast.

The question of whether such informal immigrants should be permitted entry has been discussed recently in the Commons with Opposition Leader Diefenbaker urging leniency.

Mr. Jadresko says if Mr. Kucina is required to return to Yugoslavia he will be subjected to various persecutions. He said two of Mr. Kucina's brothers now are living in Australia. He no longer has any family at home.

A wife of one of the brothers, still in Yugoslavia, has been evicted from a state-operated housing authority following her husband's departure, said Mr. Jadresko.

Peterson Greets Woman Minister At First Meeting

Grace McCarthy turned out to be the early bird among the province's new trio of women ministers.

She came early this morning to be sure to be there for the start of the first cabinet meeting since the swearing-in ceremony Monday night that saw her, Patricia Jordan and Isobel Dawson made ministers without portfolio.

Premier Bennett, who asked the women ministers to operate out of their own ridings although they could attend any cabinet meetings they wished, wasn't on hand to greet her.

He was in Vancouver, her bailiwick.

Inquest Set For Friday In Shooting

An inquest will be held Friday into the shooting death of nine-year-old Kevin King, 1903 Maple, Sooke.

The youngster died Tuesday in St. Joseph's Hospital three days after being hit in the forehead by a .22 bullet from a rifle he and a younger brother had been playing with.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre has ordered the inquest for 7:30 p.m. in McCall Bros.

You Drink and Drive? Watch Channel 8 Tonight

British Columbia superintendent of motor vehicles Ray Hadfield wants all drivers to watch television tonight . . . especially those who drink and drive.

Mr. Hadfield is boosting the program "Point Zero Eight" which will appear on Channel 8 at 9.

Point zero eight is the measure of alcohol in blood which can cause trouble and it's surprisingly easy to attain. The same measure is the nub of B.C.'s new legislation which, when it is proclaimed, will give police power to suspend driver privileges for 24 hours without trial.

The program will feature some of Canada's leading racing car drivers.

"It is particularly appropriate in view of the approaching holiday season," said Mr. Hadfield.

NARROW ESCAPE for a city mother and her baby this morning when this car exploded and burst into flames while it was warming up in basement garage. Mrs. William Duncan, 1532 Dallas Road, told firemen she had started the car after opening the garage door and then returned upstairs to collect her baby when she heard a blast and found the car a mass of flames. Inches of water was swishing about on the floor of the late model auto before firemen were able to quench the stubborn blaze. Fireman Robert John here examines some of the charred engine parts. Cause is still under investigation. (Irving Strickland photo.)

ALGONQUIN, CRESCENT?

Two More DEs for Esquimalt

The west coast navy fleet will be increased next year with the arrival here of two more destroyers-escorts.

The ships, now stationed in the east, will bring the fighting ships' operational strength to nine, including the submarine Grilse, five other destroyer-escorts and the ocean-escort Beacon Hill which is to be decommissioned in the spring.

At the same time as the reinforcements arrive in March, a third destroyer-escort from the east will put into Dockyard for refit.

It is not yet known if this third vessel will remain here or return to Halifax after refit.

While the names of the ships have not been confirmed, it is believed the Algonquin and Crescent will be stationed here. The Columbia, it is thought, will undergo refit here.

The plan is in line with the defence department's scheme to eventually have helicopter-destroyers on both east and west coast.

Four of the converted vessels should be ready by about 1971.

Both Algonquin and Crescent have seen west coast service in the past.

Older class destroyers, they underwent multi-million dollar conversions to destroyer-escorts on the west coast—the Algonquin at Yarrows Ltd. in 1953 and the Crescent at Dockyard in 1955.

Later in the 50s, both were sent to join the east coast fleet at Halifax.

Block Sealed Off In Underground View Street Blast

Reports of a smell of gas made police suspect a ruptured gas main and the possibility of a further blast.

However, after firemen and B.C. Hydro officials were called it was found the blast occured underground in a chamber housing underground lighting cables and transformers.

A transformer "blew," Hydro officials said. Flames and smoke did little damage except to the electrical equipment.

Thieves Steal Useless TV Set

To get into the building they climbed a rear fire escape and lowered a hook through a window over a door to raise the latch.

One of the busiest women in Victoria on Wednesday afternoon was Mrs. H. H. Youson (centre), president of the Women's Canadian Club. Her's was a happy chore, making sure that all of the hundreds of women who attended the Christmas tea had fun . . . and they did! She's seen here greeting the club's honorary vice-president, Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett (at left) and Mrs. George R. Pearkes, honorary president.

True Spirit of Christmas Captured

HUNDREDS AT CANADIAN CLUB TEA

One of the largest parties of the holiday season took place in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel on Wednesday afternoon when more than 400 members of the Women's Canadian Club gathered for the group's annual Christmas tea.

Never had the ballroom looked more brilliant. The huge glittering chandeliers looked down on a scene that shone with color. The walls were bright with great swags of cedar boughs, richly festooned with large scarlet bells. At the corner of the stage one of the largest Christmas trees in town twinkled with a kaleidoscope of lights.

The long tables were covered with green cloths that proved a perfect foil for the borders that ran the length of them. Simple but effective, they were formed of pine boughs, dotted here and there with scarlet-berried holly and gilded pine cones. Stubby red candles added their own touch. The head table was similarly decorated, also having the most unique poinsettias to hit town this season. These were of crepe paper, colored golden to match the 'stamens' of pine cones. The decorations were the work of Mrs. T. C. Hamilton and her committee.

The afternoon began with a program that was outstanding in its excellence. Dressed in the costume of her old country of Czechoslovakia, Erika Kurth sang a selection of carols, many of her former country, some English favorites and another from Germany. Prior to the musical program, Mrs. Kurth did what she termed a "strip tease-upside down," adding the final touches of her 10-petti-coated ensemble in order to give the guests a more informed appreciation of the apron, scarf and other accessories.

WELL-KNOWN ARTIST

Accompanying Mrs. Kurth at the piano was Winifred Scott, whose reputation as a pianist is world-wide. The program convener, Mrs. D. Leslie Macdonell introduced the artists, who were thanked by Mrs. H. H. Youson, president.

Seated with Mrs. Youson at the head table were Mrs. George R. Pearkes, Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, Miss Audrey Alexander Brown, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah, Mrs. R. G. McKee, Mrs. F. M. Corbett, Miss Mary Ashworth, Mrs. A. B. Young, Dr. O. Jardine, Mrs. Dorothy Wrotnowski, Mrs. Pat Dufour, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Mrs. Macdonell, Mrs. R. T. Wallace, who as a social convener arranged the tea party; Mrs. Frank Mack, who was in charge of tickets, and Mrs. W. Davenport.

Unable to attend for various reasons, other guests who were to be honored at the head table were Dr. Margaret Newton, Senator Nancy Hodges, Miss Kathleen Agnew and Mrs. W. G. Wilson.

In order to keep the hundreds of tea cups filled and moving, a veritable army of honor guests presided at the tables that filled the ballroom almost to the point of overflowing.

Helping to 'keep the supply lines open' were Mrs. T. H. Johns, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. A. Stringer, Mrs. Howard Damaske, Miss Jessie Gordon, Mrs. M. Routledge, Mrs. G. Chambers, Mrs. Willard Ireland, Mrs. A. Worthington, Mrs. P. J. Sinnott, Mrs. A. G. Slocomb, Mrs. Hart Henderson, Mrs. T. C. Evans, Mrs. B. L. Brown, Mrs. H. G. Ellis, Mrs. C. Howatson, Mrs. G. A. Johnson, Mrs. M. Simpson, Mrs. P. Muleahy, Mrs. A. Sheard, Mrs. Kenneth Drury, Mrs. H. O. English, Mrs. D. MacLeod and Mrs. W. Pinfold.

Others who presided at the mammoth party were Mrs. W. G. Flett, Mrs. A. T. M. Cowley, Mrs. A. Oswald, Mrs. Carlton Collard, Mrs. Douglas Leechman, Mrs. Daryl Elford, Mrs. R. R. Jeffels, Mrs. R. H. MacDougall, Mrs. J. H. Howard, Mrs. Bruce Hutchison, Mrs. K. O. Wright, Mrs. G. Gray, Mrs. F. Tyler, Mrs. A. Wood, Mrs. R. Lipsey, Mrs. Harold B. Elworthy and Mrs. M. C. Hughes.

The conviviality of the company and the tenderness and meaning of the carols made each and every guest very much aware that Christmas is much more than a time for the buying and exchanging of gifts.

The feeling with which each guest left the party could well be summed up in the little verse which Mrs. Youson gave as a final touch to the afternoon:

"To you a merry Christmastide, a brightly shining star,
No end of greetings from your friends at home or those afar;
And, if you know a lonely soul, please give some joy away."

The wedding will take place on Friday, January 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral. Bishop Michael Coleman will officiate.

Members of Alpha Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, and their husbands will gather for a progressive dinner Saturday evening. First stop will be the Springridge Crescent home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Enman for cocktails. A special guest will be St. Nick himself who will present gifts to the 40 guests attending. Turkey and ham will star the main course menu at the Waring Place home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Grant where a buffet dinner will be served. Rounding out the evening will be dessert, a wide variety of delectable treats at the Howe Street home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Higgins.

Entertain Sisters

Dr. Helena B. Hale entertained at a party, Tuesday evening in her Vancouver Street home for violinist Miss Elizabeth Stocklin and her sister, Miss Johanna Stocklin. The two arrived in Victoria last month from their home in Basle, Switzerland. There were 15 guests attending.

Wed at Service Base

TO LIVE IN DARTMOUTH

Following a honeymoon trip to Montreal, newlyweds OSRP Peter Dennis LaRocque, RCN, and Mrs. LaRocque, will continue on to Dartmouth, N.S., where they will be making their new home.

The bride, the former Donna Eileen Wakelin, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Wakelin, 3023 Craigowan Road, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. LaRocque, who travelled from their home in Ste. Therese, P.Q., for the wedding.

White chrysanthemums decorated the chapel in Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, for the service at which Fr. E. Paradis officiated. Mr. Wakelin gave his daughter in marriage.

A full-length coat en train, fashioned with lily-point sleeves, topped the sheath gown of crystal charm worn by the bride. Exquisite accents of lace trimmed the gown and outlined the high neckline of the empire bodice. A large white flower held her softly misted veil of illusion net. She carried a large white orchid, surrounded by freesia and feathered carnations in her bouquet. Her only attendant, Miss Bonnie Potter, was in a floor-length gown of red lace. Her rose headpiece was en tone and edged with illusion net. A red rose accented the white fur muff she carried.

The new Mrs. LaRocque chose an all-white theme for her travelling ensemble. Her three-piece suit was of white boucle, accented with white accessories. Completing the outfit was an orchid corsage.

Travelling from Vancouver for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. D. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. G. Moncreiff.

This delicious holiday treat is a true time-saver. Make it ahead of time and pop it into the freezer until you are entertaining. Its rich, old-fashioned flavor will make it a hit with any guest.

SPICY TOPPING

Holiday Coffee Ring Will Draw Many Raves

Elegant holiday baked goodies are a tradition the homemaker, her family, and guests eagerly await each year. Not only do the luscious pastries, cakes, and cookies appear at dinners and parties, but they also grace the table for breakfasts and brunches. This tasty holiday coffee ring, baked in a mould, is a creation the homemaker will love to serve. It will be a delight for her guests to eat.

To be prepared for holiday guests, this coffee cake can be made during a leisurely day and then frozen. The no-knead yeast bread travels from freezer to oven and is ready to serve for a festive holiday brunch or when unexpected guests arrive at tea time. The syrup which glazes the warm coffee ring is a flavored topping spiced with fresh oranges, cinnamon sticks, and whole cloves. The spicy aroma of the bubbling syrup will cause guests' faces to light.

The old-fashioned, made-from-scratch flavor of a coffee ring associated with grandmother's baking is due to the fine quality shortening that flavor-bakes into a tender, light yeast bread. The plump raisins and pecans complete this rich creation.

HOLIDAY COFFEE RING

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup milk, ⅓ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 package active dry yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup raisins, 1 cup chopped pecans.

SYRUP:

One cup sugar, ½ cup water, 1 orange, cut into squares, 2 sticks cinnamon, 12 whole cloves.

Heat shortening, milk, sugar and salt in saucepan until shortening has melted. Pour into mixing bowl and cool to lukewarm. Add one cup flour and beat until smooth. Sprinkle yeast into lukewarm water. Stir until yeast is dissolved. Blend in softened yeast, eggs, and vanilla. Mix well. Add remaining flour. Beat until smooth. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in size. Stir dough down. Add raisins and pecans. Spoon batter into two quart ring mould which has been rubbed with shortening. Cover and let rise until almost double in size. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Remove from oven and cool 5 minutes. Unmould. Pour syrup over coffee ring while still warm.

To make syrup, mix sugar and water in heavy saucepan. Add orange sections, cinnamon, and cloves. Cook mixture until candy thermometer registers 230 degrees F.

To warm coffee ring which has been frozen, remove from freezer and thaw one hour. Place in a slow oven (300 to 325 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Unmould and serve with warm syrup.

Yield: One coffee ring.

Record Output For B.C. Mines

Value of mineral production in B.C. is expected to hit a record $331.7 million this year.

Mines and Petroleum Resources Minister Donald Brothers Wednesday said preliminary estimates indicated 1966 would see an 18 per cent increase, or $51 million, over the 1965 production value.

The indicated record would be the eighth in a row for the mining and oil industry but it still would be less than one-third the value of last year's $980 million production by the forests industry.

Molybdenum and copper showed the greatest increase, both in volume and value.

DOUBLED

The production of molybdenum more than doubled to make it fourth metal in total value. Production of "moly" in 1965 was worth $12,405,344, but in 1966 soared to an estimated $27,700,000.

Increases of more than 30 per cent in production and 40 per cent in price almost doubled the total value of B.C. copper in the last year, the statement said. The 1966 copper production is estimated at $61,600,000, compared with $32,696,081 in 1965.

The estimated 1966 value of B.C.-produced metals (1965 value in brackets): Gold $4,500,000 ($4,444,142); silver $7,200,000 ($6,929,793); lead $33,000,000 ($43,149,171); zinc $47,200,000 ($48,666,933); iron $19,600,000 ($21,266,154); cadmium $2,400,000 ($1,297,000); nickel $2,600,000 ($2,790,480); and other metals including antimony, bismuth, indium and tin, $3,750,000 ($3,224,098).

The total value of 1966 production of industrial minerals was $22,900,000, compared with a value of $20,407,230 in 1965.

The total value of B.C. structural materials produced in 1966 was an estimated $37,900,000 compared with a 1965 figure of $32,325,714. The 1966 estimated production of fuels, including B.C. coal, natural gas, natural gas by-products and oil is $37,500,000 compared with $29,340,642 in 1965.

"Prospects for the future include increased production of copper and molybdenum and normal growth for many metals and minerals," the statement added.

RECORD YEAR FOR FIRESTONE

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. reported Wednesday the 12-month period ended Oct. 31 was the most successful year in sales and earnings in the company's history.

Earnings totalled $101,765,793, with sales of $1,814,592,393. These figures compared with $86,667,178 and $1,609,756,478 for the previous year.

Trans-Canada Labels Proposals 'Frivolous'

WASHINGTON (CP) — Recommendations to dismiss its $200,000,000 U.S. project are "frivolous on their face and should be denied summarily," Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. told the Federal Power Commission Wednesday.

Trans-Canada said undertakings given recently to the Canadian government on the project, designed to feed more Alberta natural gas via the U.S. to Eastern Canada and U.S. export markets, leave its application entirely unchanged.

It said the application should be resorted to the presiding examiner for a prompt decision.

Its submission was aimed at four others presented Monday — from staff counsel of the commission, coal interests, the Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha and the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co.

Hearings on the Trans-Canada application began last April but were suspended by the presiding examiner when the Canadian government announced Aug. 25 it would not approve the export of the necessary gas to Trans-Canada as its project stood.

Subsequently, after certain Trans-Canada undertakings limiting the amount to be carried to Ontario and Quebec via the U.S., Canadian approval was given.

That left the commission with the task of deciding whether to let the presiding examiner carry on with preparing his non-binding recommendation to it or whether to order the application dismissed.

The brief from coal interests and that of staff counsel George Lewnes, a strong critic of the Trans-Canada plan, asked the commission to reject the application. That act would leave Trans-Canada — already well behind in its original plan to deliver more gas to expanding Ontario markets by last Nov. 1 — no recourse but to make a new application, its fourth since November, 1964.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

Anybody who has been exposed to athletes automatically qualifies to write a book on the fine art of eating.

From personal experience at football training camps the title might read: "Migawd! What Did You Do With the FIRST Plate?"

After being asked to luncheon with several jockeys, a best seller would be: "A Bottle of No-Calorie Pop, Alors!"

It is a matter of record that waitresses at a football team's table often visit opthalmologists to have eyeballs returned to their sockets.

Football players do not converse at the trough. They are too busy stcking. Small Everests of meat, potatoes, vegetables, salad, ice cream disappear only to be replaced by even larger suecessors.

One football player seldom asks another football player to dinner without first having won a Schenley award to pay for the meat.

Jockeys have no desire to get as big as the horses they ride. Ask any rider about a good place to dine and he'll say, "the nearest pop machine."

Bobby Jennings, who works West Coast tracks, is six feet and 112 pounds. He would make a great hat rack as long as you didn't put more than one hat on him. Two would make the whole thing collapse.

Problem Not Moving Food—Just Moving

Personally I fall somewhere between the heavyweights and lightweights when it comes to eating.

I haven't had breakfast since Noah built the boat.

I don't have anything against breakfast. But in the dawn's early light I am lucky to find my pants let alone the porridge.

Lunch? I get by on a double order of prawns, french fries on the side, salad and half a coconut cream pie. It's not much, maybe, but a fellow has to live.

Dinner is my hour. I'm not fussy, as long as it's food. First you start with half a cow. . . .

The problem here is not moving the food but moving. After a particularly splendid session with the cutlery I often feel I could not move out of the chair if the place was burning beautifully.

Three years ago, John LaBreque says, it was the same with him.

"The eyelids would droop. I was — how you say? — lethargic. Always heavy."

So what did he do?

LaBreque smiled. "I tried thropology," he said.

"At first I lose weight. Then I put it on. But" — eyes flashing — "only in the right places. I used to have the skinny legs. Now my calves, they are respectable. Nevair am I droopy."

I have never tried thropology. We haven't even been introduced. I didn't know whether you took it with ice cream or artichokes with lobster soup a la sherry on the side.

You Need Faith in a Cast-Iron Stomach

Mons. LaBreque straightened all that. He is a Montrealer, brown hair, 32. He earns his bread (or if you like, thropology) as a comedian with Ice Capades.

"Thropology," he said, "is a kind of tailor-made science of eating based on your individual chemistry. It deals not only with what you eat but the way you eat."

"I see," I said, not seeing at all. "But when you talk about style, I'm rather old-fashioned. You know, the knife, the fork, the dessert —"

"No, no," said Mons. LaBreque. "By 'way' you eat I mean the chewing. Did you know you should chew a banana more than you chew a steak? Myself I am not too good at the chewing. In my first year I only chew 4 per cent. Last year 12 per cent. Now I'm up to 20 per cent. It is bettair."

And what is it that we should chew?

"It depends," said Mons. LaBreque, "on the individual. In my case for breakfast I had eight pieces of toast, half a package of dates, five bananas and grapes."

Hi! Yi! Yi! I thought. This boy hasn't got thropology. He's got a cast-iron stomach.

"During the show I munch on cabbage or apples and oranges. Either fruit. But nevair both.

"After the show I will have maybee a vegetable plate . . . boiled potatoes and carrots.

"Nevair milk or milk products. Why? Cows' milk was meant for calves. There is so much inter-breeding of the cows eet is not good. And nevair white bread. Only the whole wheat."

Austin Motair in a Cast-Iron Body

Consorting with thropology, Mons. LaBreque claims, has led his mother to lead an active, restful life at 70 — "she bowls regularly and all that" — and has worked wonders for his sister, even to improving her marriage.

"You remembair Beliveau too-three years ago was always tired? They say he had a weak heart. They say it was like driving a Cadillac with an Austin motair. Well, Jean, he discover thropology through Adrien Allard, a diet expert.

"Jean, he try thropology and his strength come back. I try it and I swear by eet. Now and then, of course, I cheet a leetle. Human nature, eh? But as long as I do not keep on cheatin' I am alright."

Alright? By gar, he is pretty good. In all Ice Capades, only one comedian pulls in more—er—lettuce in the pay envelope. Freddie Trinkler, reportedly hauls in 1,000 long green ones a week.

Witht thropology, John LaBreque at 32, reasons that he has a long career ahead in the comedian business. Much longer than boxing which he tried (30 fights, no losses) or hockey where, with some exceptions, 32 is considered on the south slope of life.

Perhaps John LaBreque has something.

For the kind of lettuce he's taking home, maybe we should all get our skates sharpened — and try a parsley sandwich. Make mine on whole wheat, please.

Starr, Roland Named Cream of NFL Crop

NEW YORK (AP)—Bart Starr, Green Bay Packers quarterback, was Wednesday named the most valuable player in the National Football League by vote of a panel of Associated Press football writers.

Starr won by a large margin with 19 votes to six for Larry Wilson of St. Louis Cardinals. Don Meredith of Dallas Cowboys. Leroy Kelly, Cleveland Brown's successor to Jim Brown picked up three votes.

Starr, in his eleventh pro season, completed a fancy 62.6 per cent of his passes and had only three interceptions.

At the same time Johnny Roland, a 1965 all-America back from Missouri who received a big bonus to sign with St. Louis Cardinals, was named Rookie of the Year.

Roland won in a close vote over Tommy Nobis of Atlanta Falcons, the two - time all-America from Texas.

In the Cards' first 13 games, Roland accounted for a total of 1,566 yards with his running, throwing or catching. He has scored six touchdowns and has thrown one touchdown pass. He leads the league in punt returns.

'Strictly Hanky Panky' Abel Says of Chihawks

NEW YORK (CP) — Howie Young is still a minor leaguer and Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League are crying foul.

Young, playing with Los Angeles Blades of the Western Hockey League, and the Wings are separated by thousands of miles and the Chicago Black Hawks.

The former bad boy of hockey was to have played with the Wings in New York Wednesday night, but the Hawks blocked a complicated trade by claiming prior right for Young's services.

"Why did they wait so long before killing the deal?" asked Detroit coach Sid Abel. "This is strictly hanky panky on the part of the Black Hawks."

"They have a special deal with Los Angeles, but it's obvious they are just out to keep us down."

The Wings, floundering in the NHL cellar, could have used Young Wednesday night. They were beaten 4-1 by New York Rangers.

STARTED WITH DEAL

The Howie Young caper all started when Detroit made a deal with the Blades to send two players to Los Angeles in exchange for Young, who played for Detroit from 1960 through 1963, compiling a record 273 penalty minutes in the 62-63 campaign.

But that trade collapsed when an unidentified NHL club put in a claim for Hall or Lebrun. Both were removed from the waiver list and returned to Pittsburgh.

The Wings then started wheeling and dealing again, this time offering Bob McCord from Pittsburgh and Alex Faulkner from Memphis Wings of the Central League.

The Blades said yes, but the Hawks, who obtained Young from the Wings in June, 1963, said no.

Chicago reminded NHL president Clarence Campbell of an agreement they had signed with the Blades two years ago, after selling Young to Los Angeles in mid-season of 1963-64.

PRESIDENT EXPLAINS

"Chicago has the right of first refusal on any player owned by Los Angeles under agreement the two clubs signed in 1964. This agreement runs through to July 1, 1967."

He said the Blades had no authority to make the trade with Detroit and added his office was not instrumental in barring Young's return.

"We have always kept a string on Young since we sent him to Los Angeles three years ago," said Chicago general manager Tommy Ivan.

"We received some cash in the deal, but the important consideration was getting NHL rights to two players from Los Angeles. These players have not made it in the NHL, so we still have some say where Young plays in the NHL."

Ivan admitted he approved of the transaction of Young for Lebrun and Hall. He objected to McCord and Faulkner and would not say why.

"I don't have to explain why except to the Los Angeles club," he said.

Abel said as far as the Wings are concerned the deal is off. They have recalled defenceman Pete Goegan from Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League.

The Wings do not intend to do any dealing with the Hawks, he said, or attempt another deal with the Blades.

"Our deal was with the Blades and we shook hands on the second deal. When I talked with Ivan on Monday he didn't mention any agreement he had with Los Angeles for first refusal of their players."

On the West Coast, Young, who straightened out his personal life by joining Alcoholics Anonymous, was upset over his loss of a chance to return to the NHL and end his minor league exile.

It depends on the discretion of the directors, but the new Victoria Racquets Club layout could be a million-dollar development some time in the New Year.

The executive board has been authorized "to expend an additional $250,000 as it becomes available" on the new club, scheduled to be completed in May. The budget on the building program now in progress is $800,000.

The club's annual general meeting this week was told that a steady increase of membership indicates the $250,000 development, if and when it becomes a reality, will be an extension of the current building program.

GOING SMOOTHLY

Dr. Kemble Greenwood was re-elected president of the club.

Members also had to vote on five vacancies on the directorate. Andy Pitkethley, George Evans and Bert Matthews were re-elected while newcomers named were George McMinn and R. C. (Doc) Miller.

E. L. (Tut) Jones, Ted Smythe, Jack Glover and Peter Meredith are directors who have yet another year to serve.

Almost everytime he pulls back his hockey stick and shoots at an opposing goalie, plenty happens

Gilbert scored twice Wednesday night and took the National Hockey League goal - scoring lead with 15 for the season as the first place New York Rangers ripped sagging Detroit 4-1.

The goals gave Gilbert seven in the last four games—the hottest pace in the NHL. And he's been doing it on one good leg.

"The ankle is still sore," Gilbert admits. "It feels stronger but I have no lateral movement." That means that everytime Gilbert turns on the ice, it's a major navigational problem.

BURSITIS DEVELOPS

He has developed a slight case of bursitis in the joint as a result of a rap across the ankle by Detroit goalie Roger Crozier last month. He went eight games without a goal after the injury but has snapped the slump spectacularly in the last week.

"Am I leading the league," Gilbert asked when someone mentioned his goal total. "That's great but what's even better is that we're first. That's more important."

The Rangers, in the midst of a four - game winning streak, were serenaded by their happy fans with a "We're number one" chant again and the players loved it.

"It was great to hear," said goalie Ed Giacomin. "Having the fans with you is a big boost."

NO FIRE ANYWHERE

Asked if any trades were expected now that the Howie Young deal had been erased, Detroit manager-coach Sid Abel shook his head.

"No," he said, "there's nothing on the fire . . . not even the club."

Toronto Maple Leafs squeezed out a 2-1 win over Boston Bruins in another game Wednesday night, while Chicago Black Hawks edged Montreal Canadiens by the same score.

SHACK SCORES

Eddie Shack and Frank Mahovlich scored for the Maple Leafs and Ron Stewart for Boston. Ken Wharram and Dennis Hull scored for the Black Hawks and Bobby Rousseau for the Canadiens.

Mahovlich scored the winner for Toronto with four minutes and 50 seconds remaining. Shack gave the Leafs a 1-0 lead at 9:26 of the second period with his 100th NHL regular season goal. Stewart tied the game for Boston just over a minute later.

Chicago's victory over Montreal was the Black Hawks' third in four meetings this season over the defending league and Stanley Cup champions.

Stan Mikita, leading the league in points, picked up an assist on Wharram's goal and increased his total for the season to 39. He has 27 assists. Goyette has three goals and 22 assists for 25 points, one more than Gilbert.

Canucks Giving Fearful Coach Large Cushion

VANCOUVER — Vancouver coach Bert Olmstead wants to make Western Hockey League hay while the sun still shines on the Canucks, and it turns out that his workers are more than willing.

Canucks tacked two more points onto their second-place standing Wednesday night by clipping Oakland Seals 2-1 in overtime.

Rookie winger Bob Cook piled on the new hay by banging home a loose puck at 7:16 of the sudden-death overtime. Ray Brunel scored Vancouver's first goal while Ron Harris was the Oakland marksman.

HE'S WORRIED

Despite Canucks' comfortable position, Olmstead expressed fear the other day that Vancouver is "destined" to fall into a slump one of these days.

It happens to everyone, he suggested, and it is Olmstead's wish to pile up as many points as possible when things are going right . . . as a cushion.

Certainly, the Canucks showed no signs of a slump Wednesday. They out-shot, out-skated and out-bumped Oakland. Only the spectacular work of goaltender Jack McCartan kept the Seals in the game. McCartan made 33 shots, including three breakaway saves, while rival Don Simmons turned aside only 16.

It was the only game played in the league Wednesday. Tonight, Victoria Maple Leafs — only four points out of third place after finally breaking out of an eight-game losing streak — play at Los Angeles.

CARDS GET ROMANO

Flurry of Trades Precedes Deadline

The inter - league baseball trade deadline in the major leagues is at midnight tonight and the deals that sent Roger Maris to St. Louis Cardinals from New York Yankees and Maury Wills to Pittsburgh Pirates from Los Angeles Dodgers look to be the biggest that will be made unless there is a last day flurry of activity.

Wednesday, California Angels traded veteran first baseman Norm Siebern to San Francisco Giants for outfielder Len Gabrielson. And St. Louis sent Walter Williams, who led the Pacific Coast League in batting last season, to Chicago White Sox along with relief pitcher Don Dennis.

The Angels got youth for age in giving up the 33-year-old Siebern for Gabrielson, 26. But Siebern hit .247 last season and drove in 41 runs while Gabrielson hit just .216 and had 16 RBI.

Romano, the key player in the St. Louis deal, hit .231 for the White Sox in 1966 and had 15 homers. Williams, 23, hit .330 for Tulsa while Dennis was 4-2 in relief for the Cardinals.

The two deals brought to 14 the total made in the last three weeks.

Lineman, Coach On Lions' List?

DETROIT (AP) — William Clay Ford, owner of Detroit Lions, said Wednesday night the National Football League team will be looking for offensive linemen in the draft, but refused to give any hints as to whether Harry Gilmer will be kept as head coach.

Gilmer has been under fire from coaches and players during a 4-9-1 season and Ford said at a club meeting he will weigh carefully all the factors before deciding whether to keep him for the final year of Gilmer's three-year contract.

Don't Eggs-pect Bucks Back!

VERNON (CP) — Kelowna Buckaroos left Vernon Wednesday night with egg on their faces and threatened never to come back again after losing 4-3 in an Okanagan Junior Hockey League game.

Hundreds of teen-agers pelted the Kelowna players' box with eggs throughout the deadlocked second and third periods and one Kelowna player — Dave Cousins — left the game after he was hit in the eye.

He complained he could not see after being hit during the third period. He sat out the rest of the game after scoring two of Kelowna's earlier goals. However, he recovered toward the end of the game.

The egg throwing cost Kelowna another valuable player as Terry Strong, who had scored once, was thrown out of the game for arguing with the referee over the egg-throwing incident.

Four RCMP officers attempted in vain to halt the bombardment and a Kelowna official said after the game that his team would never play in Vernon again unless it got some assurance a similar incident would not occur.

FAVOR VICTORIA'S METRO HEALTH

'We Want No Part of Duncan'—Islanders

Whatever the future of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health may be, the Gulf Islands want to be part of it.

In a letter to the department of health the Saltspring Island Chamber of Commerce says residents have been alarmed by recent press reports of problems facing the board in 1967.

It asked that the department make arrangements for Gulf Island services to be continued either by the Greater Victoria board or its successor.

And it stressed several times "we want no part of Duncan."

No reasons were given for shying away from the Duncan health service unit but the Chamber made it clear that residents wanted service from Victoria.

At present the board is operating on a pro tem basis while awaiting word from the provincial government on a new cost-sharing formula.

Health services at present cost Victoria, Esquimalt and Oak Bay around $3 per capita as compared with 30 cents per capita paid by government subsidized other municipalities.

All three heavy paying municipalities have served notice of intent to quit the metro set-up unless a more equitable cost-sharing formula can be found.

Deadline for quitting is the end of this month but it is expected that all three municipalities will remain in the organization until definite word on cost is received from the government.

Waters Rising Again After Overnight Rain

The B.C. Forest Service nursery recorded .85 inches from 4:30 p.m. Wednesday to 8 a.m. today.

Abel Joe of Cowichan Indian band flood control committee said this morning: "The Koksilah and Cowichan rivers are rising rapidly on the reserve.

"If the rain keeps up there will be flooding problems later today."

He said high tides are forecast again.

Victoria weather office offered some hope with a forecast for clearer weather Friday with little or no rain. However, the respite may be only temporary.

●

One family evacuated Tuesday has remained in the temporary accommodation found them in the band's recreation centre.

This morning Abel Joe and members of his committee were busy building partitions in the former Duncan Armory in case it is required for evacuated families.

Municipal crews had their two 600-gallon-a-minute pumps working through the night along Beverly Street at the north end of Duncan.

Don McCool of the municipal works department said: "I think the worst of the flood threat in the area is over for the time being unless there is exceptional rainfall.

"The high weekend temperatures combined with the heavy rain brought the snow off the lower hills and this is what posed the threat Monday and Tuesday.

Worst of the area's flooding was Tuesday when a dozen Indian homes on the Koksilah flats between the converging Cowichan and Koksilah were stranded as both rivers burst their banks.

Board 'Rushed' Buttle Decision

VANCOUVER (CP) — The battle of Buttle Lake reopened Wednesday in B.C. Court of Appeals.

Lawyer Tom Berger, counsel for the Greater Campbell River Water Board, told the court the B.C. Water Pollution Board "rushed" to give Western Mines a permit Sept. 15 to dump waste and sewage into the lake because the mining company wanted to go into production.

IGNORED

He said Campbell River Water Board's request for a hearing on the proposed waste disposal was ignored. The lake is part of the Campbell River watershed.

The water board is appealing a ruling by Mr. Justice Victor Dryer in B.C. Supreme Court Oct. 17 that the pollution board had the legal right to permit the dumping, and that the court had no jurisdiction to quash the decision.

Mr. Berger contended the pollution board contravened its own enabling act when it arbitrarily granted the permits to Western Mines without an opportunity for objectors to state their case at a hearing.

RULING 'WRONG'

He contended that the courts had the right to quash decisions of the pollution board, and that therefore Mr. Justice Dryer was "absolutely wrong" in his ruling.

Brian McLoughlin, counsel for Western Mines, contended that when an administrative body like the pollution board had made a decision and had complied with statutory regulations, the decision could not be quashed by any court.

ATTACKS 'MAINLY UNFAIR'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Western Mines was subjected to a virtual torrent of abuse during the last year because of its location within Strathcona Park, president Harold M. Wright said Wednesday in the company's annual report.

The base metal mine at the south end of Buttle Lake in Strathcona Park is now in the tune-up period leading to full production, he said.

"This opposition has been biased and emotional and mainly unfair to a news producer in the mining industry proceeding to production," said Mr. Wright.

"These factors had a serious effect on our personnel and delayed our progress to a considerable extent."

Later, referring to the B.C. Pollution Control Board's granting of permits for waste disposal for the mine and community, he said: "This action resulted in a virtual torrent of abuse by some citizens' groups and some news media . . . "

LAKE SUPPLY

The Campbell River Water District, which draws its supplies from Buttle Lake, has led a campaign to prevent dumping of mine tailings into the lake.

The water district maintains that dumping of wastes could lead to a serious water pollution problem.

Conservationists opposed to the dumping maintain that government had no right to allow a private company to mine in a public park.

STOWAWAY PUT ASHORE

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man who stowed away aboard a Soviet freighter here last month was put ashore at Vladivostok, the freighter's captain said Wednesday when the ship returned to Vancouver.

But it could not be learned from the captain, who knows little English, how the stowaway was received by Soviet authorities.

The stowaway said his name was Andre Dubois and that his birthplace was Lyons, France. He was discovered when the grain ship Ola was 200 miles out in the Pacific and said he wanted to go to Russia to give a message to the people.

The Ola returned to Victoria, but started out again with the stowaway when Canadian immigration authorities said there was nothing they could do.

Plastic Ship Developed In Britain

SOUTHAMPTON, England (Reuters) — Britain claimed Wednesday a technological breakthrough in the construction of plastic ships which may revolutionize shipbuilding.

Builders of an experimental 600-ton plastic ship said the successful completion of the 160-foot ship is in sight.

Plastics have been used for building boats up to 80 feet. It has not been economically possible to build larger vessels because of the amount of stiffening needed for the skin of the hull.

"This barrier has now been broken and plastic ships up to a length of 200 feet are immediately practicable," a spokesman for the project said Wednesday.

The experimental vessel is being built by Aeroplane, plastics and shipbuilders, backed by the British defence ministry.

Its construction follows research to determine whether glass-reinforced plastics could be used for ship construction on similar lines to aircraft construction.

SECTION SHOWN

A 34-foot test section of the vessel was shown to shipping and plastics experts Wednesday. It consisted of a hull made in one piece with prefabricated decks, bulkheads and superstructure consisting of only 34 parts. Not one screw, nail, bolt or other form of metal fastening was used.

The ship is to be launched Jan. 2—less than four months after construction began.

Ceylon Fears Boycott

COLOMBO (Reuters)—Conrad Dias, secretary of the Colombo Tea Traders' Association, warned Wednesday if Ceylon joins any United Nations economic sanctions against South Africa it will be disastrous for its tea trade. Dias said the South African market is one of the best and biggest for Ceylon— worth about 90,000,000 rupees ($18,900,000).

Price Fix Admitted

MONTREAL (CP) — Counsel for 18 companies and four individuals in the linen supply business indicated in Exchequer Court Monday that they will fight a price-fixing conspiracy charge on grounds that service industries are not subject to the Combines Investigation Act.

At the opening of the trial, before Judge Hugh Gibson, the accused filed six admissions, including one that acknowledged price-fixing from Jan. 1, 1950 to Sept. 30, 1960, as charged.

However, the formal admission was made "without admitting that such acts constitute an offence under the act."

The companies and the individuals accused are said to account for close to 90 per cent of the business done in the Montreal area in the rental and servicing of towels, washable uniforms, and "related textile products" on a weekly basis.

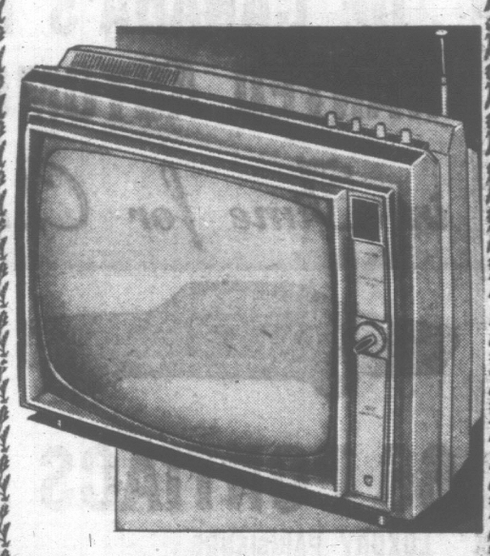

Dean Cohen submitted that a hygienic service industry cannot be brought under the section of the act on which the charge is based because past interpretations of the statute support the view that it was "never intended that this kind of industry or business should come under it."

The trial continues.

Bill Hikes Wages

Union Agrees To Obey Law

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation on its way to the Commons to prevent a strike of air traffic controllers will also provide for a salary increase.

The legislation is scheduled to be introduced Friday, but the government will ask the House today to change its rules to allow immediate introduction of such emergency bills.

The union has set a strike deadline for 8 a.m. local times Tuesday, Dec. 20.

Revenue Minister Benson gave notice of the strike-preventing bill with the following resolution:

"That it is expedient to introduce a measure to provide for the continuation of air traffic control services; to provide also for an increase in the remuneration of air traffic controllers."

TALKS RESUME TODAY

Negotiations between the government and representatives of the key airport workers resumed at 3 p.m. today, half an hour after the Commons began its daily sitting.

James Conway of Winnipeg, vice-president of the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers' Association, said there will be no attempt by controllers to defy strike-banning legislation.

"We will call off our strike deadline when — and if — Parliament passes this legislation," he said in an interview.

But the association would await the legislation rather than back down from its wage stand.

A strike of the nearly 800 control tower and radar operators who are members of the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers Association would halt all air traffic except for small aircraft able to take off and land without assistance.

Negotiating teams from the CATCA and the treasury board spent 2½ hours in talks Wednesday night before adjourning until today. Mr. Benson stood by in his office, ready to take part in the talks if called.

Last week, Gilles Gregoire (Ind. — Lapointe) denied the government unanimous consent to bring in emergency legislation dealing with the West Coast longshoremen's strike.

A motion to change the rules is also expected to be introduced today. It would make it necessary for at least 10 members to oppose the introduction of emergency legislation to prevent the 48-hour notice being waived.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux agreed to an Opposition demand for an emergency debate of the air traffic controllers situation Wednesday.

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker accused the government of holding a club over the controllers' heads by threatening to bring in legislation outlawing a strike while negotiations were still going on.

NDP Leader Douglas said the government had no choice but

Czechs Halt Cyprus Arms Trade

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UPI)—Czechoslovakia has stopped shipment of arms to Cyprus following reports Turkey was ready to stop them by force if necessary.

The Czech government informed Turkey in a note handed to the foreign office by its ambassador today that shipments had been stopped.

Brewer Cleared To Join Nationals

VANCOUVER (CP) — Defenceman Carl Brewer was cleared today to join Canada's national hockey team.

President Fred Page of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said he received a telegram clearing Brewer through the National Hockey League's central registry office.

Coppolino Freed on Murder Charge

The verdict meant that the jury of two women and 10 men refused to believe the state's key witness, Farber's blue-eyed widow, Marjorie, 52, who said she stood transfixed in the bedroom doorway and watched her hypnotist-lover, Coppolino, press a pillow with the heel of his hands into the victim's face and neck until he was dead.

Arson Suspected in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Arson is suspected in a fire which caused $16,000 damage to three stores and a house Wednesday night, fire prevention officials said today.

The fire destroyed the store where the blaze is expected to have started and a house attached to the rear of the store. A second store was damaged.

Evidence Found To Return Banks

OTTAWA (UPI)—Solicitor-General Lawrence Pennell indicated today Canada may have the evidence it needs to extradite fugitive union boss Hal Banks from the United States.

Pennell, answer a question posed by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in the Commons said the RCMP had collected evidence to support a charge of perjury against the former czar of the Seafarers' International Union in Canada.

BOMB RAIDS

Red Protest 'Mild Rebuke'

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Kremlin today protested at American bombing raids on Hanoi and demanded that the United States call a halt to its "aggression" in Vietnam.

In a government statement read over Moscow radio, the Soviet Union said the latest raids seriously aggravated international tension.

It warned the U.S. government not to forget the Warsaw pact nations' July declaration, in which they pledged to send volunteers to Vietnam if Hanoi asked for them.

It said U.S. air raids on residential districts of Hanoi Tuesday and Wednesday had killed and injured people in the North Vietnamese capital.

The Soviet statement, first of its kind on Vietnam for many months, struck observers here by the relative mildness of its tone, which was less threatening than past Kremlin statements on this subject.

WILL GIVE AID

The statement said Russia "has provided and will continue to provide all-around assistance to the Vietnamese people in its heroic struggle against the criminal aggression of American imperialism."

The U.S. government, "which is working for a further extension of the war in Vietnam, should not forget the warning made by the socialist states at the meeting in Bucharest early in July," it cautioned.

U.S. Admits Residential Area Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department acknowledged today the "possibility" that residential areas may have been hit during the Tuesday and Wednesday bombing by U.S. aircraft of military targets five miles from the centre of Hanoi.

Officials said, however, that any civilian casualties were either the result of an accident or unavoidable "incidents" in connection with the primary objective of hitting key transportation facilities.

The targets for the two days were the Vendien railway marshalling yards and depot five miles south of the centre.

Creditors Demand Action

TORONTO (CP)—John Biddell, of Clarkson Co., Ltd., said today the total losses of the bankrupt Prudential Finance Corp., Ltd., will amount to between $19,000,000 and $20,000,000.

He told an obviously angry and frequently shouting meeting of creditors that so far investigations have determined losses of about $17,000,000, and Clarkson as trustee for the bankrupt company is still working on others.

His statement brought gasps of dismay from the 500 creditors who gathered in the Royal Alexandra Theatre in downtown Toronto for the meeting.

The meeting was interrupted by shouts from the floor by creditors asking why the federal or provincial governments had not acted to protect them, demanding criminal and civil actions and criticizing the way the matter has been handled since Prudential Finance's difficulties became apparent early in November.

LAWYER MENTIONED

Frequently mentioned by the creditors was London, Ont. lawyer C. C. Carrothers, a director of Prudential Finance.

Several creditors asked why Mr. Carrothers, who has said he lost $60,000 in the collapse, did not know the company's financial situation.

Others also called out angrily when they learned that Joseph Benoit Brien, Prudential Finance president, was not at the meeting.

Mr. Biddell said Brien, facing six charges including theft and forgery in connection with the investigation of the collapse, is ill according to his lawyers.

At first it had been estimated Prudential Finance's losses would run about $3,500,000. Later this was revised to being "substantially higher" and today's announcement by Mr. Biddell followed a warning that unsecured creditors might get no more than 15 cents on the dollar.

WALT DISNEY . . . entertainment empire

World Awards Won by Tycoon

(Times News Services)

HOLLYWOOD — Walt Disney, the master showman, who created the rollicking cartoon characters of Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck and went on to fashion a fabulous entertainment empire, died today at the age of 65.

Disney succumbed at 9:35 a.m. in St. Joseph Hospital — across the street from his movie studio in Burbank—where his left lung was removed last Nov. 21 after doctors found a tumor which had caused an abcess. At the time, doctors and Disney spokesmen declined to say whether the tumor was malignant. The hospital gave circulatory collapse as the cause of death today.

The founder of Disneyland and producer of more than 600 films ranging from the animated cartoon Snow White to the lavish color musical Mary Poppins is survived by his widow, Lillian, and two married daughters.

Disney was entertainment's most successful practitioner. He made a meagre start as an artist with an idea for a comedy cartoon featuring Mickey Mouse—and saw the lively rodent become a world-wide institution.

He pioneered feature - length color cartoons, popularized nature films, expanded into adventure, comedy and musical films. He became a mainstay of television. The fabulous success of his huge amusement park, Disneyland, set the pattern for others elsewhere.

Success and honors piled up in profusion for the creator-tycoon.

ALL AGES KNEW HIM

The titles of his cartoons and their characters evoked fond memories for more than a generation of Disney fans — The Three Little Pigs, Donald Duck, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Fantasia, Peter Pan, The Lady and the Tramp.

Aspects of the Disney empire included:

—Some 80 feature films since Walt and his brother Roy opened their cartoon studio in 1923. Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, who bore names such as Happy, Grumpy, Sneezy and Dopey, was the first animated feature film. An immediate success, it has been reissued repeatedly. The rollicking Mary Poppins brought Julie Andrews to the screen as a gravity-defying governess and tunefully gave the language a new word — supercalifragilisticexpialidocious.

—By 1966, more than 1,900 hours of television entertainment, including the weekly Wonderful World of Color, with grandfatherly Walt as host.

—Disneyland, the 160 - acre, $35,000,000 amusement park at suburban Anaheim that became a must-see item for every tourist visiting Southern California.

DEMANDING MAN

Disney was a man of medium size, with greying brown hair. Impatient with himself or coworkers who failed to deliver.

Walter Elias Disney was born Dec. 5, 1901, in Chicago, of Irish-German descent.

The family moved to Kansas City, and Walt carried papers, earned haircuts by drawing sketches for a barber who displayed them in the window, drew illustrations for the high school paper and took his first motion pictures. Nights, he studied cartooning.

Returning at 18, he became an apprentice artist for a Kansas City advertising company. Later he opened his own commercial art studio but soon took a $35-a-week job as cartoonist for a Kansas City firm that

NEW VANCOUVER MAYOR

Major Upset By Campbell

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tom Campbell, a flambuoyant millionaire lawyer and real estate developer, became the youngest mayor in the history of Vancouver, Wednesday night, defeating incumbent William Rathie by fewer than 2,000 votes.

Mr. Campbell polled 41,073 votes to Mr. Rathie's 39,843 in one of the closest election races in the city's history.

Jean Rands, the only other mayoralty candidate, who described herself as a Marxist-Socialist, polled 6,534 votes. Miss Rands, 21, is editor of a Socialist magazine published in Toronto.

The 39-year-old mayor-elect, an alderman for five years, said during the campaign: "I have the ability — I made my first million before I was 28."

RAN AS INDEPENDENT

He said he had no political affiliations and ran as an independent.

Mr. Rathie, backed by the powerful Non-Partisan Association which has controlled Vancouver civic politics since the Second World War, was the major casualty in the NPA's slate of city council hopefuls.

The NPA, described by its opponents as a coalition of Liberal and Conservative politicians, seated eight aldermen in the 10 council seats up for grabs. Two independents, one a far left labor candidate, also won council seats.

The mayoralty contest was a close count all the way — from the time polls closed at 8 p.m. until final returns were in early today.

As in most Vancouver elections, the west side of the city favored one candidate and the east side favored the opposition.

"Normally speaking, if you can get the vote in the west end of the city you can win without the east end," said Mr. Rathie. "But I was beaten all over — I didn't get the support in western

Kennedys 'Stunned' By Johnson Actions

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Bennett Cerf, publisher and television personality, was quoted as saying he read an unedited manuscript of a controversial book on the death of President John F. Kennedy and that it described some "unbelievable things that happened after the assassination."

The Yale Daily News, the student newspaper, says Cerf told a banquet audience at Yale's Pierson College Wednesday night that the unedited manuscript of William Manchester's Death of a President described an incident involving the presidential plane at Love Airfield in Texas after the assassination.

The student newspaper quotes Cerf, chairman of the board of Random House, as saying the manuscript depicted the Kennedy people as stunned, remaining at the hospital, while Lyndon Johnson and a small entourage went to Love Airfield, where both the presidential and vice-presidential planes were parked.

IDENTICAL PLANES

The student newspaper's account of Cerf's remarks continues:

"The airplanes were identical in construction and furnishing, he (Cerf) said, except that the presidential plane carried a 'football,' a bag containing all the crucial information about what was to be done in case of nuclear attack.

"According to Mr. Cerf's narration of Manchester's book, the Johnson party reached the airfield first, and, knowing that President Kennedy was dead, boarded the presidential jet. When the Kennedys returned to the airport with the coffin and discovered that the presidential plane was already occupied, they were shocked and infuriated, said Mr. Cerf."

The student newspaper says Cerf described another incident in the unedited manuscript of the book — that President Johnson claims he telephoned Attorney-General Robert Kennedy from Texas shortly after the assassination, asking for advice on whether or not he should be sworn in as president in Dallas or in Washington.

Cerf was quoted as saying that Kennedy now denies he received such a call.

Cerf, reached in New York, confirmed that he had made the remarks, but said, "I was under the impression I was talking off the record." He said he considered it a "wonderful book" and believes that it will influence history.

DONATED GRAIN BECOMES WAGES

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Spring is hunger time in Korea.

The season that should bring joy and new hope to Koreans brings only misery to thousands.

In the cities of Seoul and Mokpo, tenement dwellers now shivering in the nippy Korean wind face a bleak and hungry spring.

A searing drought last summer was followed by severe floods.

And for Koreans, who live in a predominantly agricultural country, droughts and floods are a catastrophe.

Seventy per cent of the population is engaged in farming, yet only a little more than a fifth of the country is suited to agriculture.

Poor soil and outdated farming methods contribute to the unhappy situation and each year Korea is short of its annual grain quota by hundreds of thousands of tons.

Korea is not expected to feed its own population until 1971 and foreign aid is badly needed.

Last year the Unitarian Service Committee, which is supported by funds like The Times' Share with Asian Children Fund, shipped 400,000 pounds of barley to Korea.

Much of it went to the hungriest Koreans whose names appear on USC relief lists.

But practical Koreans have found another use for Canadian grain: It becomes "wages" paid to otherwise unemployed laborers in massive reconstruction and reclamation projects at the rate of eight pounds (50 cents worth) for each working day.

One USC investment of 55,000 pounds of Canadian barley has accomplished this: 55,000 sq. feet of land has been reclaimed from Mokpo harbor, and the Korean work-

PRIVATE EYE DESCRIBES BIZARRE DEVICES

One of 'Better Collections' of Bugs

VANCOUVER (CP)—Private detective Angus Macdonald, a former Vancouver city police drug squad officer, told the royal commission on bugging Wednesday about some of the bizarre devices used to eavesdrop on people electronically.

The inquiry, under former county court judge R. A. Sargent, was called after bugging devices were found at a labor union convention last month.

Evidence has been given that Pat O'Neal, organizer for the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, paid another private detective to bug hotel rooms occupied by delegates to the convention of the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

Mr. Macdonald told the inquiry he was hired by the Canadian union to de-bug hotel rooms, and hired later to de-bug the union's headquarters in suburban Burnaby.

He explained he had one of the "better collections" of bugging and anti-bugging devices, and that many are sold on the open market to detective agencies and police forces.

While he was on the force, he said, he used to make his own equipment. "The sergeant didn't take any notice—just so's I got convictions," he said.

One of his gadgets, he testified, is briefcase size, and by concealing it and hooking it to a telephone line with a fine wire he could tape and record both sides of conversations. He said it was activated by picking up the receiver and would record for eight days.

Among his other equipment was a combination microphone-transmitter the size of a sugar cube, with an effective range of about two blocks.

He said he has "about two" of these, and a special AM-FM receiver for them made up "by a man in Richmond." Richmond is a Vancouver suburb.

With the drug squad, he used hearing aids to bug at a distance of 150 feet and a "spike" microphone that could be pushed into a wall and record. There was also a transmitter that could be carried to scramble voices in a crowd.

"This is to prevent people from bugging you," he said. "California call girls use it."

The pride of the collection, he said, was a $1,000 bug that sections that I had expected."

Election officials said only about 32 per cent of the eligible 253,000 voters showed up at the polls.

He said he is convinced Mr. Campbell will carry out many of the policies already launched under the four-year Rathie regime, including a downtown redevelopment scheme which would see new buildings constructed at the city's main intersection, Georgia and Granville.

Miss Rand, 21, said she was quite pleased at her showing. She polled seven per cent of the total vote.

"That's four times what Campbell said I'd get," she said.

TOPS POLL

Incumbent alderman Hugh Bird topped the poll with 49,528 votes. Other NPA incumbents elected for two-year terms were Halford Wilson, Earle Adams, Ernie Broome and Reg Atherton.

Marianne Linnell, Peter Graham and Ed Sweeney joined the NPA ranks on council. Incumbent Tom Alsbury, an independent, also regained his council seat.

The NPA continued its domination of the school board, seating eight of the nine trustees. Incumbents Robert Dundas, Betsy McDonald, Arthur Johnson, Frederick Rowell, Constance Spring, Eva New, Gordon McOuat and Mel Scott were all successful.

Independent James MacFarlane edged the NPA's George Holgate for the ninth seat.

The NPA won all seven parks board seats. Four incumbents, George Wainborn, Margaret Jack, George Pull and Andy Livingston, were joined by newcomers Lorne Brown, Sandy Robertson and Joseph Malkin.

. . . DISNEY

Shortly after his 63rd birthday, a newspaperman who was interviewing Disney was struck by his repetitious use of the phrase "it's fun" as he talked about his movies, Walt Disney Studios in Burbank, Disneyland and his life in general.

This led the writer to ask:

"What was the most rewarding thing in your life?"

Disney retorted:

"The whole damned thing! The fact I was able to build an organization and hold it. Some of the people at the studio have been with me for 35 years."

He then was asked to tell his biggest disappointment:

"Nothing," he replied. "I used to kid my wife about not having a son, but now I have two good sons-in-law. Oh, I've had little disappointments, but I've gotten over them."

OF RATHIE

Cabinet Split Over Endorsation

Not all of the provincial cabinet, much less the voters, were behind Premier Bennett's endorsation of Vancouver Mayor William Rathie's campaign for a third term.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson today revealed the cabinet split over the premier's first open intrusion into civic politics which turned into a disaster.

Significantly, Mr. Peterson is the cabinet's chief spokesman in Vancouver, the mantle he inherited when Attorney-General Robert Bonner was beaten in Vancouver-Point Grey and had to get back into the legislature as a Cariboo MLA.

Mr. Bennett had endorsed Mayor Rathie for re-election after the latter made a surprise endorsation during the Cariboo byelection of Mr. Bonner, the man he had unsuccessfully opposed as a Liberal candidate in the 1963 election.

SURPRISE WIN

Mr. Peterson was asked for comment, as he headed to a cabinet meeting here, on the surprise victory of Ald. Thomas Campbell over the premier's choice.

"I think Mr. Campbell will make a very capable mayor," he responded.

Asked if he had agreed with the premier's endorsation of Mr. Rathie, Mr. Peterson said:

"We all have our won views in regard to civic elections. I know that he (Campbell) was supported by members of our cabinet as well as our party."

'ACCORDING TO PRESS'

Asked why he appeared to be breaking with the Premier's choice, Mr. Peterson said that Mr. Bennett's endorsation of Mr. Rathie was only "according to press reports."

He said he personally knew Mr. Campbell and was sure that he would be as dedicated a mayor as Mr. Rathie had been.

He added that he felt his relations with Mr. Rathie, who had announced that he had voted for Mr. Peterson in the Sept. 12 general election, "are still very good."

NO BETS

Mr Peterson said it was obvious that many Social Credit party members had voted for both Mr. Campbell and Mr. Rathie but he personally had made no bets on the election or become involved in any way.

"I didn't participate in the campaign in any way but I know some members of the cabinet were supporting Mr. Campbell," he repeated.

Premier Bennett, in Vancouver for a civil service dinner, was not available for comment.

Mr. Bonner, who also was in Vancouver, declined to say whether he had favored Mr. Rathie or Mr. Campbell.

"I find provincial politics sufficiently engaging that I don't take part in civic politics," he said.

Asked if he thought the tit-for-tat endorsation of Mr. Rathie was a factor in his defeat, Mr. Bonner said he did not wish to speculate.

Britain Fails To Soften African Stand

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — African members of the UN Security Council were reported today to have refused to drop demands that Britain use force to cut off Rhodesia's oil supply despite Western warnings such demands are doomed to defeat.

Informed sources said Britain has failed to persuade the three African members — Nigeria, Uganda and Mali—to abandon their attempt to draft such an amendment onto the British resolution calling for mandatory sanctions against 12 Rhodesian exports, not including oil. The amendment introduced this week with the blessings of the 38 African UN members demands that Britain "prevent by all means the transport to Southern Rhodesia of oil or oil products."

Lord Caradon of Britain, who spent most of Wednesday in consultation with the African council members, was said to have pointed out th at Britain would have to throw a naval blockade around all of southern Africa to enforce such a ban.

"The whole idea is unrealistic," said a source close to the British delegation.

"Even if Britain had the warships available for such a massive blockade, she would refuse to take a step certain to bring her into direct confrontation with South Africa and Portugal."

SUPPLIES OIL

South Africa, which has been supplying much of Rhodesia's oil since Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith declared independence 13 months ago, is Britain's third biggest trading partner.

Western sources predicted that the amendment would get only five votes in the 15-nation council—the three African and the two Communist members, the Soviet Union and Bulgaria.

This would make it possible for Britain to abstain on the amendment and avoid using the veto.

Caradon is reported to have told the African members that his government is more favorable to their other oil amendment. This calls on UN members to refrain from allowing their territories or transport facilities to be used by anyone trying to ship oil to Rhodesia.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko told the council Wednesday that the British request for sanctions was meaningless unless oil was included.

WITHDRAWAL from an active leadership in politics was announced Wednesday by Pennsylvania Governor William W. Scranton. He will leave office on Jan. 17. Scranton told a press conference he will drop his activities in both national and state politics.

FULL DISCLOSURE

A-G To Seek National Plan On Loan Cost

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today said he will to to Ottawa this weekend to tell a federal-provincial conference that B.C. wants a national policy requiring disclosure of true interest rates.

He said the conference will discuss desirability of requiring credit firms to publish their full interest charges, setting a ceiling on allowable credit rates and instalment buying practices in general.

Mr. Bonner said his department has undertaken a study of the interest-disclosure proposal as promised in last spring's legislative session but it feels that a uniform policy should be adopted throughout Canada.

He said the conference will take place Monday but he will stay on in Ottawa to assist Premier Bennett at a finance ministers' meeting there Tuesday and Wednesday.

Step-Up Deplored

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — UN Secretary-General U Thant deplored today what he described as "the intensification of the bombing of North Vietnam" by the United States. Through a spokesman, he also expressed fear "it might lead to a wider war."

A spokesman gave Thant's views when asked for the secretary-general's comment on "the bombing of Hanoi."

Bank of B.C. Now Official

OTTAWA (CP) — After more than two years of parliamentary delays, the private bill to incorporate the Bank of British Columbia became law Wednesday.

The measure received royal assent from Chief Justice Robert Taschereau, acting as deputy to the Governor-General, shortly after the Senate concurred with amendments passed earlier by the Commons.

The new bank will have its headquarters in Vancouver and will be headed by Einar Gunderson, a former member of the B.C. cabinet and the chief fund raiser for the Social Credit party of Premier Bennett.

The amendment written into the bill by the Commons finance committee prohibits any government official from being an executive to the new bank.

The bill originally provided that a majority of the bank's directors and executives be B.C. residents, but this was deleted by the committee to strengthen the bank's national character.

The B.C. government originally proposed to own 25 per cent of the bank's shares, but this was opposed and the bill as passed does not involve any provincial ownership.

Nine other pieces of legislation, mostly minor, also were given royal assent. They included a measure granting eight paid statutory holidays and a two-week vacation to stevedores working for more than one company.

Chinese Embassy Damaged

HANOI (CP) — The Chinese embassy, damaged in an American air raid Wednesday, refused to accept incoming telephone calls today. Callers were repeatedly told by the embassy operator that the person they asked for was absent.

The North Vietnamese foreign ministry refused to add anything to Wednesday's official statement that "U.S. aircraft attacked a certain number of areas in Hanoi, including that which contains foreign embassies."

Journalists were invited by the ministry to visit certain parts of the city.

The embassy, a vast stone building dating back to the 1930s, presented its normal aspect, with no damage visible from the broad, tree-lined avenue on which it stands.

East European experts said a rocket hit the back of the building. Staff in neighboring embassies said the rocket exploded in a cloud of black smoke without apparently causing any casualties, but badly damaging the embassy's kitchens.
